AFT TO FIGHT ON; URE OF VICTORY

Be Nominated, as Before, ays McKinley, Without Either Illinois or Pennsylvania.

LEAD IN CONVENTION

nounces Roosevelt's Policies Socialistic, and Says It's Time the Party Calls a Halt.

LANDSLIDE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Roosevelt Gets 53 of the 64 Delegates Elected in Primaries and Will Also Have 12 at Large.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—"President Taft is in the fight to stay. He will be the nominee of the Republican Convention at Chicago," declared the President's campaign manager, Representative McKinley, to-day, in commenting on the result of the Pennsylvania primaries yesterday. And he added:

"It must not be forgotten that he was nominated four years ago without the votes of the States of Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, and Wisconsin. In this contest he is already assured of an overwhelming majority of the delegates from Indiana and New York and of a large number of delegates in Pennsylvania, none of whom voted for him in 1908."

The defeat of the Taft men in the Pennsylvania primaries yesterday was the one topic of conversation in Washington to-day. Such an overwhelming victory had not been expected by the Roosevelt men, who, in spite of their assertions to the contrary, did not even expect a majority, to say nothing of a landslide. Although Mr. McKinley claims 21 delegates for the President, the Taft publicity bureau admits that Roosevelt has 64 out of Pennsylvania's 76. The Roosevelt men claim 67, and believe they will have 70.

The latest figures from Pennsylvania give Roosevelt 65, including the 12 to be elected at the State Convention, which the Roosevelt forces will control, and Taft 11 delegates.

The effect upon other States, particularly Ohio and Massachusetts, is the problem that engrosses both camps. Massachusetts holds her primaries on April 30 and Ohio holds hers on May 21.

But what chiefly disturbs the Taft men is that they have come to understand the real intent of Roosevelt's policy in instituting contests in so many States. Hitherto they have regarded his course as inexplicable, in view of the fact that the National Committee would be sure to side with the Administration and dismiss the contests. Now they understand that in starting these contests Roosevelt was playing for the National Committee, and that Illinois, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Maine, and now Pennsylvania have made it by no means certain that the committee will not want to hedge, at least to the extent of deciding some of the contests Roosevelt's way. Since yesterday the attitude of the committee has become uncertain. This, it is now evident, is what Roosevelt has been playing for all along. There are already 164 contests.

McKinley Assails Roosevelt.

The Taft men here are thoroughly aroused. Mr. McKinley to-night issued one of the most savage statements that has yet appeared on either side. It is as follows:

"The outcome of the Pennsylvania primaries is plainly indicative of the fact that National issues are playing only a small part in some States in the campaign for the Republican nomination for President.

"Instead of constructive statesmanship being put forth in an effort to solve the problems before the country and as a bid for votes on the ground of merit, a Nation-wide campaign of willful and malicious misrepresentation, villification, and assault on the President of the United States has been substituted. Such a campaign, amounting in fact to a conspiracy, not only to humiliate the President personally, but to commit the Republican Party to rank Socialism, has not only been countenanced, but conducted by former President Theodore Roosevelt.

"The time has arrived to call a halt on such proceedings.

"President Taft, always mindful of the decencies of human conduct, believing that friendship is a sacred thing and that, like truth, it has been maintained even at a personal sacrifice, and also believing that the American people expect the occupant of the highest office in the gift of the Nation, as well as those who have formerly occupied it, to respect the dignity of that office, has, during the course of this campaign, patiently submitted to misrepresentation, villification, and insult without reply.

"The result is that his opponent has thrown all restraint to the winds. Senator Joseph M. Dixon, the National campaign manager of former President Roosevelt, has been permitted, without rebuke from his candidate, to insult the President of the United States. He has not only been permitted to charge the President with being 'a receiver of stolen goods' without protest, but former President Roosevelt has repeated the charge on the stump.

Calls Attacks Malicious.

"The time has now come when the American people will no longer sit idly by and see this unfair and malicious persecution and villification continued by a man, and by the friends of a man, who has already served two terms in the White House by the votes of the Republican Party, and who now, not only in violation of the unwritten law of the Republic, but in violation of his own solemn promise to the Nation, voluntarily given on the night of Nov. 8, 1904, is seeking a third term on a National platform so unrepublican in nature that he dare not discuss it himself as is shown by his recent hes in Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Hampshire.

e fact that this candidate is now ng to wear the mantle of Abraham n is evidence that the acme of gogism in this country has been ed.

ose States which have yet to elect tes to the Republican National Con n in Chicago might just as well now that the Republic as well Republican Party has been placed pardy by the issues raised by Theodore Roosevelt. They must realize that unwritten law of the Republic that n shall be President three terms unsurmountable obstacle to the suc of any party in any National elec m this country. They must realize the proposal of the recall of judges judicial decisions is not only un ican but rank Socialism. The duty

TROOPS AT CONVENTION HALL

Cook County Democrats Prepare for Trouble To-day.

CHICAGO, April 14.—An eleventh-hour victory for control of to-morrow's Democratic Convention was scored by the Sullivan forces over the Hearst-Harrison faction to-night when an injunction was issued by Judge M. L. McKinley of the Superior Court, restraining the carrying out of County Judge John E. Owen's order, which placed a Republican in the position of Temporary Chairman of the convention.

It was rumored to-night that Judge Owens might refuse to recognize Judge McKinley's injunction order and that the fight to-morrow morning would be even more intense than had been anticipated. It was said that Judge Owens would obey only a State Supreme Court order, and would insist upon Anthony Czarnecki, Republican member of the Election Board, acting as temporary Chairman of the Convention.

Armed men were facing each other as the hour for the opening of the convention drew near. In the armory of the Seventh Regiment, I. N. G., where the convention is to be held, 120 guardsmen slept to-night. Outside was a cordon of city police to be reinforced later by hundreds of other police and as many more Special Deputy Sheriffs. Chief of Police McWeeny and Sheriff Michael Zimmer will command the Sheriffs and police in person.

Mayor Harrison became angered when he learned of the presence of the National Guardsmen at the armory, and in addition to sending a telegram to Gov. Deneen demanding that the militia be kept away from the convention hall he asked Major Moriarty, commander of the Seventh Regiment, to refrain from any interference with the police arrangements. The Mayor declared that the presence of the guardsmen at the armory to protect State property was but a subterfuge.

Maj. Moriarty answered the Mayor by declaring that he would have a squad of men on duty in the armory under the regimental Adjutant, Capt. Thomas T. Octigan, with orders to protect Government and State property.

I. W. W. TO STRIKE BACK.

Say They Will Send Great Forces Into Los Angeles and Other Cities.

John Walsh, Organizer of the Greater New York District Committee of the Haywood branch of the Industrial Workers of the World, announced yesterday that the organization was preparing to send committees, in many instances of 1,000 men each, into cities throughout the United States where Vigilance Committees had been active in driving I. W. W. organizers out of town. He said that 600 men already were on their way to Spokane, Wash., and that similar committees would be sent to Fresno, Oakland, Los Angeles, and San Diego, Cal.; to Missoula, Mont.; Kansas City, Vancouver, and Aberdeen, Wash. Jack Mosby, a son of the famous Confederate leader, will lead the Los Angeles committee, said Walsh.

He announced also that the I. W. W. was planning a strike of 60,000 textile workers in New England and 30,000 in New Jersey as a protest against the "suppression of free speech," as Walsh characterized the refusal of the Garfield, N. J., authorities to allow strikers to meet there.

An appeal will be made to Gov. Wilson first, and if he fail to act the strike will be started. Walsh said the I. W. W. also demanded that its organizers who have been jailed in New Jersey and New England be liberated.

TALE OF A LAW MADE IN JAIL.

Jersey Inspectors Investigate Strange Stories of Laxities.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 14.—The Board of Inspectors in charge of the State prison, which has been investigating alleged irregularities at the institution in the sending out of communications from prisoners without the usual supervision and the smuggling of money with which the convicts enjoyed privileges contrary to the rules, is trying to trace a story that a bill for the Legislature was framed by a convict forger, with the connivance of former Headkeeper George O. Osborne, by which it was intended to reduce prison sentences by one-third. This bill has already become a law, and allows the Prison Inspectors, upon application of a convict who has served two-thirds of his sentence and who has a good record, to go free on parole.

The law, it is asserted, was designed especially for the Paterson murderers, Death, McAllister, and Campbell, who got thirty-year sentences for killing Jennie Bosschieter. The fourth Paterson man involved in the murder was George J. Kerr, who received a fifteen-year sentence and who was released at the expiration of his term last February with time allowance for good behavior. It was originally intended, it is said, that the bill should become effective at the time of Kerr's release, so that all four convicts could be released together, but that this plan miscarried.

As the result of the investigation the law which was passed last week over Gov. Wilson's veto may be repealed when the Legislature meets on Tuesday.

KILLED IN STREET DUEL.

Men Quarrel and Then Fire at Each Other Until One Drops.

Two men stepped from the Café Gambrinus, at 170 Thompson Street, about 8:30 o'clock last night, and engaged in a heated argument on the sidewalk outside the place. Suddenly the men drew revolvers and stepping back from each other so that about five feet separated them, they began to shoot.

Persons in the street dashed for cover, dodging into doorways and scurrying around the corner into West Houston Street. From the weapons of the two men sounded report after report until in all seven shots had been fired. At the last of them one of the men dropped to the sidewalk. The other rushed into the café.

Policeman McCune heard the reports of the shots and ran up. He heard of the duel and ran into the café after the man who had escaped. The frightened proprietor and others in the place said the man had run right through the café and out a rear door. McCune went the same way, but found no trace of the man.

Friends meantime had lifted the man from the sidewalk and carried him into a drugstore near by. Dr. Nicholson came from St. Vincent's Hospital. He found the man dead. One bullet had hit him under the heart. He was identified as John Alphano of 172 Thompson Street. He had been seen in the café early in the evening with the man with whom he quarreled, but none of Alphano's friends would admit knowing who the other man was.

STRONG WARNING SENT TO MEXICO

American Life and Property Must Be Protected, We Tell Madero and Orozco.

VIRTUALLY AN ULTIMATUM

Maltreatment of Our Citizens Will Be Resented and Mexico Held Responsible.

OROZCO ACCUSED OF MURDER

Fountain's Execution So Termed in Instructions to Ambassador Wilson —Rebels' Agents Here Say Fountain Was a Mexican.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The murder of American citizens in Mexico, even those taken as prisoners of war, must stop. Warning, couched in strong diplomatic language and equivalent to an ultimatum, was served to-day upon Mexico that the Government and people of that country will be held responsible strictly for the protection of American life and property.

This applies both to the Mexican Government and the revolutionary forces under Gen. Pascaal Orozco. Both sides are warned that the execution of Americans taken prisoner is regarded by the United States Government as "practical murder" and that retaliation by the Mexican Government upon Americans captured from the rebel ranks will not be tolerated.

This warning, the strongest yet given to the Mexican Government and the rebel leaders, was sent at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the form of a lengthy telegram to the American Asbassador at the City of Mexico, and in a separate despatch to the American Consul at Ciudad Juarez, with instructions to forward it immediately to Marion Letcher, the American Consul at Chihuahua. The cablegram is signed by Huntington Wilson, as Acting Secretary of State, and was sent by direction of President Taft. The dispatch sent to the American Ambassador at the City of Mexico contains instructions that it be delivered to the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Madero Government. The other copy of the warning, sent to Consul Letcher, is to be used in serving formal notice on Gen. Pascaal Orozco, that the "practical murder" of American citizens in Mexico by the rebel forces must cease.

The action taken to-day means that the American Government will not tolerate the execution of Americans taken prisoners, either by the Madero forces from rebel ranks or by the Orozco forces from the Federal ranks; that such prisoners, wearing uniforms, must be treated humanely and according to the rules of war and international war. The dispatch from Huntington Wilson to Consul Letcher directs him to inform Gen. Orozco that this Government insists that the rebels must recognize the Consular officers of this Government and communications sent through them from the American Government to the rebel leaders. This is the result of the public statement issued by Gen. Orozco on April 12, in which he declared he will no longer recognize Marion Letcher as American Consul at Chihuahua.

The Government of the United States must insist and demand that American citizens who may be taken prisoners, whether by one party or the other, as participants in the present insurrectionary disturbances, shall be dealt with in accordance with the broad principles of equitable justice and humanity, as well as in accordance with the principles of international law which may be involved, and to which the people of Mexico have given their assent and adherence in numerous international engagements. This Government must hold the Mexican people strictly responsible for any departure from such principles.

Notwithstanding press reports that certain Mexican officers have announced a contrary policy, the Government of the United States has every confidence in the disposition of the Government in Mexico in the premises, and must request that appropriate instructions be immediately issued to the proper military officers and officials in the sense indicated.

"Letcher reports receiving a letter from Orozco which states that in view of nonrecognition of belligerency on the part of the United States, the insurrectionary heads would refuse to recognize consular representatives of the United States, and that henceforth he should not address the military leader of the insurrection on behalf of this Government.

"The department is sending Letcher a copy of the above quoted instructions, is directing him to deliver a copy to Orozco, with a statement that it sets forth the attitude which must be assumed by this Government, and directing him to make further representation as follows:

The Government and people of the United States have viewed with grave concern the practical murder under the positive order of one of your chief lieutenants of an American citizen who is reported to have been taken prisoner during or at the end of a regular engagement, the prisoner said to have been dressed in regular uniform and obviously one of the regular forces of the established Government of Mexico. The Government of the United States must insist, in so far as the treatment of American citizens taken prisoners by whatever force is concerned, that the rules and principles accepted by civilized nations as controlling their actions in time of war shall be followed and observed, and the Government of the United States must give notice that any deviation from such a course and, indeed, any maltreatment of any American citizen will be deeply resented by the American Government and people and must be fully answered for by the Mexican people, thus tending to difficulties and obligations which is to the interest of all true Mexican patriots, as it is the desire of the United States, to avoid.

"You will also call this to the attention of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and will at the same time point out that the press reports received here state that Gen. Villa has threatened that if Orozco murders American citizens taken prisoners from the Federals he will retaliate by murdering American citizens taken prisoners from the rebels. You will, while pointing out the utter inhumanity of such action, call attention to the fact that retaliation, if it be invoked by the Federal forces, should certainly never be used against American citizens.

"HUNTINGTON WILSON."

The Official Warning.

The instructions to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Letcher are in these terms:

"You will immediately communicate the following to the Minister for Foreign affairs:

The enormous destruction, constantly increasing, of valuable American properties, in the course of the present unfortunate disturbances; the taking of American life, contrary to the principles governing such matters among all civilized nations; the increasing dangers to which all American citizens in Mexico are subjected, and the seemingly possible indefinite continuance of this unfortunate situation, compel the Government of the United States to give notice that it expects and must demand that American life

STEINHOFF, HERMAN C., Haworth; internal injuries.

STEINHOFF, Mrs. HERMAN C., Haworth; internal injuries.

WEINER, Mrs. W. H., Closter, N. J.; eyes injured.

Dr. Ward and Dr. Richardson, both of Closter, attended about twenty who suffered minor injuries but did not get their names.

The crowd had gathered chiefly from neighboring parishes in New Jersey for the purpose of laying the cornerstone. After this ceremony fifteen priests led a procession around the structure and blessed the foundation. Entering the church, the priests gathered before a cross, about five feet high and formed of two rough boards, which marked the chancel. Most of those who had witnessed the ceremony followed them into the church.

Father Borgan of Plainfield began to preach. He had hardly completed his first sentence when there was a puff of dust along the wall on each side and the floor was rent its entire length, so that it fell into two equal parts.

The broken ends of the two sections fell to the dirt basement, ten feet below, and the 300 persons were wedged in a narrow compass between the broken sections.

Tons of Lumber Slid Over On Them.

Piled along each side of the church were several thousand feet of three-inch yellow pine lumber, to be used in finishing the flooring and interior of the church. When the floor caved in at the centre the piles of lumber, which stood five feet high, toppled over and slid upon the struggling heap which filled up the break from the basement almost to the floor level. This weight, added to the weight of the bodies on the top layers, was fatal to two of the women at the bottom of the mass.

The crash and the screams of the injured were heard by those waiting outside the church. Those who ran in by the front entrance found that it was impossible by that method to reach those who were imprisoned, as they were under several tons of lumber, and were impeded by the struggles of others in their efforts to escape.

Rescuers finally got to work from each end of the basement, dragging forth those

NEW LINER TITANIC HITS AN ICEBERG; SINKING BY THE BOW AT MIDNIGHT; WOMEN PUT OFF IN LIFE BOATS; LAST WIRELESS AT 12:27 A. M. BLURRED

LATEST NEWS FROM THE SINKING SHIP.

CAPE RACE, N. F., Sunday night, April 14.—At 10:25 o'clock to-night the White Star line steamship Titanic called "C. Q. D." to the Marconic wireless station here, and reported having struck an iceberg. The steamer said that immediate assistance was required.

Half an hour afterward another message came reporting that they were sinking by the head and that women were being put off in the lifeboats.

The weather was calm and clear, the Titanic's wireless operator reported, and gave the position of the vessel as 41.46 north latitude and 50.14 west longitude.

The Marconi station at Cape Race notified the Allan liner Virginian, the captain of which immediately advised that he was proceeding for the scene of the disaster.

The Virginian at midnight was about 170 miles distant from the Titanic and expected to reach that vessel about 10 A. M. Monday.

2 A. M., Monday.—The Olympic at an early hour this, Monday, morning, was in latitude 40.32 north and longitude 61.18 west. She was in direct communication with the Titanic, and is now making all haste toward her.

The steamship Baltic also reported herself as about 200 miles east of the Titanic, and was making all possible sped toward her.

The last signals from the Titanic were heard by the Virginian at 12:27 A. M.

Narrowly Escaped Collision with the American Liner New York When Leaving Port.

Special to The New York Times.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 14.—A wireless dispatch received to-night by the Allan line officials here from Capt. Gambell of the steamer Virginian, states that the White Star liner Titanic struck an iceberg off the Newfoundland Coast and flashed out wireless calls for immediate assistance.

The Virginian put on full speed and headed for the Titanic.

No particulars have been received as to the extent of the damage sustained by Titanic.

The Virginian sailed from Halifax at midnight on Saturday night, and would probably be 300 miles off this coast when she picked up the calls from the Titanic for assistance.

The Allan liner has only about 200 passengers on board and would have ample accommodations for a large number of persons in case a transfer from the Titanic was necessary. The Virginian is a mail steamer, and so she is not likely to take the Titanic in tow.

MONTREAL, April 14.—The new White Star liner Titanic is reported in advices received here late to-night to have struck an iceberg.

The news was received at the Allan line offices here in a wireless message from the Captain of the steamer Virginian of that line.

It was stated that the Virginian had been in wireless communication with the Titantic, that she had reported being in collision with an iceberg and asked for assistance.

The Virginian reported that she was on her way to the Titanic.

The Virginian sailed from Halifax this morning, and at the time the wireless was sent she is reckoned to have been about abeam of Cape Race. She has 200 passengers on board, but can accommodate 900 more of the Titanic's passengers should their removal be necessary.

The message from the Virginian's Captain was sent by wireless to Cape Race, and thence by cable to Halifax, and then by wire to Montreal.

The Allan Line officials here expect to hear further news at any moment.

OTHER SHIPS WITHIN CALL.

Many Near the Titanic's Course—Prominent Persons Aboard.

The White Star liner Titanic, the largest ship in the world, which sailed from Southampton on last Wednesday, is on her maiden voyage to New York and has onboard a large list of passengers, among whom are Major Archibald Butt, President Taft's military aid; Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, J. E. Widener of Philadelphia, Robert W. Daniels, a Philadelphia banker; Mrs. J. Stuart White, the Countess Rothes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Harris, Clarence Moore of Washington; F. D. BLACK HAND KILLING ON SCHEDULE TIME

IS CALLED FROM THE TABLE

Forgets Threats After Merrymaking, Enters Shop, and Is Shot Dead by Men Who Escape.

About a month ago, Filipo Lemano, a prosperous Italian grocer and wine merchant, who kept one store at 119 Harrison Street, Brooklyn, over which he lived, and operated several others in Brooklyn, received a Black Hand letter demanding $1,000. The grocer decided to ignore it.

Then, two weeks ago, there came another letter, and this one threatened that his home and store would be blown up if he failed to deposit $1,000 in a bread tin and leave it on the steps of his store. Again Lemano decided that he would not tell the police, though this letter left him somewhat worried.

When a few days ago he got a third letter warning him that his own death would follow his failure to leave the $1,000, Lemane called in his friends, Nicola Signocelli and Deluse Gricola, who live in the same house. They advised him to go to the police, but Lemano was unwilling to do so.

"They give me until 8 o'clock to-night," he told his friends yesterday morning. "Then if I have not left the money they will kill me. Let us, therefore, dine together to-night in my house. You are my good friends, and if they kill me they must fight all three of us. Will you do this?"

Signocelli and Gricola were born in the same town in Italy where Lemano had spent his boyhood. The men had come to this country years ago together. They promised that they would stand by the grocer.

With Mrs. Lemano and the two children the grocer and his friends enjoyed a fine dinner. They forgot all about the Black Hand letter and its threat, and the time passed until it was after 8 o'clock, and still no attempt had been made on Lemano's life. But then some one called from downstairs:

"Oh, Filipo. Come down a minute. I want to speak to you."

There was no thought of the Black Hand in Lemano's mind as he asked his friends to excuse him a moment and ran downstairs. An instant afterward Mrs. Lemano and the others were startled by the report of a revolver shot. Almost instantly there came a second, a third, and then a cry from Lemano.

At the first report Mrs. Lemano had started for the stairs. Her husband's friends started also, revolvers in their hands, but the wife was quicker than they. As she reached the foot of the stairs she saw three men run from the front door of the grocery store. In the doorway leading from the hall to the store lay the body of her husband.

He was wounded just over the heart, and as Mrs. Lemano leaned over him he whispered:

"Take care of the children. They have killed me."

Mrs. Lemano fell across her husband's body. His friends rushed into the street but the men whom Mrs. Lemano had seen rushing from the store were no longer in sight. Policeman Lloyd of the Amity Street Station had seen them, too, and he ran in the direction they had taken. But they turned a corner before he reached them, and when he got there they had disappeared.

Lloyd returned to the store and summoned Dr. Fischer from the Long Island College Hospital. The surgeon said that Lemano must have died immediately after he had whispered to his wife.

Detectives scoured the Italian section of Brooklyn last night, but they admitted that the task of finding Lemano's murderers was almost hopeless, and Mrs. Lemano could give no description at all of the men. Their one hope is that one of the men may be wounded. Lemano's fingers clutched his revolver, from which one shot had been fired. The police hope it found a mark in one of his murderers.

"DON'TS" FOR HUSBANDS.

Rockefeller Pastor Offers Ten as a Solution of the Divorce Evil.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 14.—The Rev. Dr. W. W. Bustard, pastor of John D. Rockefeller's Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, in a prelude to his regular sermon last night gave these ten "Don'ts" for husbands as a solution of the divorce evil:

Don't forget your wife wants to be loved as much after marriage as before.

Don't arrange for your second marriage before your first wife is either dead or divorced.

Don't compel your wife to ask for a cent every time she needs one.

Don't expect your wife to work fourteen hours a day when you work only eight.

Don't carry all your religion in your wife's name.

Don't let your neighbors pity your children because you were their father.

Don't gossip—men should not encroach on a woman's privilege.

Don't try to run a 40 horse power automobile on a 4 horse power salary.

Don't live beyond your means, or according to your mean-ness.

Don't forget the best legacy you can leave your family is the memory of a good husband and a kind father.

"All the honeymooning of life ought not to end with the honeymoon," said Mr. Bustard, supplementing his "don'ts." "A man should always remember it is no sin to kiss his own wife. Love is not for courtship alone, but for life."

Mr. Bustard is to continue these admonitions with ten "don'ts" for wives.

STUDENTS PREFER DRY TIME.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 14.—According to a canvass of 1,200 students of Cornell University, conducted by the Somerset Y. A. Society, devoted to temperance, about 65 per cent. of the students are in favor of "dry" dinners, "dry" smokers, and other student functions.

The majority of those who were canvassed also expressed the sentiment that the alumni at their reunions should not set a bad example to the undergraduates in the way of drinking, and that the managers of the student publications should eliminate all liquor advertisements.

A pony glass of ANGOSTURA BITTERS before retiring for insomnia.—Adv.

American Line is due here to-morrow, and should be close enough to reach the Titanic in a few hours' steaming. The Cunarder Mauretania, the fastest vessel in the world, is also bound this way and should have been within the Titanic's wireless zone.

To the southeast of her and also bound westward at noon on Sunday was the Prinz Adelbert of the Hamburg-American Line, bound from Hamburg for Philadelphia. A little west of the Prinz Adelbert and to the southward was the Steiermark of the same line, bound here. Almost directly south of the latter was the Amerika was the Prinz Friedrich Wil- Plymouth. To the direct west of the Amerika was the rPinz Friedrich Wilhelm, the North German Lloyd liner, bound from this port to Plymouth In her vicinity and directly south was the White Star Line steamship Baltic.

The last report received in New York from the Titanic was at 2:15 A. M. yesterday. She was then 1,284 miles east of Sandy Hook, and in that message her commander said that he expected to reach New York in time to dock late to-morrow afternoon.

Since that message no word was received from the Titanic until the news from Montreal last night.

The Titanic undoubtedly ran into the same ice field off the Grand Banks that was reported by the Cunarder Carmania on her arrival yesterday. The ice was so thickly jammed that crevices between the pieces could not be seen, and great icebergs, to the number of at least twenty-five, were drifting about in the field. The French liner Niagara, which is due here to-day, encountered the ice, and in making her way through it had two holes stove below the water line. The steamers Kura and Lord Cromer, both of which have arrived in New York in the last few days, were damaged in making their way through the ice packs.

Last Wednesday when the Titanic left Southampton for New York a disaster was narrowly averted as the Titanic passed from her berth out into the open stream. The big liner sucked the water between herself and the quay to such a degree that the strain broke the hawsers with which the American liner New York was moored to the quayside. For a while it looked as if the two vessels would collide.

The New York drifted helplessly stern first toward the Titanic and had not the Titanic reversed her engines and come to a dead stop it is certain that the Titanic would not now be on her way to New York. Tugs that were near by steamed to the aid of the New York and pulled her back to the quay. As soon as the New York was made fast the Titanic got under way toward the open water.

At the piers of the White Star Line at the foot of Twentieth Street, North River, it was stated at 1:20 o'clock this morning that up to that time the line had not received any word from the Titanic beyond the information conveyed in press dispatches.

The Titanic is a luxuriously fitted out vessel. One may get an idea as to the immensity of the Titanic when it is known that in length she will stretch over four city blocks and would be considerably over 100 feet higher, standing on her end, than the highest building in New York.

The vessel has accommodations for 3,500 passengers and carries a crew of 860. She was built in the River Laffan at Belfast and was launched May 31 of last year. Among those who saw her take the water was J. Pierpont Morgan.

Capt. Smith, the commander of the Titanic, was in command of the Titanic's sister ship Olympic at the time of her collision with the cruiser Hawke in the Solent last September.

CARMANIA IN ICE FIELD.

Heard Niagara Calling for Help and Saw Other Ships Caught.

A great ice field in which there are many bergs, some of them mountain-like in size, and in which three ocean steamships are known to have been damaged, and at least one full-rigged ship and one fishing smack are imprisoned, has drifted into the westbound transatlantic track about 1,000 miles east of Sandy Hook. The Cunarder Carmania, in yesterday from Liverpool, ran into this ice field. Although the big vessel got out without damage, she nevertheless had a perilous time while in the field, and everybody breathed easier when the bergs had been left behind.

The French liner Niagara, from Havre, ran into the ice about the same time as the Carmania, but she did not have the good luck of the Cunarder. The Niagara, which is due to arrive here this morning, had two holes knocked in her bottom, and many of her plates dented and twisted. At one time her Captain considered his condition so serious that he wirelessed to the Carmania for help. The Carmania was on her way to render aid when a second message said the Niagara had been patched up and would be able to proceed without assistance.

For a week the ice field has covered the westbound track off the Grand Banks, and besides the Carmania and the Niagara, the steamers Excelsior, Kura, and Lord Cromer, which have arrived at New York, and the Armenian, which arrived at Boston, have reported battles with the ice. The Lord Cromer and the Kura were damaged below the water line. The Kura had about twenty-five of her plates ripped off, while the Lord Cromer had about the same number dented and otherwise damaged. The Armenian reported that the field was at least seventy miles long and half as many miles wide when she encountered it.

The Carmania had on board 1,400 passengers, of whom 400 were in the cabin. She entered the ice field last Thursday afternoon at about 1:30 o'clock. It was ice everywhere, according to the passengers, the great cakes being so closely jammed together that it was impossible to see a crevice between them. A heavy swell prevailed at the time, and the passengers described the upward and downward motion of the ice as both beautiful and weird. The sun was shining brightly and the glitter of the ice field made the spectacle all the more magnificent.

Picks Up Niagara's Call for Help.

For three hours the Carmania was in the sea of ice, and at times as far as the eye could see there was nothing but ice, with here and there a great berg to break the monotony of the picture. One berg was described as being like a great mountain of chalk, and one of the passengers said it looked to be about 40,000 tons in size. When Capt. Dow was asked about this he said the passenger had been far too conservative, and then added laughingly, "Forty million tons would be more like it."

It was about 3 P. M. when the Carmania passed the chalk-colored berg. She passed within a quarter of a mile of it, and the passengers all agreed they never had seen anything more beautiful. Another big berg stood out conspicuously in a fleet of twenty-five bergs because of the fact that its top was a perfect plateau that appeared to be as smooth as a billiard table.

The twenty-five big bergs were grouped in a comparatively small area, and all of them were in view from one side or the other of the liner all the time. Six were lined up in majestic fashion on the horizon. Many of them were only a few hundred yards away when the Carmania, proceeding at what the official log calls "dead slow," passed them.

Capt. Dow never left the bridge a second during the hours he was feeling his way through the ice, and the sirens of the liner were constantly sounding out the warning of the ship's progress for the benefit of other ships that might be in the same fix but not in view. It would have been easy for a ship as big as the Carmania to have been within hearing distance of the siren and yet have been hidden from view by one of the big bergs.

Miss Claudia Sturm, one of the Carmania's young women passengers, said yesterday that she had never seen anything so grand and inspiring as the great ice field and the big bergs that dotted it. "It was beautiful," she said, "but it was mighty scary. The heaving up and down of the ice because of the great swells was awe inspiring, and I was glad when we got back into clear water where there was no field ice and no bergs."

1,000 Passengers on Damaged Liner.

The Carmania still was in the ice pack when the wireless message from the Captain of the French liner Niagara was received. In that message the French skipper said that two holes had been stove in the Niagara below the water line. The Carmania, which had been compelled to change her course in order to get free of the ice field, was heading in the direction of the Niagara's position when the second message was received, saying that the liner would be able to continue without any assistance, and it is presumed that the crew was able to effect repairs without outside aid, although some of the passengers said that a message had been received to the effect that another liner was alongside the Niagara.

Capt. Dow after the Carmania docked met the reporters with a smile. "Really," he said. "I never saw so much ice and so little whisky and lime juice in al my life before. Had the ingredients been handy, there would have been a highball for every man in the world.

"I entered the ice field," the skipper went on, "on a southwest course, and when I saw the extent of the field I tried to find a northwest passage out of it. Failing to find one, I was compelled to follow a northeast course, in order to get clear of the ice. In other words, it was necessary for me to swing back to a certain extent over my course.

"The ice was on all sides of me, and was trembling, undulating, and rasping, and every once in a while we would run across a growler."

"What's a growler?" Capt. Dow was asked.

"It is a piece of ice," he replied, "that has become detached from a berg or larger piece of ice, and which, beating against the larger pieces, makes the sound that we call the ice growl."

"How about that plateau berg the passengers are telling about?" was another question put to the skipper.

"Yes, that is right. It was a wonderful sight, and when I first saw it I thought for a moment it was the hulk of a ship, but after we passed it I saw the green reflection, and that, of course, set my doubts at rest," he answered.

"In three hours," continued Capt. Dow, "on Thursday afternoon we passed twenty-five bergs. The passengers never saw anything like it before. On the bridge I am seventy feet above the water line, yet there were times when I could not see a thing but ice, and at no time did I see a piece of ice that was smaller than a lifeboat. We passed a full-rigged ship in the field. She was nodding in the swell, bobbing up and down, but apparently was in no danger."

Soon after the sailing ship was passed the Carmania passed a fishing smack, which, like the big sailer, was fast in the ice and curtseying with the swell. When the Carmania cleared the ice field she ran into a dense fog, and had to come almost to a dead stop. The fog soon lifted, however, and the liner headed full speed for New York, arriving off the Hook only a few hours behind her schedule.

The Niagara probably has 1,000 passengers on board. On her last voyage this way she brought 976. The Excelsior, which arrived from Rotterdam yesterday, reported an experience in the ice pack similar to that of the Carmania. She also reported seeing a sailing ship fast in the ice. This is believed to be the same ship sighted by the Carmania.

THE CARMANIA'S PASSENGERS.

Capt. Fermor-Hesketh, Whose Brother Disappeared, Among Them.

The Cunarder Carmania had among her passengers Mr. and Mrs. H. M. T. Beekman, Patrick Francis Murphy, Capt. and Mrs. T. Fermor-Hesketh, the Right Rev. Bishop I. B. Scott of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Sir Charles Ross, and Ronald Lambert Tree.

Capt. Fermor-Hesketh is a brother of Lieut. Fermor-Hesketh of the Royal Fusiliers, who disappeared in October, 1910, and not one word of whom has since been heard. Lieut. Hesketh was last seen on board a steamer bound from Holyhead to Kingstown, Ireland. Recently it was reported that he had been seen in Montana and an investigation was made. Capt. Fermor-Hesketh received a cablegram from his mother when he landed yesterday, telling him that the man in Montana was not his brother.

Capt. Fermor-Hesketh is a candidate for Parliament from the Heywood district of Lancashire. He says he believes a new election will be called on the Home Rule bill and that if it is the Unionists will succeed to power. With his wife, who was a Miss Breckinridge of San Francisco, he is on his way West to visit relatives.

Others on the Carmania were Capt. E. C. Bald, G. C. Black, Gilbert W. Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Pennock, E. S. Powells, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William M. Ramsdell, Ingersoll D. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sturm, the Misses Sturm, and A. M. Tree.

LINERS THAT HAVE HIT BERGS.

Columbia and Kronprinz Wilhelm Were in Collisions on Way Here.

The last big passenger steamship to come into port after an encounter with an iceberg was the Anchor liner Columbia, from Glasgow. The collision between the steamship and the iceberg happened on Aug. 2, 1911, in a dense fog when the vessel was 150 miles north and 57 miles east of Cape Race. Tons of ice fell upon her forecastle and her stem was smashed into the water line and the upper part of her bow plates was driven back ten feet. Mrs. Elizabeth Ogilvie, a passenger, was knocked down and had an ankle broken. Several members of the crew received minor injuries.

The North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm collided with an iceberg on July 8, 1907, while plowing her way through the darkness of the early morning. The vessel showed the marks of the collision on her arrival here two days later. Her bow was dented and along her starboard side were the marks made by the mass of ice that scraped her length, taking off the paint. The collision took place off the Banks and the Kronprinz Wilhelm was making nearly 16 knots. It is probable that this reduced speed did much to avert a more serious accident.

On her Western trip from Rotterdam the steamship Volturno had a narrow escape from the ice in May, 1909. While off Newfoundland the horizon from the deck of the steamship was bounded on all sides by ice, and as she entered into the field she was "pinched" by the moving ice. Great pieces went grinding along her sides and there was much excitement on board. On May 9 an iceberg was reported off the starboard bow. Hardly had this berg passed astern than another came down upon her. The skipper managed to keep her from colliding with the great masses of ice that went past, some so close that great chunks of ice fell upon the Volturno's deck. The vessel came to a stop in the fog and when this lifted she lay in a narrow strip of water, inclosed in a horseshoe mass of ice.

LOST IN RUNAWAY BALLOON.

Pilot Thrown Out, the Gas Bag Flies Away with Passenger.

VOSSONAY, Switzerland, April 14.—The Swiss Aero Club's balloon St. Gothard is somewhere above the clouds with one man aboard who had never before made an ascent.

The balloon was returning from a flight to-day with a pilot and three passengers. During an attempt to land the basket was blown against a rock by a heavy gust and the pilot and two of the passengers, together with twelve sacks of sand, were thrown out.

Thus lightened, the balloon shot up to a height of 15,000 feet and whirled away with the third passenger, who is totally ignorant of ballooning.

FIRST EAGLE SCOUT NAMED.

Honor Goes to Arthur Eldred of Rockville Centre, L. I.

The National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America has awarded to Arthur R. Eldred, a scout of Rockville Centre, L. I., the honor of being the first Eagle Scout in North America. The title of Eagle Scout goes only to the youth who has won distinction in the three intermediate stages of scoutcraft, as a tenderfoot, second class scout, and first class scout.

Eldred wears twenty-one badges for excellency in as many useful activities. His specialties are handicraft, poultry farming, painting, horsemanship, dairying, bicycling, cooking, chemistry, electricity, gardening, pathfinding, and swimming. His left coat sleeve is so covered with medals that there is scarcely room for another one. He is, the judges decided, a 100 per cent. scout.

LAWYERS TO TALK RECALL.

Leading Attorneys from Forty States Will Exchange Views in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Representatives of the Bar Associations of forty States will meet in Chicago April 26 and 27 at the annual convention of the Illinois Bar Association, to discuss judicial recall and reform in court procedure.

For the purpose of learning the exact sentiment of lawyers and jurists from all parts of the country on the judicial recall question, officials of the Illinois organization sent out invitations to attend this meeting to leading members of State Bar Associations in each State in the Union. To date acceptances have been received from members of forty State associations.

ROOSEVELT TO HAVE 65 IN PENNSYLVANIA

53 Delegates Elected, and He Will Have the 12 Chosen by the State Convention.

LEAVES TAFT ONLY ELEVEN

Means End of Penrose as State Leader, Politicians Say—Dalzell May Be Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt's victory in yesterday's primaries was even more sweeping than indicated in late returns last night. All the districts have now been heard from and the full count gives the former President fifty-three of the sixty-four delegates elected to the Republican National Convention and more than enough delegates to the State Convention to assure control. This means that the twelve delegates at large from Pennsylvania will also go to Chicago instructed for the Colonel, thus making his total sertngth in this State 65.

Of the eleven Taft delegates elected, seven are from Philadelphia and two from Lancaster County, which forms the Ninth Congress District; one from the Twentieth and one from the Twenty-fourth District. But the President may lose three of these, as William S. Vare, Recorder of Deeds of Philadelphia, and Hugh Black, Receiver of Taxes, who were elected delegates from the First District, and Henry C. Ransley, elected a delegate in the Third District, though favorable to Taft before the primaries, were uninstructed. They all said to-day that the sentiment of the people seemed to be for Roosevelt and that he would be the Presidential nominee.

Roosevelt Men Surprised.

Politicians look upon the triumph of Col. Roosevelt with astonishment. His supporters were without a State organization or without an organization in many of the thirty-two Congress districts.

The regular Republican organization headed by United States Senator Boies Penrose, which has withstood the fury of many a political storm, received a crushing defeat in the loss of control of the State Convention. It is the first time in the present generation that it has lost control of that body.

The significance of the Roosevelt victory can be realized when it is remembered that the delegates in control of the State Convention have the power to select the State Chairman, and under the party rules the delegation to the National Convention elects the National Committeeman. At present Senator Penrose holds both places.

It was said, however, by a prominent member of the State Committee to-night that some of the Roosevelt delegates elected to the State Convention are regular organization men, who, while voting for Roosevelt delegates, will still stand by the State organization. But the stand of Vare, Black, and Ransley seems to refute this report.

Some of the leaders of the Republican organization refrained from personally entering the primary as candidates for National delegates, as it had been expected they would be selected as delegates at large. Among those understood to have been looked upon as the likely delegates were Senators Penrose and Oliver, Gov. Tener, Secretary of State Robert McAfee, and State Senator James P. McNichol, the leader of the party organization in Philadelphia.

Light Vote Polled.

The vote polled was light. In some districts it did not go much over 50 per cent. of the total vote cast at the last general election. Col. Roosevelt received his heaviest vote from the reform element of the State represented by the Keystone party, which since it was organized about two years ago has opposed the regular Republicans at every election and succeeded in electing a reform Mayor in Philadelphia last year.

Another element of strength of the Roosevelt forces was the 170,000 idle anthracite miners in the northeastern counties of the State, where the former President ran strong.

In Philadelphia President Taft's adherents captured three of the six districts and split the delegation in another, giving the President seven delegates to Roosevelt's five. The delegates favoring Taft were not instructed. Among those who escaped the Roosevelt storm were John Wanamaker and E. T. Stotesbury, who were elected as Taft delegates in the Second District. Edgar Fahs Smith, Provost of the University of Pennsylvania, a Taft delegate, went down to defeat, but William Draper Lewis, dean of the law department of the university, was a Roosevelt winner.

In Allegheny County, which includes Pittsburgh, Col. Roosevelt captured all the eight delegates in the four districts. Among them is William Flinn, who has fought the regular State organization for years.

In the Congress district where Gifford Pinchot has his home, the Roosevelt National delegates won, but Mr. Pinchot's home county, Pike, sent a Taft delegate to the State Convention.

In addition to the naming of the twelve delegates at large to Chicago, the Republican State Convention will select thirty-eight Presidential electors, four candidates for Congressmen at large, and candidates for State Treasurer and Auditor General, all to be voted for at the November election.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, who had no organized opposition, will have 74 of the 76 delegates from Pennsylvania in the Democratic National Convention. He carried all but the 28th District, which elected two Clark delegates to the Democratic National Convention. At present there are two Democratic State organizations in Pennsylvania, and each has indorsed the New Jersey Governor for President. A few scattered delegates to the State Convention who favor Champ Clark were elected.

Figures at hand indicate that the "reorganized" Democratic faction headed by George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh and Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, had elected a majority of their delegates ine opposition to the regular organization headed by James M. Guffey of Pittsburgh. Each faction has sent out a call for a State Convention at Harrisburg on the same day.

FIGHT CLOSE IN IOWA.

741 Delegates for Taft, 716 for Cummins, 24 for Roosevelt.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 14.—Every county in Iowa has held a Republican convention and selected delegates to the State Convention to be held at Cedar Rapids on April 24. Last night both Taft and Cummins supporters were claiming control of the State Convention.

The discrepancy in the figures of the campaign managers rests chiefly upon differences of opinion as to delegates from five counties. Mills and Page Counties elected twenty-four delegates said to favor Roosevelt. These are claimed by both Cummins and Taft men. Three other counties that failed to instruct delegates are claimed by both sides.

According to figures compiled by disinterested parties, President Taft has 741 delegates to the State Convention, Senator Cummins 716, and Col. Roosevelt 24. Seven hundred and forty-one delegates will control the convention, it is said. Both sides admit the convention will be closely divided, and that the actions of the uninstructed delegates will have an important bearing.

BLACKJACKED IN BROADWAY.

John R. Hall Lay Half an Hour in Street After Being Robbed.

John R. Hall, who sells motion picture reels and lives at 509 West 111th Street, approached Policeman Livingston of the West 125th Street Station at Broadway and 122d Street about 11:30 o'clock last night and told him he had been held up, blackjacked, and robbed. He said he left the Subway at 116th Street just before 11 o'clock and started up Broadway to call on a friend near 120th Street.

Between 119th and 120th Streets two men halted him and asked the time. As he drew out his watch one of the men hit him with a blackjack and knocked him senseless. When he regained his wits half an hour later the men were gone, and with them his watch, worth $100, and at least $18. Livingston called Dr. Johnson, who took Mr. Hall to the J. Hood Wright Hospital and dressed a cut on his head. He gave a good description of the hold-up men and detectives are looking for them.

TAFT TO FIGHT ON; SURE OF VICTORY

of Republicans toward such a platform and toward a candidate for the nomination on such a platform is therefore, plain.

"Including Pennsylvania, which according to latest advices, has given President Taft at least 21 votes in the National Convention, the President has to-day 864 delegates instructed for or pledged to his renomination. He needs only 176 more delegates to insure his renomination. He is already assured of 382 more delegates, making his support in the Chicago Convention 746 delegates, or more than 200 majority."

Mr. McKinley's statement closes with the announcement, already quoted, that President Taft is in the fight to stay.

An Avalanche, Says Dixon.

Senator Dixon, campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt, issued this statement:

"In the week just ended the Republican Party has made its voice heard emphatically on the question of its choice for Presidential candidate in the approaching campaign and the verdict has been overwhelmingly for Col. Roosevelt and against Mr. Taft. The avalanche victory for Col. Roosevelt in Pennsylvania yesterday spoke the final word and made the repudiation of the Taft candidacy complete.

"Up to the beginning of April, although the form of electing delegates to the National Convention at Chicago had been gone through with in several States, there had been practically no expression from States in which the Republican Party is a real factor in campaigns. The Taft managers had been able to make the appearance of having a considerable number of delegates through the well-known plan of holding snap, hand-picked conventions in the Southern States, where the pie-counter habitues are always with the administration and where no Republican electoral vote has been cast since the days of reconstruction.

"But with this month the scene of action shifted to the Northern States, where the real strength of the Republican Party lies, and whence have come the electoral votes that have maintained its supremacy for sixty years. Fourteen of these States have now selected, in whole or in part, their delegates to the Republican National Convention. Four of them—North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Pennsylvania—have acted by Presidential preference primaries. These four States send an aggregate of 170 delegates to the National Convention. Of that number all but ten or eleven are against Mr. Taft. These four great States, which together cast 85 votes in the Electoral College, have repudiated Mr. Taft's candidacy by more than 14 to 1 of their delegates to the National Convention.

Bosses for Taft, He Charges.

"North Dakota and Wisconsin give him not a single delegate. In Illinois he secured only two, those from the district controlled by the notorious Senator Lorimer, whose machine furnished the chief element of support to the Taft candidacy in the Illinois primaries. In Pennsylvania, another machine-ridden State, the utmost endeavors of Senator Penrose and his bosses in behalf of Mr. Taft could give him only nine or ten delegates. Through the medium of the Presidential preference primary the Republican voters of Pennsylvania utterly smashed the armor-clad Penrose machine and sent the Taft candidacy down in crushing defeat.

"The other ten States in which the Republican Party is an important factor that have chosen delegates to the Chicago Convention are Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, and Vermont. In all of these States the selection of delegates was either by the old caucus and convention system or by conventions the delegates to which were chosen at what Mr. Taft has contemptuously described as 'soap-box' primaries. Mr. Taft, in his speech at Boston, expressed a vigorous disapproval of the 'soap-box' primaries, a disapproval which has been strongly emphasized by the Roosevelt forces throughout the country, but it was through these 'soap-box' primaries that Mr. Taft's managers have been able to make practically all of the meagre showing they have secured in the column of delegates from Republican States.

"Immediately after the farcical primaries in New York the Taft managers claimed almost the entire delegation of ninety, conceding only seven Roosevelt delegates. The hollowness of their claim was demonstrated to the whole country when William Barnes, Jr., boss of the New York machine, rejected the abject personal pleadings of Mr. Taft and refused to have the State Convention pass a resolution instructing the New York delegates to vote for Mr. Taft. As a matter of fact, the New York delegation is divided into three approximate groups, one of which is for Roosevelt, one for Taft, and the third waiting for developments to determine which way to jump.

"The Taft managers had loudly declaimed that New England was a Taft stronghold. Nothing has more strikingly demonstrated the force of the Roosevelt sentiment in the country and the lack of foundation for the Taft claims than the action of Maine in sending a solid delegation of twelve Roosevelt men to the Chicago Convention. In Vermont, after desperate efforts, the Taft people failed to secure a single instructed delegate. Two delegates elected in the Second District were instructed for Col. Roosevelt. The two from the First District and the four at large were uninstructed. At least two of them are Roosevelt men.

"Col. Roosevelt has nearly four times as many instructed uncontested delegates from the Republican North as Mr. Taft has. Of the whole 392, Mr. Taft has only a little more than one-eighth instructed and uncontested, and yet the Taft managers have the effrontery to claim that a candidate who is already repudiated more than 7 to 1 by his party is 'entitled to renomination.'"

During the coming week delegates will be chosen in Connecticut, Hawaii, Delaware, Nebraska, and Oregon. The Hawaiian Territorial Convention will choose six delegates to-morrow. On Tuesday the Connecticut and Delaware State Conventions will meet, while the Congressional District Conventions of Connecticut will be held on Wednesday. The Republican State Convention of Illinois is scheduled for Friday, when the primaries will likewise be held in Nebraska and Oregon. It is anticipated that the result will be about an even division of the 52 delegates to be chosen in these conventions and primaries. The Taft forces are counting upon Connecticut, Delaware, and the Hawaiian conventions; the Roosevelt forces upon the Nebraska and Oregon primaries and the delegates at large from the Illinois convention.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Jumping to Conclusions Hastily.

From The Herald.

Under such conditions of stress do we live that sudden and unexpected happenings are liable to warp judgment and distort relative importance. There is too much tendency to leap at conclusions and draw extreme deductions.

There will be great danger to-day of the business interests of the country becoming stampeded because of the Pennsylvania primaries of Saturday. The Colonel has carried the State against President Taft, but that does not mean that the Colonel is likely to get the Republican nomination for President or that he could be elected in case he got the nomination. It is important to consider what happened in Pennsylvania in its relation to the whole situation. Mr. Taft to gain a majority of the delegates at Chicago has only to get 195 delegates. The Colonel must get 371. He will only accept the nomination "if it's tendered to him," bear that in mind.

To the Friends of Established Government.

From The Sun.

The recent gains of Col. Roosevelt in the contest for delegates carry a lesson not the less worth considering seriously and attentively because it is so obvious. Illinois and Pennsylvania mean that the gravest danger which has confronted the Nation since the civil war for disruption is not yet finally averted. Such notable successes as were won last week for the third term candidate and pledge breaker by his political managers in several States, while leaving President Taft still far in the lead for the nomination, indicate the existence of conditions, political or psychological as we may choose to regard them, as menacing in their way as is the attitude of the ambitious politician who is now carrying around the firebrand. The situation does not suggest discouragement or compromise, but it is sufficiently impressive to indicate renewed activity and resolute purpose on the part of all those of our fellow citizens of the Republican faith who desire that the Government and the institutions which we possess shall be safeguarded against the fatal beginnings of revolution.

"Mr. Taft Passes."

From The Press.

On top of all the other Republican States which have violently repudiated Mr. Taft's appeal for delegates wherever the members of this party have had a chance to execute their will the addition of the great State of Pennsylvania makes an appalling record for the President's candidacy.

No longer can there remain in the mind of any one a vestige of doubt that, with his claims rejected utterly by Republican State after Republican State, to contemplate Mr. Taft as the nominee of his party for President is preposterous. It makes no difference whether he goes before the extremely radical party in North Dakota, the reasonably Progressive party in Illinois, or the normally conservative party in Pennsylvania, always the result is the same—slaughter.

In the view of all Republicans who wish to save their party from defeat Mr. Taft now passes. After him—what? More than ever, we say, a compromise candidate who would not be butchered at the polls as Mr. Taft would be butchered by the Roosevelt men, as Col. Roosevelt would be butchered by the Taft men.

"More Good Work for Roosevelt."

From The World.

By the rout of the Taft forces in Illinois and his sweeping victory in Pennsylvania, Mr. Roosevelt last week made rapid gains at the President's expense. But barely half the delegates to the Chicago Convention have so far been chosen, and in Illinois and Pennsylvania the Roosevelt people have worked hardest, spent their money most freely, and have been most confident of success.

Mr. Roosevelt will not be nominated at Chicago for a third term. The Republican Party will not deliberately seek to commit political suicide in order to gratify his personal ambition as a candidate. To deny Mr. Taft the renomination that he seeks would be not only to repudiate the Administration but to proclaim in the plaiest terms that the party while in power had been false to its trust and was undeserving of public confidence.

But in smashing the Lorimer machine in Illinois and the Penrose machine in Pennsylvania, Mr. Roosevelt has rendered a great service to those States and to the country. The two United States Senators, one from Chicago and one from Philadelphia, stood for the worst kind of politics. The best work Mr. Roosevelt has done is the breaking of the power of these two bosses.

"Pennsylvania's Vote."

From The Tribune.

The result of Pennsylvania's primary undoubtedly took the country by surprise, the extent of the popular revolt against the Republican machine having been even less fully appreciated than was the spread of dissatisfaction with the system which Lorimer represented in Illinois. It is again to be deeply regretted that President Taft should have suffered from an undiscriminating eagerness to vent a grudge against a domineering and misrepresentative State organization.

The Pennsylvania Republican machine, which inherited the stigma of despotism, has not been liberalized in conformity with the growing public demand, but has failed conspicuously to respond to the best sentiment in the party. Thousands of Republicans took advantage of this opportunity to express their resentment at its offensive methods and record. But they were unfortunately misled into visiting on the President's cause the retribution which should have been reserved for their own State leaders and institutions. Mr. Taft has suffered unjustly both in Illinois and Pennsylvania for the sins of others. Wherever it is presented on its own merits his candidacy will continue to command the party's respect and support.

A Protest Against Bossism.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 14.—The Press will say to-morrow:

The result of the State primaries on Saturday shows a desire for a change in the management of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania. It will be regarded throughout the country as a great Roosevelt victory, and will probably have a greater effect on the sentiment of the country as to who should be the standard bearer of the Republican Party to be nominated at Chicago than the number of Roosevelt delegates would alone indicate.

The victory clearly signifies that the people are against bossism and that leadership which they think is allied with corporate interests. The verdict of the voters can be regarded as not necessarily an approval of the policies advocated by Roosevelt, but a protest against the kind of leadership that they have had in recent years. The people of Philadelphia and the State want leadership that they regard as more alive to their interests and less active in behalf of special interests and special privileges.

BIG WHITE LIGHT WILL GUIDE INBOUND SHIPS

New Beacon Light to Stream Out To-night from a Tower on Richmond Heights.

CAN BE SEEN 35 MILES AT SEA

Its Fixed Ray of 300,000 Candle Power Will Show Navigators the Way Into Ambrose Channel.

On Richmond Heights, S. I., there will blaze to-night for the first time a great light that can be seen for thirty-five miles at sea. The light will be in the new lighthouse that the Government has built to guide ocean steamships that enter New York Harbor via the Ambrose Channel route. The light tower is made of red brick and rests on a base of white limestone. Occupying, as it does, one of the most commanding locations on Staten Island, it can be seen at sea for miles by day, and so will be a guide by day as well as by night.

The tower rises to a height of 100 feet, and, taking in the elevation of the site, the light is 231 feet above mean low water. The light is a fixed white ray of 300,000 candle power, supplied by incandescent oil vapor, while the lens is what is known as the second order range lens. The most complete pumping outfit ever installed in a lighthouse will be used to pump the oil to the lamp. The sun sets at 6:39 o'clock to-day, and it will be a few minutes after that when the new light will shine forth for the first time.

The new lighthouse is about eighteen miles north of the Ambrose Lightship, but the light from the shore will be visible farther out than that on the ship. It will be under the supervision of the naval officer whose district includes the New York and New Jersey shores. Owing to the fact that the new light is fixed, it will be easily distinguished at sea from the famous light of the Highlands of Navesink, which flashes out its great white ray at intervals of every few seconds.

The Richmond Heights light is destined to take its place among the famous beacons of the world, such as the Eddystone Lighthouse, on the Eddystone Rocks, about fourteen miles from Plymouth, England; the two great lighthouses on the Lizard Head, in Cornwall, England, which are visible for twenty miles at sea; the Heaux de Brehat Lighthouse, off the coast of Brittany, and the famous lights of the Virginia Capes, at the entrance to Hampton Roads.

Modern lighthouses date from the construction of the original Eddystone Lighthouse by John Smeaton in 1756-1759. In 1877 a new Eddystone Lighthouse was erected to take the place of Smeaton's building, the latter not being high enough to keep the seas from sweeping over the light during storms.

Under the jurisdiction of the United States Lighthouse Board there are now nearly 4,000 lighthouses. These figures include lights in rivers and on the Great Lakes, as well as those along the coast.

BABY KILLED BY HURLED ROCK

Fight with Italians Ends in a Chase and Rescue by Police.

On Ocean Avenue, between Liberty and Belmont Avenues, Ozone Park, a number of Italian workingmen were rolling wooden balls on an improvised clay court yesterday afternoon. They were playing a kind of bowling game, and the object of the game was to roll a croquet ball as near as possible to a smaller ball on the court. The man who got nearest the mark collected the pennies from the others.

The game had reached a critical stage when Frank C. Baker, a steamfitter, of 1,326 Wyckoff Avenue, Ozone Park, approached the players. He was looking straight ahead and was walking on the clay court alongside the sidewalk. His foot struck one of the wooden balls and sent it rolling far from its position.

Immediately one Italian, the man who had rolled the ball, shouted a threat. His comrades joined him and soon Baker was being pummeled right and left for daring to kick the ball. He tried to defend himself, but when a bottle whizzed by his head he took to his heels. When he had outdistanced the nearest Italian by twenty or thirty feet he picked up a stone weighing about a pound and hurled it wildly at his nearest assailant.

He missed the Italian by twenty feet, but the stone, according to the police, struck little two-year-old James Delane, an Italian baby, who was in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Jennie Delane, of Lawn Avenue. Mother and baby were knocked down. Blood flowed from the baby's head and the mother fainted.

Baker, not knowing what he had done, continued to run with the mob after him. At Ocean and Liberty Avenues, he sought refuge under the grandstand of the Ozone Park Baseball Club.

The Italians, who had by this time been joined by a number of Italian women, stopped at the grand stand and deliberated on further action. They were in the act of making a rush for Baker when Policemen Brady and Kiefer, from the Ozone Park Police Station, arrived. The Italians told the policemen that they must have their victim. He had broken up their game, they said, and had killed a baby with a rock.

Brady and Kiefer crawled under the grand stand and succeeded in getting Baker to surrender without protest. Outside the crowd was hurling threats at Baker, and Brady thought it best to crawl out first and protect his prisoner. When Baker came out the crowd rushed at him. They were kept at bay with difficulty, and to make sure that there would be no rush, Brady and Kiefer drew their revolvers and marched Baker to the police station. His face and head showed cuts made by the fist blows of his assailants. He was charged with homicide, but refused to make any statement.

Dr. John Tierney of St. Mary's Hospital was summoned. He found that the baby had died instantly. He attended the mother, who swooned a second time when the doctor told her that her baby was dead. Coroner Gustave J. Schaefer said last night that he would make an investigation.

ROOSEVELT JOYOUS OVER PENNSYLVANIA

He and Taft Now Have 150 Delegates Each, He Says, and He'll Compromise on T. R.

H. W. TAFT IN LIARS' CLUB

Finds Sentiment Growing in His Favor and Thinks He May Be Able to Split New York Delegation.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., April 14.—To say that Col. Roosevelt was immensely pleased with the result of the Pennsylvania primaries would be to state the case too mildly. He was elated, yet did his best to conceal his elation. Still, the subject was uppermost in his mind all day, and he returned to it again and again with evident relish.

The Colonel was full of confidence when he got back this morning from his tour of the New England States. The reception he had in New Hampshire and, following that, the good news that reached him from Pennsylvania, had raised his spirits to the highest pitch.

"We hit them middling hard in Pennsylvania," was the way he referred to his victory at the primaries there. "The vote was particularly gratifying because of the emphatic expression of the people against the bosses. It was hardly a victory for Mr. Penrose, was it?"

"And does that mean you are in the fight until November?" the Colonel was asked.

"Well," he replied, "I wouldn't exactly go so far as to say that."

Compromise on but Roosevelt Only.

He made it very evident, however, that he expects to win at Chicago, now that the tide is turning his way, for in referring again to the matter of compromise he declared:

"Third candidate? Compromise? The only things I will compromise on will be on myself and my platform."

All day long the Colonel was receiving and opening dispatches from Pennsylvania. He smacked his lips and smiled broadly over each and every one of them. One was from Senator Flinn of Pittsburgh, who assured the Colonel that he had won at least 52 of the 64 delegates elected on Saturday, and also had won two-thirds of the delegates to the State Convention, thus assuring to him the twelve delegates at large.

"That means sixty-four of the seventy-six delegates from Pennsylvania, according to Flinn," the Colonel said.

Col. Roosevelt made it evident that he feels the undercurrent for his nomination is daily growing stronger. He is confident that it will cause many of the Southern delegates now claimed for Mr. Taft to get on the Roosevelt wagon. He believes also that if he is able to go to the Chicago Convention with half of the delegates from the country behind him he will get the support of at least forty of the delegates from New York State. There are now ten New York State delegates who will stand by him in any event, he is positive, and ten more are ready to get in line. His strength when the Chicago Convention convenes will decide at least twenty more, he thinks. Col. Roosevelt pointed out that twenty delegates from Mississippi were claimed for Taft, although they had been elected for him.

Finds Sentiment Growing for Him.

"It is the Taft men who must send the contesting delegation from that State," he said. From Missouri at least two-thirds of the delegates were assured to him, and in that State his figures are Taft 6, Roosevelt 22. In Vermont, he declared, the two delegates instructed so far were for him, and he was confident of getting at least three more. In Indiana, the Colonel predicted, the table as printed now will be reversed in his favor. Had the voters of Indiana, Michigan, and Kentucky been given a chance to express their preference at a primary such as that held in Illinois he declares that his victory would have been sweeping.

"There are other examples, too," said the Colonel. "The sentiment in Massachusetts is much more favorable to me than any of my opponents will admit, and I'm going to get delegates there."

Colonel Roosevelt read with much apparent enjoyment stories coming from Albany that the New York State Bar Association, hearing that there is a growing sentiment in favor of the recall of Judges and judicial decisions by popular vote, had adopted resolutions condemning such a system.

"They have got to come to it," he declared with a smile. Then he reached a paragraph in the newspaper story in which ex-Judge Parker was quoted as referring to him as a "great leader of men." "I love this delphic reference of Parker to me," he said with a chuckle.

Pressed for some further expression, he said: "They have heard a lot about it from me on the stump, and they are going to hear a lot more, and I'll have a good deal more to say about the bosses, too."

The next two weeks are to be busy ones for Col. Roosevelt. With but a few hours rest after his New England trip, from which he returned to Oyster Bay at 10 o'clock this morning, he will sally forth again on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Pennsylvania Station to spend his time until one week from Thursday in campaigning in Nebraska and other Western States. He said to-night that he hoped to get as far as Sioux City, S. D., and Little Rock, Ark., and on the return hoped to stop in North Carolina. Then after a rest of one day at Sagamore Hill he will start out again, this time going to Boston and perhaps other cities in Massachusetts.

One of the many telegrams which the Colonel received to-day and which afforded him much pleasure was from Father Curran of Wilkesbarre, Penn., offering his heartiest congratulations.

Puts Henry W. Taft in Ananias Club.

Met this evening as he was returning from a stroll in the woods, Col. Roosevelt turned from the topic of delegates long enough to admit Henry W. Taft, brother of President Taft, to membership in the Ananias Club. Mr. Taft had been reported as saying Saturday he had been informed that nearly $1,000,000 had been spent in the promotion of Col. Roosevelt's candidacy, and that Senator Flinn of Pittsburgh had thrown $250,000 into the Pennsylvania campaign.

"I don't believe he could have been correctly quoted," the Colonel declared: "but if he was it represents a deliberate falsehood on his part." And Mr. Roosevelt emphasized this with a swish of the alpenstock he carried.

Ridiculing the statistics published in the newspapers in which it is declared that 337 of the delegates already elected are for the renomination of President Taft, Col. Roosevelt declared to-night that, as a matter of fact, the instructed delegates to date are split about evenly between Taft and himself.

"I should say that about 150 each is the way it stands," he asserted. "I have been considering the advisability of preparing a formal statement on this point, but I do not want to do so hastily."

MAY HAVE TWO FROM KINGS.

Delegate Pforr Will Vote as His Constituents Tell Him To.

Controller William A. Prendergast may not be the only Roosevelt delegate to the Republican National Convention from Kings County. With the exception of Mr. Prendergast, the delegation from Brooklyn has been looked upon as being solid for President Taft. Yesterday, however, Rhinehard H. Pforr, who has been elected a delegate from the Ninth Congressional District, said that he was undecided as to how he would vote in the convention, whether for Taft or Roosevelt. He said yesterday: "In a few days I shall send postal cards to the Republican voters of the district and learn their sentiments. Whichever way they decide I shall vote in the convention."

FLOOD ENGULFS TOWN.

River Sweeps Tallulah, La., Soon After Break in Levee.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 14.—The town of Tallulah, with a population of 1,200, within an hour this afternoon went under three feet of water from a break in the Salem Landing levee which is fifteen miles away from the place. The water was sighted a mile way from the town at noon. By 1 o'clock the water was in the outskirts of the town, and by 2 o'clock it was three feet deep. It is rising rapidly.

The Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad runs through the section on a high embankment, and was still able to operate trains to-night. Refugees came out of Tallulah by the train load.

Hundreds of negroes are standing on the levees awaiting the arrival of rescuers, or else are perched on house tops waving at every train.

At Rayville to-day, in the path of the water, men worked feverishly, throwing up a levee around the residence and business districts. The levee now is three feet high, and must be raised two feet more for absolute safety.

In the Salem Landing neighborhood motor boats, rafts, skiffs, and canoes were pressed into service in the search for marooned residents. Government steamboats also did what they could. Refugees are being taken to Vicksburg, where the Government is distributing rations.

Thirty-two miles of levees below New Orleans, in the rice plantation, truck farming, and orange grove district, called the "lower coast," must be raised from two to three feet. Gangs worked all day.

At one or two of the lower docks in this city the water is "slopping" through cracks whenever a steamboat passes. These docks are being topped with bags.

Some uneasiness is felt here for the safety of the town of Lake Providence, sixteen miles north of Alsatia, where a break in the Mississippi River occurred Friday. A report reached here last night that a weak spot had developed in the levee known as the McGuire stretch, one mile south of Lake Providence. The town was entirely cut off from wire communication at 9 o'clock last night.

With all trains annulled on the Iron Mountain Railroad, and the fear of steamboat men to approach the levees, the means of escape for the town's 2,500 inhabitants in case of a break would be a serious problem.

CHURCH FLOOR FELL; 2 DEAD, FIFTY HURT

who lay in the V-shaped trench, which extended from one end of the church to the other. The priests who had been standing at the rear of the church were able, with some assistance, to scramble clear of the tangle of lumber and human bodies, and they turned in to help out the others. Even after the lumber had been lifted off the work of rescue was slow. Nearly every one in the heap was entangled with the others, so that great care had to be taken to prevent breaking arms and legs.

As fast as the injured were extricated they were carried to the basement windows and lifted to the outside. The first woman to be rescued was Mrs. William Cousins, who was later found to be seriously injured.

Church Yard Like a Battlefield.

The open ground about the church began to take on the appearance of a battlefield after the rescue work was well under way. The injured lay in groups, attended by those who had escaped and by the residents of Harrington Park, who were soon gathered about the church. Blankets were brought out from houses. Wounds were hastily bandaged and brandy administered to the injured until physicians arrived from neighboring villages.

One of the most dramatic moments was that when Frank M. Steinhoff, one of the crowd, who had been standing outside, ran up to the entrance of the church after hearing the crash. He saw his wife and his two sisters, Mary and Catherine, clinging to the sill of one of the windows, with their shoe tips resting on the top of the broken floor. Shouting for them to hold on till he came to them, he ran outside and put a ladder up to the window, carrying them safely down to the ground. Later he learned that his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steinhoff, both had been seriously hurt.

When most of the others had been lifted out the two dead women were found. Lying between them was Mrs. E. W. Walters of Harrington Park, who was suffering from a sprained ankle and internal injuries. The bodies of the two dead women were badly crushed, but death is thought to have been caused by suffocation.

Contractors Said Church Was Safe.

A boy who was standing inside the church when the floor fell managed to save himself by clutching a rail which ran along the wall and dragging himself along till he came to a window, out which he managed to scramble. A number of other boys witnessed the accident from the choir loft, which they had climbed up to by a ladder of crosspieces just before the services began.

The contractors who put up the church are Naugle & Wisner of Park Ridge. It is a $10,000 wooden building, 40 by 60 feet, with only the frame and flooring completed so far. The floor, which caved in, was upheld by temporary supports.

George Naugle of the contracting firm said that the floor was sustained by ten joists, each made by nailing together three pieces of 2 by 6 inches. The floor was braced by a beam running lengthwise under the middle of the floor and connected by the corners by four other beams.

It was stated that Father J. J. Delehanty, in charge of the Church of Our Lady of Victory, had received assurances from the contractors that the building was safe enough for services to be held in it.

"When I said that the floor was safe enough with its temporary support," said Mr. Nuagle, "I meant that it would be safe for a few people, who might come in and inspect it. I did not know that it was intended to hold services and have the building crowded.

Feared Creating a Panic.

"I was in the building at the time putting paper over the windows to keep out the draft. I had no idea, however, that the people were coming in till they began to follow the priests, and then I could not have warned them and ordered them out without creating a panic."

Father Delehanty said last night that he did not care to debate the question of responsibility with the contractor, but that he certainly understood the church to be safe or no service would have been held in it.

County Physician Samuel E. Armstrong and Detective Cook of the office of Wendell Wright, Prosecutor for the County of Bergen, made an investigation of the accident. No arrests have been made.

I. S. Lawrence of Brooklyn, a building contractor, came over with a party of a dozen from Brooklyn to attend the laying of the cornerstone. He says that he saw the insecurity of the temporary supports of the floor and urged the members of his party not to go inside the church. Several of them went in, however, and two were painfully hurt.

A niche was left in the concrete foundation of the church, and in this the cornerstone was inserted yesterday, instead of being laid in the ordinary manner. The church was erected to take care of the Roman Catholics of Harrington Park, which is in the parish of Westwood.

The priests who took part in the ceremony were Father Bogan of Plainfield, Father Cunneely of Hackensack, Father Flanagan, and Father McDermott of Kingsland, Father Grady of Rutherford, Father Best, Father Peter, and Father McDonald of Englewood; Father Anselm of Bergenfield, Father McLaughlin of Union Hill, and Father Delehanty of Westwood.

STOCKTON WRITES ON IN THE SPIRIT LAND

Prof. Hyslop Hears That He Is Trying to Continue His Work Through Miss De Camp.

TESTED THROUGH A MEDIUM

Experiments Described Are Declared to Show New and Greater Influence of the Dead on the Living.

Prof. James H. Hyslop, head of the American Society for Psychical Research, will publish in the journal of that society for April an extensive and detailed account of his experiments with Miss Etta de Camp and Mrs. Chenoworth, a medium, which he holds, tends to establish the fact that the spirit of Frank R. Stockton, the American novelist, who died in 1902, has written and is attempting to write more stories through Miss de Camp, who was not many years ago a business woman and never familiar with Stockton's work. These experiments which have been carried on for almost three years are brought down to March of this year, this report being the first scientific analysis by Prof. Hyslop of the new control which he says "suggests a far wider influence of the dead on the living than is usually recognized."

"And, though," he continues, "we cannot urge this influence scientifically as yet, such cases propose the problem for us, and we should be in a situation to investigate the very many claims or appearances of it, whether they be genuine or not, whether they be evidences of the supernormal or are explicable only by as yet wholly non-understood functions of the subconscious."

The influence of the dead novelist was exerted and the writing under this supposed influence was all done in 1909 and 1910, and some accounts of it have already appeared. But during this year Prof. Hyslop arranged to bring Miss de Camp into communication with Mrs. Chenoworth, the medium, and to put to the test his hypothesis that the spirit of Stockton was trying to write through Miss de Camp.

For this purpose he brought Miss de Camp to this city from her home in Schenectady and registered her at a hotel under an assumed name and without giving any hint to Mrs. Chenoworth that she was to be present at the séances. After detailing the safeguards he threw around the séances where Miss de Camp was present, Prof. Hyslop tells what happened at three sittings, and how the name of Francis Richard Stockton was written by Mrs. Chenoworth while in a trance. Following is a portion of the report of the most important sitting, which took place on Feb. 28, 1912, at which were present Miss de Camp, Prof. Hyslop, and Mrs. Chenoworth, the medium's remarks being printed without quotation marks, Prof. Hyslop's remarks being included in parentheses, and the brackets inclosing explanations:

Do you remember the heaps of paper I saw yesterday?

(Yes.)

Do you remember the man writing on them?

(I know who it was I think.)

Do you know what his hand is like?

(In a minute.) [Talking too fast.] (All right.)

Why it is a medium sized hand and rather long fingers. He has a ring and that is on his finger. I think it is on the finger of the hand doing something on the paper. He has very straightforward eyes. (Slow.) [Said sharply.] They look right up at you • • [Note undecipherable] suddenly. They seem to look through you, not because they are dark, for they are not dark, but because they are honest. That is all I got to say. [Pause.]

Do you know something?

(A little, I think.)

Perhaps you don't know this. Tones effect me as much as physical touch, see?

(Yes.)

When you said "Slow" in a different tone it was so quick I thought you hit me right on the forehead. Isn't that funny?

(Yes.)

[Pause] What made that man project himself?

(What man?)

The story writer.

(I wanted him for a purpose.)

Did you ask him to come?

(In my mind I did.)

[Pause] That's all right then, isn't it?

(Yes.)

[Pause] I was afraid it was a fugitive thing, you know.

Where is the girl? [Miss De Camp.]

(She is here.)

She is not in the usual place. (No.) Do you know why?

(Tell me.)

He goes out of sight back of me somewhere. It is not in the parlor, is it?

(No.)

Well he is back of me somewhere. [Pause and reached for pencil.]

After a long communication through the medium on the difficulty of establishing communication and proving an identity, Prof. Hyslop gives this further record of the séance:

[Suddenly the pencil began to scrawl and there was much difficulty in holding it. This lasted for some part of a minute, and then it began slowly to try to write.]

• • [possibly "So"] F n ["n" not read, as I assumed it a scrawl and hoped it would be cleared up] rances.

("Frances.")

K [read "R."] Frank yes. [Pause.]

(By all means finish the rest.)

S [not read, as it was not clear enough to be sure.] Stockston.

(Good. What is the middle name; neither of us knows it, and it will be most excellent to get it.)

R [Pause] o [so read] no, no, not yet. I always wrote it the other way. [Pause.] • • [Pencil fell and was reinserted.] [Long pause.] R [mere scrawl] but apparently an "R" and so read obert. [Pause and pencil fell.]

[Change of control.]

He is much better pleased than he was. He did not intend [not read] to • • intend to be bulldozed into giving evidence, and he just insisted, insisted on telling [not read] you • • telling you so for himself, he would I let no one say it for him and now that h • • it is over he says you are not such a bad lot after all, and he may help you some more some day.

(All right.)

He is quite an independent gentleman after all and has his own ideas and says keep them guessing, that's all you have to do, but you will hear [not read and hand tapped till read] from him again, I think.

(Yes, if I call for him, can he come?)

• • [scrawls while I was speaking.] Oh, yes, if you, if you don't put the twisters [not read] on • • twisters [not read] t w • • [read.] He always wrote inspirationally, anyway, and so it is easy for him not to do so. I told him to go on; you would not eat him, and so he made his venture [not read] venture into the ring. He says science is a big fraud anyway.

(Good.)

The next séance on March 4, 1912, began with automatic writing and the middle name of Stockton, Richard, was produced which earlier had been written "Robert." And the spirit, thought to be Stockton, continued:

I am grateful for this brief time to-day. I have been most curious about the power of suggestion and that is the way I have worked at the writing, not the way it is done here. There is no trance there. I suppose you know that [groan and rolling of head] already and because of the hand [so read, though possibly intended for "normal"] • • • because of the normal condition sustained and used by the lady [Miss De Camp] I can do better work. That is I suggest only and the operation of the suggestion is carried on by the natural impulse of the lady herself. Do you catch my meaning?

(Yes, perfectly.)

[Indian gibberish.] [Pause.] I will not • • • will work as fast or as well for my kind of work if the trance [not read] trance were induced.

(I understand and shall tell her of that fact.)

Yes, for she sometimes thinks it would be better the other way. To get her consciousness out of the way, but tell her I need it and can use her active brain better than a sleeping one.

(Good, I understand.)

The result is what I am after. I do not care a fig for the process.

(I understand.)

I am glad of the chance to talk with you a little while, and I know she went home with many new ideas in her head, but I hope she will proceed just as we [not read] we have been doing, and I will complete the long story which I have already begun. Perhaps you know about this and perhaps not.

(No, I think it has not been mentioned by her to me.)

It is all right either way, but she will have something to show you soon, and if I can get at [read "a"] some points there and give them here she and you will feel glad.

(Indeed we shall.)

I am not one of those people who desire to wander anywhere and everywhere that a medium [not read] medium works, and I tell you frankly that I probably should not, would not have come here except for the expectancy of her and you.

(I understand.)

I wanted to make her mind easy, for I can do something there which is of use to her. I can tell all the stories I want over here and do not need to write them through her, except that the power to do so fascinates me. I fear I am not the sort you like to use in your work. Would I not be accused [not read] accused of making up stories if I told you exactly how the people over here appear to me?

(Yes, no doubt our sceptic would think so, but all the common ideas you express here and through your friend will be good evidence.)

Still harping on the evidence.

(Yes, I am awfully wicked.)

It is your password to the kingdom, I think.

(Yes, likely.)

From what followed it would appear that the control contemplated a change in the style of his post-mortem literature and wished to prepare skeptics for noticeable differences.

Well, let it go. I quarrel no [read "in" and hand paused till I read it "no"] more with you about it. I see you cannot be swerved from your court records and I must play the part of a prisoner and culprit who cannot escape until he proves he is not himself or that he was not where he thought he was or some such business [not read] business. I know little of courts and less of exact science. My forte is exaggeration.

(I understand.)

[Pause.] I will try and do better at a later time and also will try and take away any nervousness which I sometimes produce just when I wish to work. She will know what I mean by that.

(Yes, that's good.)

And then also I wish her to care less about the criticism of the family.

(Good.)

They have a way of passing [read "posing"] passing judgment on everything with only one standard, as if a man might not change his style now and then and not be accused [read "classed"] accused of falling away from his pattern [not read] pattern. You can help her more than all the rest by your confidence and assurance that I may vary in expression without in the least losing power.

(Yes, I shall.)

I am not half through with her and I have written her some personal things practically saying that. You know about the personal messages, do you not?

(Only a few of them.)

They were written often in answer to her questions and sometimes spontaneously and sometimes had nothing to do with the subject of writing stories, but of the events in the past and the life I am now living. She will know that. I have never said much about my present life, but have told her of a few people whom I have met. I seldom go to her alone, for her guides are there and they keep her in condition for the work.

(I understand.)

[Gibberish "cia mou"] I have wanted to talk about the other young woman who talks with her about the work, the one who is interested and believes, not the one who has so much to say. She will know [read "now"] [gibberish] She will know the one I mean.

(Yes, say all you desire.)

If I can I will. I begin to feel your kindness and to appreciate it. It was rather a sudden and unexpected descent ["descent" and read "desert" to have it corrected] descent I made upon my little friend, but she will not be sorry for giving me the time I know. I ought [read "brought" and "might" doubtfully] not • • • ought not to try to write at night, but sometimes I feel just like it.

(I understand.)

[Gibberish and pause.] E [read "I"] E is all right.

(Yes we found that out afterward.)

Good. I knew you would. I have had [read "not"] had a great desire to travel sometimes and have unconsciously impressed it on her, but I will be more careful now.

(I understand.)

I am failing now, but I am grateful and write my word of greeting. I know N. Y. [Pauses and difficulty in writing last few words] all right. What a city of constriction [so read, tho I might have known from the usual way of making "u" like "i" that it was "construction"] construction. It looks all building and no [Pause and groans] human atmosphere around it from here.

(I understand.)

But the capital is fine, the capital is fine in April. I recall it all with joy. I was not a systematic machine writer, but I see I may have to learn something yet. My wife, you did not know her. I left her to mourn for me. Did you know that?

(No, I did not know that.)

S [probably a scrawl, as I had to change the sheet] yes, yes, my faithful one. I go. I go. F. R. S.

The series of experiments of which Prof. Hyslop gives further account in his article which is called "A Complicated Group of Experiences and Experiments," include a communication between Miss De Camp and George F. Duysters, now dead, who a few years ago discovered Miss De Camp's powers and related them to Prof. Hyslop. Most notable of these Prof. Hyslop considers a drawing made by Miss De Camp through the control of Duysters, although Miss De Camp never had the ability to sketch. The drawing, which is reproduced in the journal, is of the scene of a picnic which Duysters drew in outline before he died, and which was filled out and completed by Miss De Camp and has been found true in every respect.

Aviator Atwood Hurt in Auto.

NEWTON, Mass., April 14.—Harry N. Atwood, an aviator; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Atwood, and Miss Hilda M. Norman, a Lasell student, were all slightly injured to-night when an automobile came in collision with a street car of the Newton & Boston Street Railway on Auburn Street. The aviator was driving, and ran into the electric car as it was crossing the street in front of him. There were no passengers in the street car.

and property within the Republic of Mexico be justly and adequately protected, and that this Government must hold Mexico and the Mexican people responsible for all wanton or illegal acts sacrificing or endangering American life or damaging American property interests there situated.

Meanwhile it should be apparent to all sections of the Mexican people that those who spread baseless rumors or provoke just resentment by attacks upon Americans or other foreign persons or property are working against the best interests and the honor of their country, for which the United States is known to hold, and in the present grave situation is manifesting the greatest and most sincere friendship, and are seeking for their selfish ends to burden the future of their countrymen with heavy obligations of enormous damages for their wrongful acts.

How strongly the Government of the United States deprecates even the very few cases of participation by its citizens in the present insurrectionary disturbances is well known to the people of Mexico, and was shown by the President's proclamation of March 2, and the various other acts of this Government looking to the same end.

Besides a copy of the foregoing correspondence to be shown to Gen. Orozco the instructions to the American Consul at Chihuahua, Marion Letcher, include the following:

"You will immediately informally and unofficially present this matter to Orozco according to above instructions, and you will at the same time point out that, being an American Consul charged with the protection of American citizens and interests in Mexico, and holding an exequatur from the Mexican Government as representing the Mexican people, you are instructed by your Government informally to say that you must continue to exercise your functions and to make representations whenever occasion demands.

Dogma and Stigma

¶ Dogma is positive opinion without proof, and we put the Stigma of Dogma on that sort of opinion. The opinion affected by certain people who state that ready-to-wear clothes don't fit is a Dogma. It is an opinion without proof. Thousands of well dressed New Yorkers wear ready-to-wear Saks clothes that fit. The "made-to-order" Dogma does not fit at all, and it is out at the elbows, too. It is decrepit and worn thin for lack of nourishment. Saks ready-to-wear clothes fit as well as any made-to-order clothes, and are superior on the score of tailoring, too. In fact, Saks clothes are made-to-order, for that matter. All that the made-to-order phrase implies is individual attention to each customer. That is the time-honored defense of the dogmatist—yet that is exactly what we give to every wearer of Saks clothes!

¶ Let's get together on this point. You yourself may be obsessed with the "made-to-order" dogma. That is your privilege. Give us ours. We are speaking impersonally, of course, but we know whereof we speak. We know that no made-to-order tailor can give a man more individual attention than we do. We know that very few made-to-order tailors are equipped to give as much. The fact is, the man who purchases Saks clothes gets fitted without all the usual fussing, fuming, fretting, finicking and folderol incidental to a made-to-order garment.

Men's Panamas at 4.50
values 6.00, 7.50 and 8.00

sale of fine Panama Hats ready for immediate service or to be blocked to your requirements

¶ Panama Hats in April implies that leave-taking of Spring, known colloquially as "What's your hurry, here's your hat." But the wide-awake man will read between the lines of this announcement that we have persuaded our importer into a big price concession by taking a consignment of Panamas ahead of time and thus opening up the season early. That's the fact of the matter, too.

¶ Guayaquil, Ecuador, is to the genuine Panama what the Mayflower is to an American with a family tree. It is the birthplace of all good Panamas, and if you will always remember that, you will not go wrong. The Ecuadorian Panama is the only Panama that runs clean and clear enough to render bleaching unnecessary, and that is some consideration when you reflect that bleaching takes the sap out of anything and puts a time limit on its usefulness.

¶ Half of the Panamas in this sale are blocked into six of the newest Spring styles. Half of them are just bodies, without shape, waiting to be disciplined into whatever shape you prefer, though we charge nothing for blocking. Values that are like a remittance from home!

Men's Washable and Silk Scarfs 28c
regularly 50c

Washable scarfs are the Summer awnings of the neckwear family.

¶ If we are a little early with these washable scarfs, it is because it is part of our business to lead the way. There are 3600 washable scarfs that are regular half dollar value and will launder without shrinking or fading. The maker is anxious to crowd Summer out of retirement and willingly paid a premium for our assistance—and yours. Also included in this sale are 4800 silk bat-wings and four-in-hands, but let us not stint the description for the sake of a paragraph or two.

3600 Washable Four-in-Hands in light and dark grounds. Made of mercerized cotton and silk and linen, with Russian cords in contrasting colors.

2400 Fancy Bat-Wings, in plain and striped effects as well as in those odd effects where the wings and the knot sail under different colors.

2400 All-Silk Four-in-Hands, in plain colors and striped effects, including an exclusive shape known as the Baby Four.

The First Factory

DO you realize when you leave home for your business that you are leaving a factory behind you? That raw materials are being converted there into finished products, flour into pastry, cloth into clothes? That your wife competes with the other men's wives in the dressing of her children, in the dainties on her table, in her tastily arranged living room?

And she reads her own trade journal. There she studies the market for the purchase of her raw products, and learns the alchemy of her cooking. A new recipe to her is a new steel process to you. New fabrics and patterns mean prettier house-dresses, neater school frocks, new curtains at the windows, and individuality and effectiveness in her appearance at the theatre.

She turns out comforts, necessities, luxuries, and lasting satisfactions for you, the chief consumer.

The trade journal becomes her clearing-house. She exchanges ideas there with other women. From it she learns to buy what they buy, to provide what they provide. She buys for herself—for the children—and for you.

Why not reach her through her Printers' Ink? Have you a new labor-saving device? The Ladies' Home Journal will put it in her kitchen. Have you a better lining? The Journal will sew it in her clothes. Have you good blankets or better sheeting? The Journal helps her make her beds.

Where is there a trade paper with this strength? The Ladies' Home Journal is trade journal to more than 1,750,000 women.

A book on the subject of advertising may be obtained gratis by those interested.

MR. SIMS'S SATIRE HOAXES LONDON

Police and Reporters Astir Over Genius with a Stolen Brain and Tiger That Might Have Talked,

BUT FOR WOMAN'S REVENGE

Killed Surgeon, Saved Baby's Vocal Cords, and Discovered the Whole Secret—Sims, Run Down, Owns Up.

LONDON, April 14.—The calm of the English Sabbath has been disturbed by a sensational story appearing in to-day's Referee, from the pen of George R. Sims, who during a long journalistic career has published to the world the inner histories of many crimes, which otherwise would have forever remained mysteries to the general public.

This story, which is as remarkable as any Mr. Sims has told in even the most thrilling of the melodramas he has written during the past twenty-five years, reads as follows:

"The London and New York police are engaged in investigating one of the most astounding and sensational criminal romances of modern or any other times. Briefly, here is the story:

"'Some few years ago Joseph Warschawski, (for obvious reasons I do not give his real name,) a youth of humble origin but brilliant intellectual attainments, mysteriously disappeared from London. His father, a working furrier in the East End of London, alarmed by his son's long absence from home and silence, communicated with the police.

"'Four years ago Joseph Warschawski was found quite by accident in a wretched east side tenement in New York. He was then a semi-imbecile and quite unable to give any information as to what had happened to him since his disappearance. One thing certain is that he could not have arrived at New York in that condition, as he would have been rejected as an undesirable alien.

"'Six months ago a famous New York surgeon, whose remarkable operations had from time to time staggered humanity, died. He was killed in his own laboratory, while attempting to place in the throat of a tiger cub the vocal cords of a new-born baby, who had just died. He was confident that he would be able to make the tiger talk. The mother of the baby, discovering what was happening, rushed into the laboratory and seizing a surgical knife stabbed the doctor to the heart.

"When the doctor's executors went over his papers they found a document in a sealed envelope which was of such a character that they felt obliged to place it in the hands of the New York police. The envelope was labeled "The Case of Joseph Warschawski."

A "Horrible" Confession.

"In this document the doctor confessed that while in London he had heard of the brilliant intellectual attainments of a poor young Polish Jew whose father was an East End workman. He made the acquaintance of the young fellow and invited him to some rooms he was then occupying near St. Thomas Hospital. There he administered a potion to the young man, which caused him temporarily to lose his memory, and with it the knowledge of his own identity.

"He then took passage for himself and his victim on the next steamer leaving Liverpool, and brought him safely to New York.

"The doctor's design from the first had been a daring one. He was a widower, with a son who, after giving the most brilliant promise, had been suddenly stricken with brain trouble and was rapidly approaching a condition of imbecility.

"A few days after the doctor's arrival he performed an extraordinary operation with the assistance of a colleague and two nurses, who were employed by him and were pledged to secrecy. The two young men, Joseph Warschawski, the brilliant genius, and the doctor's son, a partial imbecile, were placed under an anaesthetic, and then, by a remarkable surgical performance, the brilliant brain of Joseph Warschawski was transferred to the head of the doctor's son and the diseased brain of the doctor's son was transferred to the head of Joseph Warschawski.

"Both young men recovered from the operations, but the doctor's son rose from his bed a brilliant genius, and Joseph Warschawski was turned out into the streets of New York a partial imbecile.

"This story the police of New York and London are now investigating.

"The reason that no communication has so far been made to the press is that the doctor's son has become an eminent novelist and dramatist. At the present time he is in London. Two of his plays have already been produced with the greatest literary and artistic success, and a well-known London manager has just entered into a contract with him for a third, which is declared by those who have read it to be the master effort of the century.

"It is the reputation of this man of letters that causes the sensation on the part of the police authorities. It is a serious matter for the police to denounce publicly a man of European fame as a receiver of a stolen brain, especially as the author-dramatist is himself absolutely ignorant of the circumstances in which the stolen property come into his possession.

"But justice demands that something be done for the poor imbecile in New York who was so cruelly robbed of the mental endowment that would have brought him not only worldwide fame, but vast wealth. It is understood that the London authorities will do nothing until the Home Secretary, after consultation with the Attorney General, has given a decision in the strange case of Joseph Warschawski."

Forced to Admit the Hoax.

It was impossible, of course, for such a story to escape attention, and all day the police authorities have been bombarded by persons anxious for further particulars of the case. Mr. Sims went to Brighton with the object of enjoying a week-end rest, but he spent the enticing day in trying to avoid many persistent inquirers, who dogged his footsteps everywhere. He was glad to escape this evening to London, only to be confronted at the railway station by a small army of reporters, all primed with questions ready to fire at the veteran journalist.

In this respect it must be admitted that the hoax (for it was a hoax) reacted on Sims and somewhat took the edge off his enjoyment of it.

In explanation, Mr. Sims coolly observed that he had become rather envious of the monopoly which America has enjoyed in sensational stories of the description he recently read in a New York telegram announcing that an American millionaire had undergone an operation, whereby he had a portion of a child's brain grafted on to his.

This fired Mr. Sims's ambition to show Americans that London could turn out as good a story and with the above result.

HISSES FOR BUSONI OPERA.

Hamburg Audience Gives a Mixed Reception to First Production.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 14.—Signor Ferruccio Busoni, the well-known Italian pianist and composer, produced his first opera, "Die Brauthwahl," in the Hamburg Municipal Opera House last night and had a very mixed reception, catcalls and hisses at one time drowning the applause to such an extent that the composer found it expedient to remain behind the curtain.

The story of the opera is reminiscent of "The Tales of Hoffman." The critics think this piece suffers chiefly from an inferior plot. The music is for the most part acclaimed as tuneful and artistic and technically masterful.

UNITE TO FIGHT STANDARD.

German Oil Producers in League to Oppose American Company.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 14.—The "Protective League" of independent petroleum interests was organized in Berlin yesterday for the primary purpose of combating the "monopolistic practices" of the Standard Oil Company's German branch and of "advising the German Government what steps ought to be taken from time to time to fight the Standard Oil Company with legal measures." The President of the league is Walter Krauss, member of a Hamburg oil importing firm, and one of the Vice Presidents is Dr. Paul Schwarz, editor of Petroleum, a trade journal, which for years has led the German fight against Rockefeller's campaign for the conquest of the Fatherland.

HANGED AFTER 50 MURDERS.

Luzon Bandit Pretended to Have Superhuman Powers.

MANILA, April 14.—Felipe Salvador, the Luzon bandit chief, who had a record of fifty murders, was hanged this morning at Bilibid. Ten relatives and friends witnessed his execution.

Salvador was the leader of a band in Central Luzon more than ten years, but was captured in July, 1910. He pretended that he had superhuman powers, including the power of resurrection. He played on the religious fanaticism of the people, his followers being drawn from the most ignorant class.

KAISER'S TALK RAISES A TEMPEST AT HOME

Reported Praise of Italians a "Terrible Slander" on Germany, Says Berlin Post.

DEMANDS OFFICIAL DENIAL

Cologne Newspaper Calls Incident Example of Foreigners' Liberties and Cites "Garrulous Americans."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 14.—The German press waited two days in vain for official denial of the statement that the Kaiser told the Italian Deputy, Cermenti, that he could conquer half of Europe if he had a people like the Italians.

Meantime a tempest of indignation is raging in the journalistic teapot. Die Post says:

"The German nation must demand an official denial of the words placed in the Kaiser's mouth, for if the utterance is true, it would be a most terrible slander and a crying ingratitude toward the nation, which showed only a few months ago how joyfully it was prepared to spill its blood on all battlefields whither the will of the Kaiser and national necessity might lead it."

The Cologne Volks-Zeitung declares the incident is a fresh example of the undue liberties taken by foreigners who are honored by an audience with the Kaiser, and especially by "garrulous Americans and Frenchmen."

FRENCH SMACK FOR WINE.

German Champagne Makers Send Product to Rheims for "Treatment."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 14.—The manufacturers of the most popular brand of so-called "German champagne" have hit on a novel plan of sending their product in casks to Rheims, France, and having it "treated" by the world-famed process in vogue there before bringing it back to Germany in bottles for consumption.

The firm has bought a factory at Rheims for the purpose, and engaged a large staff of natives. It is explained that Germans, notwithstanding long instruction at the hands of French preceptors, have not acquired the knack of giving to "German champagne" the smack of the article as produced on the other side.

The German article now sells at $1.75 to $2.25 a quart, as compared with $3 and $4 demanded for French champagne, but even the native product is now likely to go up in price as a result of the duty which the French customs authorities will impose on the casked shipments, which are to be "remade" at Rheims.

REPORT 400 ARABS SLAIN.

Dispatches to Paris Say Italians Lost Heavily in a Coast Fight.

PARIS, April 14.—According to dispatches published here, an Italian force in attempting to make a landing on the coast of Tripoli came into conflict with the Arabs. After severe figting the Arabs retreated, leaving 400 dead. The Italians also lost heavily.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14.—The projected steps with reference to mediation by the powers with the object of settling the Turco-Italian war will be made by the Ambassadors separately on Wednesday.

Gunboats After Jolo Pirates.

MANILA, April 15.—A pirate raid is reported from Jolo, where a Japanese pearl fishing boat was found adrift and looted. The crew of the pearler are missing and are believed to be murdered. The Mataja Lighthouse has also been attacked and robbed, presumably by the same band. Gunboats have been sent to investigate.

TO JUDGMENT CREDITORS OF

Interurban Street Ry. Co. New York City Ry. Co. and Metropolitan Street Ry. Co.

When the property of these roads went into the hands of receivers, the U. S. Circuit Court announced in more than one opinion that creditors who might have claims against the road, whether in suit or not, could not under equity practice participate in the proceeds of any property which might come into the hands of receivers unless they filed their claims with the Special Master and made proof of the same. At the same time it was stated that, if he preferred, any creditor might prove his claim in the court, State or Federal, instead of before the Master, and that a transcript of judgment would be accepted as sufficient proof of the claim. The Special Master advertised for claims, stating that they must be filed before January 15, 1908. In conformity with subsequent orders of the Circuit Court, claims were received as late as March 1st, 1910. Although more than two years was thus allowed to creditors in which to file their claims, it appears that in numerous instances attorneys for creditors failed to file such claims, owing to their own ignorance or carelessness. In order that no person holding a valid claim which has been reduced to judgment should, because of his lawyer's negligence, be deprived of the opportunity to share in whatever property there may be in receivers' hands, the Special Master by authority of the Court hereby gives notice that all such claims (which have not been already filed) may be filed with him at his office, Room 34, Cotton Exchange Building, Hanover Square, New York City, at any time prior to 4 P. M. on Tuesday, April 30th, 1912.

New York, March 28, 1912.

AMERICAN PASTOR IN LONDON PULPIT

First Sermon by the Rev. Dr. Broughton to His English Congregation.

NO EXPERIMENT, HE SAYS

Speaks of the Need for a Christian Ministry to the Rich and of Moral Legislation.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 14.—The Rev. Dr. Len Broughton, the new American pastor of Christ Church in Westminster Road, made his first appearance in the pulpit as the successor to the Rev. F. B. Meyer to-day.

Dr. Broughton opened his ministry in the presence of a large congregation, and explained the task which he had set himself in taking up an English pastorate.

An occasional touch of humor marked his discourse, as, for instance, when, having remarked that he regarded the cable announcing the call to that church as a joke, he added: "Perhaps the time may come when the officers of this church will wish it had been."

He explained that he was not undertaking the work in that pulpit as an experiment, as the fact that he was an American, and the congregation English, would be no bar to their working together for the advancement of the common cause of Christ.

Dr. Broughton declared that he would not be in that pulpit if he did not realize the need there was in this country for a great Christian ministry to the rich. He foreshadowed the establishment of a distinctly Christian hospital and a training school for Christian and professional nurses. Such a hospital was, he said, needed to-day not only for Christian ministry to the poor, but equally for those who were able to pay, and especially for the large class of people who were not able to pay.

With regard to politics, he should be neither Conservative nor Liberal, but should stand for moral legislation without regard to party.

CANADA LIFTS LABOR TAX.

Railroad Workers from Here Will Not Be Assessed $25 This Year.

FORT WILLIAM, Ontario, April 14.—Ports of entry along the international boundary have been notified by the Immigration Department that with few exceptions the usual $25 "good and welfare toll" required of those coming from the United States to work in Canada will not be required this year so far as railroad construction workers are concerned.

The conditions attaching to the lifting of the tax are that the entrant shall be in good physical condition, shall possess a ticket to his destination, and shall have a paper promising him work, or express his intention of engaging therein.

A large number of workers are wanted on the transcontinental lines this Summer, and it is expected that many will come from the lake ports to Fort William with the opening of navigation.

HOWLS GREET SUFFRAGISTS.

Scoffing Crowds Balk Their Speakers at Hyde Park Demonstration.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 14.—The suffrage demonstration organized in Hyde Park this afternoon to protest against the alleged forcible feeding of suffragettes now in prison for window smashing produced very noisy scenes.

There were three platforms, and in each crowd there was a strongly opposing element. Speeches were made with difficulty. Only at rare moments were the speakers allowed to proceed.

Sylvia Pankhurst spoke from two platforms, but cries of "Where's Christabel?" and the singing of songs in chorus made her task a hard one.

Her appeal for "a woman who is dying of torture, and who is at this moment facing death," met with howls and hisses.

On the second platform Miss Pankhurst had less opposition, and was able at times to deliver her speech with something approaching smoothness.

KAN-SU TO FIGHT REPUBLIC.

Mohammedans Threaten to Organize Army of 500,000 Men.

LONDON, April 14.—The Mohammedans at Lanchow-fu, Province of Kan-su, have decided to organize a force of 500,000 to resist the efforts of the republic, which they believe contemplates their extermination.

PEKING, April 14.—A manifesto, issued by the President of the republic, urges the fives races to amalgamate through intermarriage.

Gen. Sheng Yun, ex-Governor of Shensi, who last month began a march on Peking with a large number of troops, is irreconcilable but is unable to continue the struggle, his Mohammedan allies having accepted Yuan Shi-Kai's terms. It is reported that these include monetary compensations.

Pending the pacification of the troops in the south, Gen. Huang-Sing, Commander in Chief of Nanking, will continue to exercise, under the direction of the President, control over affairs in his districts, including civil, military, and diplomatic matters in the city.

A dispatch from Sian-fu says that refugees from Kan-su have arrived safely and are proceeding to the coast. Among the refugees are four Americans. The other foreigners are remaining in Kan-su.

VENEZUELA WARM TO SECRETARY KNOX

Spontaneous Popular Welcome He Received Caused Him to Exclaim.

AIR RANG WITH CHEERS

And Every Hat Came Off When "The Star-Spangled Banner" Was Played.

Correspondence of The Associated Press.

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, March 25.—Conspicuous among the features of Secretary Knox's visit to Venezuela was the spontaneous friendliness of the populace. Thousands surged about the Secretary's carriage waving their hats, cheering and laughing, more like an American crowd than had been met with before in the Knox itinerary. Silence fell when he opened his mouth, and when he had concluded an address of which not one in a thousand had understood a word the air rang with cheers. But when compliments were paid in Spanish to the United States smiles lighted the faces of the throng. It did not take the natives long to learn the music of the "Star Spangled Banner," and invariably as the first bar sounded off came the hats, and this means something under a tropical sun.

Mr. Knox was delighted over the popular reception, and at the close of his set speech at the dinner given him by the President in the Palace of Miraflores the night preceding his departure, he exclaimed with frankness and feeling:

"I had not supposed that there was so great and generous hospitality in Venezuela."

An affair not on the official programme and to which Mr. Knox and Mrs. Knox, who shared the honors at all times with the Secretary, were not invited, was a bull fight. Those Americans who from curiosity looked in at the slaughter were greeted even more boisterously than were the matadores, and were quite prepared for the honor when the favorite of the bull ringside, after throwing his cloak into their box, announced that he was about to dispatch his four-legged foe "for the honor of the United States and our distinguished guests." A moment later he was tossed on the horns of the beast and all but gave up his life.

On the trip to-day from Caracas to this city where the Secretary rejoined the cruiser Washington, Mr. Knox was accompanied by President Gomez, Gen. Matos and many other officials. A stop was made at Maracay, where the President has a great estate.

The spirit of the festivities was the sympathy between the United States and Venezuela growing out of their struggles for independence and on every occasion the names of Washington and Bolivar were linked.

Silence of a century was broken to-day by the guns of Castillo de la Cabrera, commanding the eastern extremity of beautiful Lake Valencia in honor of the American visitors.

The fortifications were built of stone in the eighteenth century to protect Spanish settlers from the Indians. In the war of Venezuelan independence, the works were taken by the revolutionists, but because of their historic associations the conquerors decreed that their guns should not speak again.

The vow was broken by common consent, according to Matos, who called upon the Secretary of State to look into the faces of the crowd that surged about him and judge for himself whether the smiles and cheers were from the heart or prearranged.

SERVICES AT GRANT COFFIN.

Prayers for the Dead General Said in Governors Island Chapel.

The Sunday morning service in the Chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion on Governors Island, in the nave of which rests the coffin containing the body of Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, was held as usual yesterday. During the service a nearly life-size painting of the Crucifixion was unveiled and blessed by the Rev. Edmund Banks, the Chaplain of Governors Island.

After the service in the chapel, and following the unveiling and blessing of the painting, there was a short service by the flag-covered coffin, in which the choir assisted. It was not a funeral service, but a prayer for the dead General. Chaplain Smith said that Gen. Grant had always taken an interest in the chapel, and when on duty in New York was seldom absent from his pew at the Sunday morning services.

The painting unveiled yesterday is by Isydoras Stoll, a Polish artist, who has been in America about five years. His conception of the Crucifixion differs from many in that it shows less of the suffering of the human Christ and more of the Godman. The picture is the gift of Chaplain Smith.

The body of Gen. Grant lies at the foot of the chapel nave. Eight men of the Twenty-ninth Infantry have taken up their quarters in the chapel basement, and will stand guard while the body remains in the chapel. Neither Gen. Grant nor Mrs. Grant ever actually joined the Episcopal Church, although both were regular in their attendance and much interested in St. Cornelius Chapel.

GRANT'S DAUGHTER COMING.

Princess Cantacuzene Sails from Bremen To-morrow for New York.

BERLIN, April 14.—Princess Cantacuzene, formerly Miss Julia Dent Grant, arrives from St. Petersburg to-morrow and sails on the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. for New York on Tuesday.

The Princess was aware of her father's illness, and had completed arrangements to hurry to his bedside when the news of his death came.

BOAT CAPSIZES, FORTY LOST.

Passengers Were Disembarking at Amoy When Disaster Happened.

AMOY, April 14.—A boat into which the passengers of the British steamer Seang Chun were disembarking capsized today, and forty persons, mostly women, were drowned.

The Seang Chun had just arrived here from Singapore.

Newspaper Club's Dinner.

The fourth annual dinner of the Daily Newspaper Club is to be held at the Waldorf on Wednesday evening, April 24. The Rev. John Haynes Holmes will deliver the invocation. There will be addresses by Charles H. Grasty, President of The Baltimore Sun; H. N. McKinney of N. W. Ayer & Son, J. P. Fallow of Adams, Meldrum & Anderson Company, and Herbert S. Houston, Vice President of Doubleday, Page & Co. The Daily Newspaper Club is a National association of newspapers organized for the promotion of daily newspaper advertising.

Used Piano Opportunities

Whether because of an improvement in general business or because of the merits of Sterling Pianos and Playerpianos becoming more widely appreciated than is the usual course of a constantly growing business, or because of a combination of these reasons, it is nevertheless a fact that during the months of January, February and March we have taken more pianos in exchange than during any other three months in our history.

Another interesting fact is that the registrations on our prospect books—for the next two months, when there is always a great deal of moving and changing of residences, and our busiest season next to the holidays—indicate that we will take in more instruments in exchange for than the same season in any other year of the fifty since the Sterling Company was established.

While it is true that most of the used Pianos to be taken by us during April and May will be leisurely put in order in the Summer for the Autumn business, we have actually become worried to know how to find room to properly store our used pianos so as to dispose of them in the usual course of business.

In fact, it is impossible to provide space for them—we must sell them quickly, and have marked thirty-four of them at prices that we believe no one who is looking for an absolute bargain in a piano can afford to overlook. We will also give you terms for payment that will be cheaper than renting.

MISSIONARIES AIDING CAUSE OF JUDAISM

Rabbi Deutsch Tells Central Conference of Work Now Carried On Abroad.

DISCUSS CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Rabbi Schulman Criticises Eddy Faith as Incompatible with Jewish Religion—Divorce Problems.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 14.—As an indication of the efforts to strengthen Judaism throughout the nations, Rabbi Gotthard Deutsch of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, at to-day's session of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, pointed out that missionaries were being sent to foreign fields in an effort to induce Jews to hold fast to the tenets of the Jewish faith. Principally the address of Rabbi Deutsch deals with the difficulties which beset the way. He spoke of the adaptability of the Jewish character to that of the nation in which the Jew resides.

In a report by Rabbi E. N. Calish of Richmond, Va., Chairman of the Committe on the Religious Work in the United States, strong objection was made to college fraternities as subversive of discipline, study, and the democratic spirit that should pervade American educational institutions. For Jewish students it was recommended that organizations be formed for religious and intellectual purposes primarily, not for exclusively social activities, and that some one "on the order of a Young Men's Christian Association Secretary" be engaged to give his whole time to this work.

Rabbi Schulman praised the Government at Washington for what it had done on the Russian passport question, urged the teaching of the Jewish faith in the Hebrew language, pronounced Christian Science incompatible with the faith, and discussed the divorce problem. He said in part:

"It makes a tremendous difference whether the synagogue is being crushed by the arms of the destructive Russian bear or whether it is being inspired and protected by the contemplation of the flight of the majestic American eagle.

"As the religious leaders of the synagogue, we naturally take this opportunity to congratulate the National Government, Congress, and the President, and through them the American people, upon the clear and unmistakable enunciation of the principle that the United States cannot and will not allow any discrimination to be made by any Government in American citizenship, because of distinctions of race or creed. We congratulate them upon the act, which is now history, which was a splendid example of American idealism, and which told the Russian Government that the United States expected every Government to honor an American passport in the hands of any American citizen, irrespective of race or creed.

"One of the most important questions before the American people to-day is that of marriage and divorce. One of the most serious problems is that of the maintenance of the integrity and purity and spirit of self-sacrifice of the home, the family life, the cornerstone of our civilization. We have devoted papers and discussions to the questions of marriage and divorce. There are two extreme views with respect to divorce in the American world to-day. One is that no divorce, under any circumstances, should be given. And another makes divorce very easy, and thus we have a conflict of legislation in the various States.

"The synagogue ought to take stock of its own traditions—on the one and of its recognition of the indispensableness, in certain cases, of the possibility of divorce for the moral life of the Nation—and on the other hand, of its beautiful sentiment that inspired the Haggadah when it says that 'the altar weeps when two hearts are disunited by divorce,' thus bringing out that sanity and restraint which made, on the whole, for the happiness and virtue of Jewish homes.

"The synagogue ought also to encourage the State, in accordance with Jewish tradition, to legislate forbidding persons with certain diseases to enter the marriage relation, so that a certificate of health in certain cases, would be implied in the license for marriage, offered to the rabbi or the representative of any other church.

"If, as rumor has it, Jews, like others, are being influenced by the teachings of a denomination called the Church of Christian Science, it becomes our duty to investigate to what degree this is so. And for such purpose we have assigned papers and discussions on this theme.

"With any particular individual who through mental distress or physical suffering seeks what he considers remedies that are offered him by the practice of such a church, we should deal most tenderly. We should not estrange the brother. Heresy trials are contrary to the spirit of Judaism.

"But, on the other hand, when, as rumor has it, Jews formally enroll themselves as members of Christian Science churches and presumably subscribe to the tenets of Christian Science, some of which are opposed to the fundamental principles of Judaism, and when even officers of Jewish congregations find no inconsistency between membership in the synagogue and formal membership in the Christian Science Church, such persons should be told that such double allegiance is impossible, that membership in the synagogue is incompatible with formal membership in a Christian Science church, even as such membership would be incompatible with membership in any other Christian denomination.

BRONX DECALOGUE OF DON'TS

Borough President Miller Prepares One for His Subordinates.

Cyrus C. Miller, Borough President of the Bronx, has posted copies of a new decalogue in every department in the Bronx Borough Hall, at Third and Tremont Avenues. They are all "don'ts," and the Borough President has labeled them "Hints to heads of departments and other employes in the administration of the President of the Borough of the Bronx." This is the list:

1. Don't show anger.
2. Don't raise your voice.
3. Don't suspect people of intent to do wrong.
4. Don't tell people you suspect them of intent to do wrong.
5. Don't forget to try to deny a request, when you must deny it, in such a way that the petitioner is grateful.
6. Don't forget, when you find a citizen evading the law or playing a trick which must make you angry, if you have red blood, that self-restraint is a double victory—it saves your strength and disappoints him.
7. Don't forget that public officials are to help citizens, not to trouble them.
8. Don't forget that courtesy to fellow-employes makes for efficiency.
9. Don't forget that the Borough President will find it just as hard as any of you to live up to these hints.
10. Don't forget to read this every day.

To this list Mr. Miller affixed his official signature. He said the list was prompted by purely idealistic motives.

CLOSE TO SLAYER OF LYNN MANUFACTURER

Police Say They Expect to Arrest To-day Man Who Murdered George E. Marsh.

CLUE IN NEW YORK STATE

Business Acquaintance Who Had Traveled Far to See His Victim Is Accused of Crime.

Special to The New York Times.

LYNN, Mass., April 14.—George E. Marsh, whose bullet-ridden body was found near the Point-of-Pines Boulevard, Friday morning, was shot to death in the vicinity of Mariana Street around midnight that morning, according to a new theory to-night based upon the testimony of six different persons who heard shots at that time. The street is near the Goodwill Soap factory, of which Marsh was the official head, and he may have met his death there or in a neighboring house.

It can be definitely stated that the Lynn police have narrowed their search down to two men and the evidence against one is so strong that to-night three inspectors left hastily to search for this man. The man whom the police are most anxious to talk with just now is the one seen near the mysterious runabout, and the same man who loitered near the Marsh home for several days previous to the murder and has since disappeared.

He is said to be a relative of Miss Orpha Marsh of Stockton, Cal., a niece of George E. Marsh. George E. Marsh was executor of estate of Orpha Marsh and an examination of the murdered man's papers shows that the two had not agreed. Money was said not to be sent as often as Miss Marsh believed was her due and she had written about coming to Lynn.

Instead of coming on herself, a relative from Stockton visited Lynn in her interests and, it is supposed, saw Mr. Marsh.

Inspectors Stacey R. Burckes and William F. Murray have gone to Maine and Inspector William H. Kane's destination is New York State. Chief Burckes refused to-night to tell what cities the men will visit, but declared that he has what he believes to be positive information as to the identity of the man. He added that if an arrest did not result within the next twenty-four hours he would be greatly disappointed. Where this arrest is likely to be made, the Chief declined to say, but he admitted that he looked for it to be made by members of his own department.

The police to-night have settled on one theory and have practically abandoned investigation on all other lines. They believe Marsh was murdered by a man with whom he was well acquainted, a man who traveled far to see him, lay in wait for an opportune moment, and on Thursday night induced his victim to enter an automobile for a ride.

The detailed information in the hands of the police which has led them to settle upon this theory, Chief Burckes refused to make public, but he declared that matters had been thoroughly investigated and that he was satisfied of the correctness of the theory.

A Boston taxicab driver is a very important witness who was found to-day. Coming along the Lynn Boulevard on what he admits was a joy ride early Friday morning, he saw a runabout stopped beside the road where later in the day the body of Mr. Marsh was found. The chauffeur saw that the car light was out and slowed up his machine, thinking that he might give assistance.

The runabout was empty, but between it and the fence stood a man staring straight into the glaring headlights of the taxicab. It was the face of a man about 40 years, smooth shaven, with a stern jaw. Taken altogether it was a strong face, says the chauffeur, and the expression on it was not soon forgotten.

The chauffeur shouted out to know if any assistance was wanted, and when no answer was returned let his machine go on its way, but he says he remembers that face, and is willing to meet any man who may be accused of the crime.

The headlights of the taxi also picked up the rear light of the runabout, and the chauffeur remembers that the number was in five figures, and that the first figure was 1.

The theory that Mr. Marsh was slain while riding along the boulevard is given a setback by the statements of those residents of Marianna Street, who tell of hearing shots fired early Friday morning. The Marianna Street residents live several hundred yards from the soap factory and about the same distance from the Chestnut Street homes of Caleb Marsh, brother of the victim, and Arthur Marsh, his nephew. The Marianna Street residents who told to-night of having heard shots early Friday morning are Miss Hannah Roome, who lives at 53 Marianna Street; James O. Shanks, a city department employe, who lives at 11 Marianna Street; John H. Cash, an employe of the General Electric Company, whose home is at 52 Marianna Street; Mary E. Ray of 10 Marianna Street, and Mrs. Sila Bath of 22 Marianna Street. Mrs. Shanks, her husband says, also heard the shots. All place the time as between 12 and 12:30 o'clock.

Developments may show that instead of being slain while in the factory or in the park, Mr. Marsh met his death while in some house.

FOR ANY ONE BUT HARMON.

So Bryan Starts for Ohio to Campaign for Gov. Wilson.

William J. Bryan made it clear yesterday afternoon in an interview at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he had remained as a guest following the Jefferson dinner of the National Democratic Club on Saturday night, that he was going to carry his fight for a progressive candidate into the enemy's country, and that he was fixed in his determination to oppose the nomination for President of Gov. Harmon of Ohio. Mr. Bryan left at 5 o'clock for Ravenna, Ohio, where he is to speak to-night in favor of Gov. Woodrow Wilson.

"The fact that I am going to speak in favor of Gov. Wilson," explained Mr. Bryan, "is not significant, nor should it be taken as an indication that I am committed to him as opposed to any other bona fide progressive candidate. The only candidates in the field in the Ohio primaries are Gov. Harmon and Gov. Wilson, and I am determined not to allow the opportunity to pass to express my disapproval of Gov. Harmon and the reactionary element in the party which he avowedly represents."

Mr. Bryan declared himself as delighted with the reception which had been accorded to him at the Jefferson dinner Saturday night.

"The evidences of party harmony on all sides gave me deep, personal satisfaction," he said, "as did also the enthusiasm with which the declarations in favor of progressive Democracy by several of the speakers, including Gov. Wilson, were received. Only the most selfish servants of the interests can be blind to the fact that progressive political ideas are growing in favor throughout the country, and I am delighted to find that representative Democrats are practically unanimous in the opinion that the party of Jefferson shall not lead a retreat.

"It is the growth of progressive political ideas that is to-day rending apart the Republican Party, which for years has been the servant of privilege. If the people are aroused to such an extent that they are willing to forget party lines, it would be political suicide for the Democratic Party to sell itself to Wall Street. I am confident that next November will witness the greatest political revolution in the history of the country.

"If the Democratic Party remain true to its traditions it will once again be put in control of the destinies of the Republic. It is no time to falter in our course, and I do not believe that we are going to falter. The rank and file of the party will prevent that, and the new leaders who have come to the front during the past two years will demonstrate their fitness and their loyalty to their trust by uniting to prevent any betrayal of the party into the hands of the money power which has fought us so consistently and for so many years."

Mr. Bryan smilingly declined to name the new party leaders whom he believed to be progressives or to give a list of progressive candidates who might be acceptable.

"I am not committed to any one candidate," was all that he would say. "There are a large number to choose from, and they have all demonstrated their fitness. All that I can say I have said many times before."

Gov. Wilson, who was also registered as a guest at the Waldorf-Astoria, left early in the afternoon on an extended trip through the South. So far as could be learned he did not hold any conference with Mr. Bryan, although he paid a brief visit to the room of the Nebraskan shortly before leaving. Gov. Wilson was not with Mr. Bryan for more than five minutes, and it was explained later that his visit was merely one of courtesy.

But four times a year can we make an announcement like this

Four Thousand Full Standard 1.50 SUMMER SHIRTS 85c

Here are four thousand Summer Shirts made up by one of the foremost shirt makers of Troy from the season's accumulations of short lengths, which, through special arrangement, come to us four times a year.

The fabrics are the choicest patterns of the season—the very best selling designs this very successful maker had, as evidenced by these short lengths.

The quality of the fabrics is the same as that regularly used by the better makers in their 1.50 shirts, and, in some instances, those of higher price.

The full cut, perfect fitting models, the fine finish in every detail, the excellent tailoring and the fine laundering are all the same as those with which you have heretofore identified 1.50 and 2.00 quality in shirts by the better makers.

You may make your selection from plain negligee and pleated bosom models in upwards of a hundred popular correct and exclusive designs—in all sizes from 13½ to 18, in all sleeve lengths.

'Tis an opportunity of which the wise will avail themselves to secure their whole Summer supply.

DR. DOTY'S NEW WORK DISEASE PREVENTION

Former Health Officer Maps Out a Field as a Consulting Sanitarian.

BUSY IN LABOR SETTLEMENT

Declares There Is Need for the Service in Every Mining and Manufacturing Town.

With the difference that hereafter it will be carried on under private instead of public auspices, the work of Dr. Alvah H. Doty is to continue from now on along the lines pursued before Gov. Dix ended his sixteen years of service to the people of New York as the Health Officer of their chief port. Dr. Doty has picked out a set of offices in lower Manhattan, and has chosen the title of "Consulting Sanitarian." In that capacity he has already served one client, a mining operator, who called upon him to eradicate an epidemic of smallpox among his employes. The smallpox was driven out of camp before it had attacked more than one man beyond the victim who brought it in.

Dr. Doty has made an alliance with a large medical laboratory in this city, and within two weeksh will formally announce his entrance into what for him is a new field only in name. At his home at 120 West Fifty-seventh Street Dr. Doty was informed yesterday by a TIMES reporter that his plan to become a Consulting Sanitarian had become known, and he was asked to talk about the possibilities of his new work as he saw them.

"In the first place," he said, "I am not attempting anything novel among sanitarians, although there never has been a private citizen who devoted himself entirely to this line of endeavor. I am pioneering only in the sense that former Fire Chief Croker is pioneering in his work for fire prevention.

Prevention the Aim.

"Prevention is to be the very keynote and constant motto for my efforts. Sanitarians are through working for cures; they are one and all back to the fundamentals and the art of stopping epidemics before they get a start.

"In that work early notice of the appearance of an infectious disease is the most important necessity. Give us an early start, and we will attend to the rest along lines first laid down in the work of Dr. Walter Reed and his associates, who discovered that mosquitos carry yellow fever.

"The chance to duplicate the work of Dr. Reed, and the work of the Government sanitarians in Cuba, the Philippines, and Panama, exists to-day in practically every mining camp and manufacturing and smelting town in this country. And where the corporation owns the land and the houses of the employes, a field is offered in which immediate action can be had.

"To stop epidemics among the employes of large business concerns is to be our first endeavor. And while we work in this field of sanitation on a large scale, I hope to make my offices a laboratory in which there will constantly be developed data on all of the most modern discoveries as to methods in disease eradication.

"These methods, as fast as developed, will be accessible to any doctor having a special problem of disease eradication to face. It may be in one case typhoid fever among smelter hands, in another, smallpox among the employes of a large mill, or typhus fever, which brings down its victims by the scores per day once it secures a start.

The Way to Fight Smallpox.

"An incident that happened a short time ago will illustrate how the new science I hope to follow makes itself effective. A young doctor called me to a small town up State. He had found a case of smallpox and was in doubt what to do. It was the only case in town, he said, and he was sure there had been no other case. He was afraid he himself had brought the disease in 'on his clothing' from another town and was proceeding on that theory.

"It was the standard theory for the ordinary physician. It is the theory we know as the 'fomites' theory, and I guess it has cost more lives in disease epidemics and has cost more treasure in ponderous methods of wholly useless fighting than we would care to see totaled up.

"The doctor had his man quarantined. If he had kept right on that way he would soon have had to quarantine most of those in the town. If modern sanitarians are convinced of any one thing it is that it is absolutely silly to disinfect the clothing and bedding of healthy persons to prevent the spreading of disease. Disease emphatically is not carried on clothing or on things. It is carried by persons—and by insects.

"I laughted at the zeal of my young friend, and told him he was dead wrong—that the surest thing about his case of smallpox was that it had a father and a mother and relatives, and that we had positively to hunt down preceding cases in that very town before we should ever make an effective stand against the disease.

"I told him it was silly to think of the disease coming in on the clothing of a person not infected. I secured a list of the sick man's relatives. I told him persons and not things carried smallpox, and I asked him with whom he had visited before taking ill. We secured a long list of people. It was tedious work to visit them all. But one day, four miles away from the home of the sick man, we came across a man driving down a road in a buggy. I stopped him and questioned him and soon learned he was on our list. He was a cousin of the sick man.

"And on his face were smallpox blotches not yet healed. He was in fact driving around in a condition fully adapted to the spreading of the disease throughout the community. This man, we found, had been visiting in another town. The disease had attacked him in a light form, so slight that he did not notice the fever. He was the man we were looking for—the real disease carrier who had brought it in. We isolated him and those he had mingled with and kept close watch upon them, and in a short time I could leave the work, knowing that the danger period was past.

"There is no end to development of the discovery about the mosquitos and yellow fever. We are just finding out that vermin do the work we have long blamed on other agencies."

Dr. Doty was asked how he came to choose the work he has decided to follow. He said that employers of large bodies of men had besieged him with requests and had decided the matter for him by giving him all the work he could attend to for some time.

NEWSBOYS TO HAVE BENEFIT

The Money Will Help Fit Up Historical Society Building for a Home.

Thirty thousand dollars is needed to remodel the New York Newsboys' Home Club, at Second Avenue and Eleventh Street. The building, which is to become the headquarters of all the newsboys of the city, was formerly the New York Historical Society Building. It was recently purchased for the newsboys with the understanding that the general public would be asked to pay for the interior furnishings.

To that end the newspapers of the city are working together to provide the necessary $30,000, and William Harris, the theatrical manager, has agreed to stage a big benefit at the Hippodrome on Sunday night, May 5.

The bill will include many artists now in the country. There will be great singers, and scenes from well-known Broadway plays will be acted. A few headliners in vaudeville will also appear.

The old building which is to be the home of the newsboys is a stone structure, built in 1855. From 1857 to 1908 it was the home of the Historical Society. It is one of the landmarks of the east side.

The assembly halls and executive rooms on the ground floor, it is planned, will be converted into a library for the newsboys. Overhead, in the nooks where bookworms used to spend their days, there will be a running track and a gymnasium. The home will also include a dormitory for homeless boys. In the basement there will be a large swimming pool.

Dreadnoughts Florida and Utah Here.

The dreadnoughts Utah and Florida of the First Division of the Atlantic Fleeet, arrived from Hampton Roads yesterday afternoon. The two battleships, now the biggest in the American Navy, will go to the navy yard. The Florida is now the flagship of Rear Admiral Aaron Ward, commanding the First Division of the fleet.

FIND BODY OF HUNTER WHO DIED IN STORM

Dr. Carl Clemens and His Two Friends Had Perished Early in January.

WIDOWS ALWAYS KEPT HOPE

Men Whom They Urged On in Long Search Watch the Body Brought Ashore at Bayshore, L. I.

Special to The New York Times.

BAYSHORE, L. I., April 14.—Most of the residents of this place gathered on the waterfront of Great South Bay this afternoon to watch the bringing ashore of the body of Dr. Carl Clemens, one of the three men who went out in a power boat to hunt ducks on the first day of the notable January storm, and were never seen or heard from again, although hundreds of persons had searched over Great South Bay on ice scooters and had explored every nook and inlet of the five islands lying along its ocean front.

Most of them had been participants in the long hunt of January and February. The body of Dr. Clemens was washed ashore on Short Beach Island, five miles west of Fire Island. It was off the inner coast of this island that the power boat in which Dr. Clemens and his companions had set out from Bay Shore was located by the searchers, frozen fast in an ice pack. No trace has yet been found of the bodies of Edwin S. Bailey and Thomas Veltman, the hunting companions of Dr. Clemens, who perished with him.

While the body of Dr. Clemens was being lifted from a launch of the Fire Island Life Saving Station, Mrs. Clemens, who had been notified at Washington, D. C., of the recovery of her husband's body, was hurrying here on a fast train. There was much tense feeling here over the recovery of the body, and hundreds followed with bared heads while it was carried to a local undertaking establishment. A painful feature of the long search was that Mrs. Clemens and Capt. Veltman's bride of a month resolutely refused to believe that their husbands were dead, and urged the searchers to their work day after day when no one else had the slightest hope that the search would come to anything.

In its last two weeks the searcherr worked only because they did not dare to tell the women that they had abandoned hope.

It was Mrs. Veltman, the young widow of the man who had charge of the power boat in which Dr. Clemens and Bailey were passengers, who first made certain that it was the body of Dr. Clemens that had been recovered. She recalled that he had always worn two large diamond rings, and two such rings were found on the third finger of the left hand of the man washed up on Short Beach Island.

Capt. George Van Nostrand, of the Short Beach Life Saving Station, called up Mrs. Veltman on the telephone early this afternoon. He reported to her that while walking along the island he had approached what he thought was a bit of driftwood entangled in sea weed. As he drew near he noticed a glint of something bright shining up through the shallow water, and was attracted by it. On looking more closely he noticed a man's hand, and that the bright object was a large diamond set in a ring. He called for help from the life saving station, and on searching the body found $47 in bills in a wallet in an inside pocket of the coat, but nothing to indicate the man's identity.

Mrs. Veltman's identification was backed up by a relative who recognized the clothing on the body, he said, as that worn by Dr. Clemens on Jan. 5, when the hunting party set out for a hunting lodge belonging to Mr. Bailey on Short Beach Island, and later Mrs. Clemens herself arrived, with Mrs. Bailey, and said she was certain that the body was that of her husband.

The fact that Dr. Clemens had not removed any of his clothing seems to show that the three men died together through the swamping of a small rowboat in which they had tried to reach shore after their power boat had become frozen in the ice.

Scores of searchers set out in power boats after the finding of the body had been reported for Fire Island, Little Fire Island, Caesar, Holland, and Short Beach Islands in the hope that the other two bodies might be recovered somewhere along the beaches.

ARREST BANK OFFICIALS.

Accused of Concealing $60,000 Loss by Teutonia of New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—Eugene F. Buhler, President of the Teutonia Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, and Joseph H. Gomila, a Director, were put in the parish prison here to-night charged with making false statements to the State Bank Examiner and concealing the true condition of the bank.

Frank J. Braud, a former cashier of the same bank, and now a public accountant, was arrested at the same time, charged with embezzling $60,000 of the bank's funds. The arrests were made after an invehtigation by District Attorney St. Clair Adams. The bank is a State institution.

MURDER UNDER THE LAW.

Rabbi Wise Calls for an End of Legalized Taking of Human Life.

Rabbi Wise, speaking at the Free Synagogue in Carnegie Hall yesterday morning on the Sixth Commandment, "Thou shalt do no murder," condemned various forms of legalized murder, saying:

"War and capital punishment are two legalized forms of murder. In truth, capital punishment is indefensible on any ground. Punishment ought to be reformative in character; surely electrocution is not that. As for protecting society, protection can be secured by the permanent segregation of the criminal.

"'Thou shalt do no murder' needs to be said to a generation in which the fundamental barbarism of lynching goes unchecked and almost unrebuked. Lynching is not always for the unspeakable crime; but lynching is always in itself the unspeakable crime. Negroes are lynched for committing crimes for which white men would go unpunished.

"'Thous shalt do no murder' moves us to demand protection for the lives of the worker. Compensation laws and safeguards in the event of loss of life or hurt to limb are good, but better still is adequate and complete protection. Industrial accidents and occupational diseases must go. We demand safety for the worker even as there is now security for the idler. The work of the toiler ought to be at least as free from peril as are the recreations of the leisurely.

"The most potent single force against war is too often suffered to lapse into abeyance—the code of international morals. As long as we believe that war must be it will be. To believe that war is inevitable is to make it so. If we but are mindful that we are the makers of war we will not forever suffer war to unmake and to undo us. One article of the general faith in war, which means unfaith in man, is the belief that nations must ceaselessly prepare for war.

"We shall not have an end of that glorified murder which is war through the decision of Kings or the decrees of statesmen. The people, who have ever waged war, will end it, and they alone. The advent of woman into the life of a nation may mean the beginning of an end of war. Man makes war; woman breaks war."

Immediate Delivery

Spring is a more logical time to buy a new motor car than midsummer. If you purchase now, you will have the use of the car through the long, warm days when motoring is most enjoyable.

Peerless Motor Cars for 1913 are ready for immediate delivery.

There are three six-cylinder sizes, "38-Six", "48-Six" and "60-Six". Roadster, torpedo and touring bodies of great beauty, ample roominess and unapproached comfort will seat from three to seven passengers.

The Peerless six-cylinder motor has an exceptionally long stroke; it therefore possesses in an unusual degree the long-stroke advantages—flexibility, greater power and smoother action at low speeds.

Each car is equipped with the Dynamo Electric Lighting System.

Why The Stearns-Knight Has Caught On So Quickly

¶ The Stearns-Knight has been tried and tested in the hands of hundreds of users. It has more than fulfilled every claim made for it. In the aggregate, Stearns-Knight cars have covered millions of miles in actual road service and not one single fault or weakness has developed. Could any proof be more eloquent?

¶ The Stearns-Knight motor stands as the finest automobile power plant ever built. It is the choice of New York's most discriminating motor car buyers. And the balance of the chassis is of standard Stearns construction.

¶ In ease of riding and luxury of appointment, the Stearns-Knight has no equal in the markets of the world. Its spring suspension is ideal. It smooths out the roughest country roads and swings along with perfect ease at any speed.

¶ Its upholstery is thick, deep and luxurious. Combined with the ideal springs, the Stearns-Knight offers riding qualities hitherto unknown. The whole car is silent, powerful and sturdy. It has the standard Stearns qualities of ruggedness and long life. The motor after years of use develops more power than when new.

TO MR. TAFT'S MANAGERS.

It is a misfortune, not alone for William H. Taft, not alone for his party, but for the Nation, that the great industrial State of Pennsylvania, a great Republican State as well, should have been overcome by the onslaught of the destroyer. A misfortune it is assuredly, since it is another proof that this greatest democracy of all time, a democracy now approaching the middle of the second century of its existence, is not yet secure against the chief peril that besets democracies—the ambitious, plausible, selfish, and conscienceless demagogue. But if Mr. Roosevelt's triumph in the Pennsylvania primaries be a misfortune, it is not disaster, it is not overthrow. Let him be able and persuasive, let him be adroit in making or seizing upon issues with which a considerable part of the people may easily be deceived, and the demagogue may disturb the judgment of many of us, he may at times alarm all of us, but the collective wisdom and sound sense of the American people have always been our sufficient safeguard. We hope they will always be sufficient.

The election of a majority of Roosevelt delegates in the Pennsylvania Republican primaries is not a disaster to President Taft; it is only a reverse. It does not give even faint promise of ultimate victory to Mr. Roosevelt. It is not humanly and politically possible for him to secure a majority of the Chicago Convention. Excluding Pennsylvania altogether, Mr. Taft now has 337 delegates either pledged to his candidacy or favorable to it. Of the twenty-three States in which Republican delegates are yet to be chosen, it is easy to name fourteen which may with entire confidence be counted on to send Taft delegates to the convention. These States will have 232 delegates, which added to his present total of 337, will give Mr. Taft 569 supporters, or 29 more than a majority in the convention. The whole number of delegates is 1,078, a majority is 540. And this reckoning does not include Mr. Taft's own State, Ohio, with 48 delegates to be chosen May 21, of which the President will have a large majority, if not the entire number. Nor does it include the La Follette delegates, now 36, which will go to Mr. Taft, or at any rate are opposed to Roosevelt.

In spite of Illinois, in spite of Pennsylvania, in spite of any possible dissension that may be stirred up in Ohio, a survey of the field leads inevitably to the conclusion that Mr. Taft will be nominated on the first ballot, and excludes every shadow of possibility that Mr. Roosevelt can secure more than an impotent minority.

In this position of the forces it may be appropriate to address a few words to the managers of Mr. Taft's ante-convention campaign. They have not given the impression that their efficiency is equal to their responsibility. We have heard much of the statistical output of their works in Washington, something less than was to be desired of their activities in the States where Mr. Roosevelt has held the attention of the people by his dervish dances and his oratorical rigadoons. In Maine the hostility of the Hale family to the Administration and of the farmers to the dead and gone reciprocity agreement abetted the Colonel's purpose, and of well-organized effort to resist and overcome these influences little was heard. In Illinois the fight for Mr. Taft was left to be made by the Lorimer machine, already so odious to the Republicans of that State that they had determined to smash it, and of that resolve Mr. Roosevelt and his managers made the best possible use. Pennsylvania was intrusted to Senator Penrose, against whom, as against Lorimer in Illinois, there is deep resentment which is reflected in the result of the primaries. Moreover, the Senator, with quite unwarranted complacency, counted upon the disjointed machinery of his organization to prevail without special effort in the dangerous emergency created by the co-operation of Col. Roosevelt with an energetic rival boss in Pittsburgh. The reverses suffered in these States stand as evidence of inefficient campaigning. Mark Hanna, Zachariah Chandler, and Arthur P. Gorman were not distinguished as moralists, but at least they knew how to take care of States.

We say these things, not in reproof or an unreasonable criticism of Mr. Taft's managers, but to arouse and encourage them to put heart and vim into their work. To them is intrusted the defense of their party and of the country against a dangerous assault. Mr. Roosevelt's instant profiting by the labor troubles in the anthracite region points with unmistakable directness to the quarter where the peril lies. Once he helped these men in a strike; they believe he would help them again and always as often as they have fresh demands to make. Trouble, unrest, discontent, and disorder are the very substance of his strength. He feeds on them, profits by them, and by them he promotes his purpose of revenge upon the Administration. There is not an honest man in the land who can say with full conviction that President Taft by any act of omission or of commission has deserved the reproof of repudiation by his party. The sentiment against him has been artificially engendered by Theodore Roosevelt and his band of sycophants and place-hunters, and by the ignorant, deluded phantom-chasers of the Populistic school, by men of the "seven little Governors" type. Among them all there is not a Republican leader of consequence, not a man who stands forth as a recognized representative of public opinion in this country. It is not American public opinion, it is a devastating, revengeful power that animates and sustains the Roosevelt foray. That is its inspiration, and whatever faith those who are its abettors may put in his furious professions of a public purpose, of a purpose to serve and save the people, the end and aim of it is to destroy President Taft, and he cares not if in achieving that design he destroys the Republican Party.

Upon the men who are directing Mr. Taft's campaign rest the duty and the responsibility of both seeing to it that the people are not misled by this raging demagogue, and of keeping their heads in the face of these recent reverses. They must fortify themselves against the timid counsels of those who would persuade them to accept a compromise, to turn to some other candidate. Their candidate, the candidate desired by the great mass of their party, can be nominated and will be nominated on the first ballot if they are zealous and energetic in their work. They will be told, they have been told, that if Mr. Taft cannot win the support of his party in great Republican States like Illinois and Pennsylvania he would not carry them in November, and that his nomination would invite certain defeat. Let them observe attentively the situation of their opponents. Is it probable, does it indeed now seem possible, that the Democrats will present a candidate any more worthy of public confidence, any more likely to receive the support of the sober-minded Democrats of the East than was their candidate in 1896, 1900, and 1908? Does it require the gift of the seer and of the prophet to picture forth the issue that will confront the voters next November, the great issue between blind adventuring in new paths upon the one side and a sound faith in our Constitution and in our institutions, a belief in sound principles of government and wisdom and sane conservatism with safe progress upon the other? To doubt that, with such a decision at stake, the electorate would disregard party lines as it did four years ago, twelve years ago, and sixteen years ago is to doubt that the republic will endure. Besides, there was a memorable and bitter ante-convention fight in 1880 in the Republican Party, yet the party was united and victorious in the electoral contest. Let Mr. McKinley and his associates take comfort of that precedent when talk is heard of lost States.

MR. SATTERLEE'S PLATFORM.

An intelligent and energetic dreamer may have a useful function in a democratic society. On that account we welcome the suggestions of Mr. Herbert L. Satterlee with reference to a National platform given in The Sunday Times yesterday. Needless to say they are not presented with any expectation that either party or any new party will accept them all. But we should say that the Democratic Platform Committee might study them with profit and pick out a few on which plain, honest utterance would command interest, respect, and confidence.

For one thing, Mr. Satterlee has worked out a principle for the regulation of business which, with careful study and skillful and upright application, would probably yield practical results of no small value. Here it is, in its most summary form:

> Let the sole test in every case be: "Does the business in question receive Government protection or assistance?" If so, regulate it. If not, leave it to achieve its destiny—untrammeled and unterrified. As to unprivileged, unprotected business, the inexorable law of supply and demand will govern prices and wages. All other schedules are artificial, inelastic, and impracticable.

This principle applies first, of course, to all business which is protected by duties on imports from foreign competition. It applies to inter-State transportation by rail or water. It applies to such dealing in natural forces—water power, &c.—as receive the delegated right of eminent domain or any privileges in the nature of a monopoly. It applies, in the mind of Mr. Satterlee, to labor organizations under certain conditions. He says:

> Entire frankness compels us to state that we believe that the organization of the power of the human hand and brain, and its sale at union-made prices, is a business that is to-day protected by the contract labor law, the employers' liability law, and much other class legislation. It should be regulated by the Government as long as it is protected.

His plan for securing regulation in the case of labor is ingenious. It is not likely to prove popular, nor is it easy to see how it could be brought within the range of powers granted to the National Government.

There is no doubt that many of the ideas which Mr. Satterlee discusses are in the minds of a considerable number of our people, and that they will have their influence in the approaching campaign. Although the writer was Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Mr. Roosevelt it is clear that his sympathy with the spirit, to say nothing of the policy, of the Republican Party is not very eager, and that such agreement as he may have with it is conditional. The earnestness with which he has studied general political conditions and the radical suggestions he makes regarding them are a sign of active movement in the popular mind. The foundations of the old political beliefs on either part are breaking up, and contributions such as his to the new structure are a wholesome symptom.

A RELIGIOUS AWAKENING.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement which, after eight months of well-directed endeavor productive of beneficial results throughout the country, culminates now in the series of meetings that began with yesterday's great assemblage at the Hippodrome, has afforded encouraging proof of the continued vitality of the religious spirit. Nothing of the character of the emotional religious revival which has so often been followed by a relaxation of religious spirit has marked this movement from the beginning. It has been thoroughly practical and systematic, and its principal aim, to inspire harmonious and organized work among the churches in every State, has been kept clearly in mind. The meetings this week, to be followed by the six days of the Christian Conservation Congress at Carnegie Hall, beginning next Friday, will enlist the services of thousands of men in every walk of life. Not only clergymen, but merchants, bankers, educators, and journalists will be prominent among the leaders and speakers.

A genuine religious reawakening has undoubtedly been accomplished by this movement, and it comes in time. There are active forces at work in every community whose destructive influences can be most successfully overcome by the vigorous appeal of religion in both the ethical and the spiritual sense. The public ideals have been corrupted by gross materialism, and the Protestant churches, at least, have seemed to be suffering from inertia. The awakening has come none too soon, but we have reason to hope that it will be far-reaching and lasting.

A permanent organization in Manhattan and the Bronx, called the Laity League for Social Service of the Federation of Churches (the name might be shortened for practical purposes) is an outgrowth of the Men and Religion Forward Movement which promises to exert good ethical and religious influence. It will aim to reach all walks of life, to concern itself with all social and public interests. If directed in a broad spirit, inspired by actual and practical knowledge of men and affairs, it should accomplish good work.

NOT AFRAID.

Gov. Dix spoke on Saturday with authority concerning the Republican bugaboo that the revision of the tariff downward would disturb the business of the country. He said:

> I speak as a manufacturer and business man. I declare with all the emphasis I can command that there is no occasion whatsoever for manufacturers, for business men, for employers or employés to entertain the slightest fear that they will be disadvantageously affected by the coming Democratic revision of the tariff.

Had the Republicans in the extra session of 1909 carried out their pledge to reduce the tariff in a substantial and honorable fashion there would have been no disturbance at all. The demand for reduction was definite and strong. The promise was clear. The promise was broken and the demand continues, and it will not cease to be pressed until real reduction is accomplished.

CHEAPENING THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

The Senate is appalled by the prospect that it might cheapen The Congressional Record excessively. The Public Printer informed the Senate that if the reduction of the price from $8 to $2 should enlarge the circulation to 1,000,000 it would cost $3,832,000. Accordingly the Senate limited the circulation to 100,000. It does not appear how it shall be decided who shall get the bargain rates. Perhaps those who apply early will avoid the rush. Also, perhaps the limit upon circulation may not be reached. There has been no perceptible popular demand for The Record because it is so inefficiently edited. Anything is allowed to go into it, and no sense of proportion is shown in the assignment of subjects or selection of those who shall "cover" them.

In fact the Congressmen assign themselves, and shamelessly misreport the reception of their efforts as statesmen. First pages are occupied by subjects often unworthy of mention, and matter is printed which has no right of publication at the people's expense. The quality has been cheapened even more than the price, and that is the reason why the bargain rate will not be attractive. What The Record needs is either an editor or a truthful reporter. It might have a future if it either published only proceedings fit to be printed, or if it printed everything exactly as it happens, and nothing else. The parts of The Record which its contemporaries select for publication under the present management are mostly those which make The Record appear to be a humorous publication. If Congress really desires both to cheapen the price and to limit the circulation nothing could be easier. It would only be necessary to abolish the franking privilege, and to make The Record assume the character indicated by its name. A Congressional Record which should be that and nothing else would no more be afflicted with an embarrassing circulation than the Congressional galleries with overcrowding.

ROADS OF LOW FIRST COST.

In the interview with Secretary Edward S. Cornell of the National Highways Protective Society, reported in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Times, Mr. Cornell makes some pointed and timely remarks about the first cost of this State's new roads. They are of macadam. Macadam is the weakest of all substantial roadbeds in withstanding the backward thrust of motor car wheels. The fine top dressing is sent in clouds over the adjacent land, the road is quickly raveled, and the expense for its repair speedily amounts to the original outlay. Secretary Cornell says:

> Not long ago Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut asked me if I advised construction in this State of 100 miles of road at $2,500 a mile, or ten miles of road at $25,000 a mile. I told him that the ten miles would be the better investment of the two for any State providing a certain annual expenditure for upkeep.

The road builders of this State have not looked far enough into the future. Already many of the new roads built under the $50,000,000 appropriation have been practically destroyed, and the cost of maintenance of the rest amounts annually to a large percentage of their first cost. The counsel of making haste slowly was never more needed. The people next Fall are to vote upon a bond issue of $50,000,000 more, and they will want to know whether roads to be built at large expense to the State will be of a kind that will admit of economical repair.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Starvation Used as a Key. Again the English suffragettes have utilized, as a means of getting out of prison, the so-called hunger strike, a device invented, or at least first brought to public notice, by political exiles in Siberia. Five of the incarcerated window-smashers deliberately refused to eat, and, when forced feeding was attempted, gave by their agonized shrieks such a verisimilitudinous imitation of women who were being tortured that there didn't seem to be anything to do except to set them free. And set free they were.

Whether they really would have starved themselves to death if not released may be just a little doubtful, but there is no question that they much exaggerated their sufferings when nourishment was administered to them against their will. Except for the restraint placed upon them to make the administration possible, they could have felt nothing worse than a discomfort often endured with composure by invalids with one or another affection of the throat. To be "tube-fed," as they call it in hospitals, is not pleasant, but it is not torture. However, as the Siberian exiles have not infrequently secured by hunger strikes, and from harsher jailors than these women had, desired mitigations of their conditions, it is no wonder that the Warden of Aylesbury Jail was alarmed by what was going on and took steps to get rid of prisoners who at least seemed ready to carry protest to the very last extremity.

That the same expedient is not oftener used in jails to secure freedom is somewhat strange. Ordinary criminals never seem to think of it as a plan to be followed in combination, but if they did the present sufficiently difficult problems of imprisonment would be much complicated. Probably the explanation lies in the low intelligence of the ordinary criminal, his acceptance of confinement as more or less a matter of course, to be made the best of, and his inability to resist the temptation to eat when he is hungry.

The suffragettes are different, and they know perfectly well that it would never do to let them die of starvation. And the chance that they would do it if not set free evidently seemed large—too large to be safely taken.

A New Rival for the Speed Record. That the French were building a fine new steamer for the transatlantic service has been known for some time, but that she is to be as fast as her trial trip indicates is news that will cause a good deal of surprise. Of course, nobody doubted the ability of the French to make vessels either as large or with as much speed as those built in Great Britain or Germany, but hitherto the effort to do so has not been made.

Curiously enough, the recent tendency in maritime architecture has seemed rather toward size and magnificence than toward speed, and many millions have been invested in steamships that admittedly cannot cross the ocean as rapidly by a day or two, or three, as can some of their predecessors. Evidently the belief of their builders is that there are still people in the world who are not in a tearing hurry—people to whom a sea voyage is or can be something in itself enjoyable, not something the sooner over the better.

That is, of course, a matter of taste—and to a degree, perhaps, a matter of susceptibility to seasickness. No ship can ever be too fast, or even fast enough, for those for whom every hour on board which is not one of agony is one of misery. "Good sailors," however, are now seemingly more numerous than they used to be, yet the desire to be on a "record-breaker" is still so strong that "the fastest boat" certainly has the best chance to be crowded on every trip.

But there are other travelers who really enjoy a leisurely passage and are quite willing to prolong it either by taking a slower boat or by going a longer course. To not one out of ten—or to one out of twenty—is the gaining of a few hours or even a few days of any real consequence, and the experienced voyager asks several questions about a ship before he inquires how fast she is. His concern is as to the competence and courtesy of the officers, the arrangement of saloons and cabins, the quality of the food, and the service. These are the things that count for most in making an ocean trip happy or unhappy.

Bermuda, Too, Will Come Around. At last are the inhabitants of Prince Edward Island waking up to the fact that the banishment of the automobile from their little province has disadvantages as well as advantages. The island has many attractions as a Summer resort of the quieter sort. The roads are good, the climate is excellent, the fishing fair, the sailing magnificent, the native population of a fine old stock, prices are moderate—and such strawberries as grow nowhere else in the world, though they are scorned of marketmen because they won't stand long transportation. And these attractions have attracted, in the past, to an extent that added very appreciably to the prosperity of the islanders.

It has been noticed of late, however, that this profitable business is falling off instead of increasing, and in seeking an explanation for the lamentable phenomenon, it has been discovered that the banning of the automobile has had much to do with it. Therefore have delegations from several parts of the province waited on Premier Mathieson and petitioned for his help in getting repealed the law which, ever since a motor car, years and years ago, scared the horse of a pious islander who was on his way to church with his family and caused them all to be tipped out, has forbidden the landing as well as the use of such vehicles.

The delegates say that the exclusion is costing the island at least $90,000 a year—which is a good deal of money to lose. The Government has promised to give the matter "serious consideration," so the chances are that before long the automobile will have made its conquering way into another of the very few places where it cannot now go.

But Flood Will Come Again. With the crest of the Mississippi flood now well down toward the Gulf, it is safe to say that the troubles of the great valley are almost over for this year. With the falling of the waters the broken embankments will doubtless be repaired, that being the familiar preparation for next year's inevitable repeating of inundated fields and cities.

The levee system never has proved effective when there was much snow to melt and much rain to melt it, but the hope that it will do so in the future seems never to be lost. No more now than formerly is there thought or talk of doing anything except stick to the plan that has so often failed.

Yet the suggestion that the annual freshet might be treated as a friend instead of as a foe is always received with resentment by the people most affected.

ART EXHIBIT FOR SUFFRAGE.

Paintings of El Greco and Goya Loaned for the Purpose.

A series of informal receptions will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons of this week at the Knoedler Galleries, 556 Fifth Avenue, where a loan collection of paintings by El Greco and Goya is on exhibition for the benefit of woman suffrage.

The following women, who are all well-known suffragists, will be hostesses, on Wednesday: Mrs. James Muhlenberg Bailey, Mrs. Edwin H. Blashfield, Mrs. John W. Brannan, Mrs. Herbert S. Carpenter, Mrs. Lewis L. Delafield, Miss Caroline Duer, Mrs. Jesse Albert Locke, Miss Cornelia Rogers, and Mrs. Schuyler Warren; on Thursday, Mrs. John W. Alexander, Miss Frances Arnold, Mrs. Learned Hand, Mrs. William H. Hyde, Mrs. Charles Platt, Miss Harriett Rogers, and Mrs. George Kublee; on Friday, Miss Constance Curtis, Miss M. L. Draper, Miss Lydia Emmet, Mrs. Ansel Phelps, Mrs. Amos R. E. Pinchot, and Miss P. R. Lowell, and on Saturday, Miss Runtz-Rees and other members of the Connecticut Suffrage Association.

Mrs. Locke will give a short talk on Goya and his mysterious art on Wednesday at 4 o'clock.

POLICE SURGEONS MUST RIDE

In the Police Parade—Have to Take Daily Horseback Exercise.

Fourteen Police Surgeons, most of them stout and all of them unused to the saddle, are taking daily horseback exercise, by order of Commissioner Waldo, to be able to perform creditably in the police parade next month.

Heretofore it was a matter of individual decision whether the Police Surgeons took part in the annual march, and few appeared. This year Commissioner Waldo has decided that the surgeons must ride. Twelve of the doctors, gray and a bit worn in the service, are exempt from the order, but the other fourteen must be in the parade mounted.

Accepts Call to Newport Church.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 14.—The Rev. Arthur Crane, pastor of the Lefert's Park Baptist Church of Brooklyn, has accepted the call of the First Baptist Church of Newport, the oldest in Rhode Island, and will officiate for the first time on May 5. The Brooklyn pastor was heard here twice. He became the unanimous choice for the place left vacant last September by the resignation of the Rev. Edward A. Johnson, whose eyes troubled him to such an extent that he resigned and went into business in Philadelphia.

Publicity of Campaign Funds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article, while recognizing the fact that the success of the campaign publicity movement has been largely due to the action of the Democratic Party, says that the law of last year contains "the serious defect that publicity is postponed until after election," and that "obviously this was less than half reform." The law enacted Aug. 14, 1911, in fact, does require publication of the sources of contributions and the details of their expenditure before as well as after election. The approaching Presidential and Congressional campaign will be the first under the operation of the law.

The further development of the publicity principle in its application to funds employed to influence nominations or to promote interests affected by or dependent upon political power is now engaging the attention and enlisting the efforts of the promoters of the movement, who thoroughly appreciate the interest and support of The New York Times.

PERRY BELMONT.

Benjamin Schwartz's Opportunity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your edition of April 9 a Benjamin Schwartz sent a communication to your valued paper regarding the dangerous starting of an elevator. I find from the directory that there are eleven men by the name of Benjamin Schwartz in Brooklyn. If the Benjamin Schwartz who wrote this letter will kindly communicate with the Superintendent of Buildings of the Borough in which the incident occurred, giving the facts and details of the case, I am sure the matter will be thoroughly investigated.

RUDOLPH P. MILLER,
Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Manhattan.

GERMAN TEACHERS' TOUR.

Every State in the Union Will Be Represented on Liner.

When the Hamburg-American liner Grosser Kurfurst sails for Hamburg on July 2 she will have on board only German-American school teachers. Every State will be represented. All points of interest in Germany will be visited, and extensive plans are under way for their entertainment in the Fatherland.

After visiting Hamburg, Bremen, Cologne, Wiesbaden, Heidelberg, Mannheim, Stuttgart, Cassel, Eisenach, Leipsic, Jena, and other points of interest, the teachers will gather at the Niederwald, the famous national monument overlooking the Rhine. An elaborate musical programme has been arranged for this occasion, in which 5,000 members of German singing societies will take part. A hymn expressive of the friendship between Germany and the United States will be sung. The committee in Germany which has this function in charge expects that 200,000 persons will be present.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO DEBATE.

Metropolitan League Has Arranged Schedule of Discussions.

To encourage debating, public speaking, and interest in the discussion of public questions in the public schools, the Metropolitan Debating League has just been formed. The first debate was on the subject of capital punishment. The New York Evening High School won over the Harlem Evening High School. The schedule of debates now arranged is as follows:

April 17—The New York Evening High School vs. Brooklyn Evening High School at the New York Evening High School auditorium, Fifty-ninth Street and Tenth Avenue.

April 19—East Side Evening High School vs. Morris Evening High School. Public School 62, Hester Street.

April 19—Morris Evening High School, vs. Harlem Evening High School, Morris Evening High School auditorium, 166th Street and Boston Road.

April 12—New Lots Evening High School vs. East Side Evening High School. New Lots Evening High School auditorium, Sutter Avenue, Brooklyn.

All debate on subject of "Capital Punishment."

CIVIC BRANCH.

The Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., affirmative, vs. Liberty Literary Union, negative, May 4, the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

May 11—Liberty Literary Union, affirmative, Y. M. C. A., negative. Bloomingdale Hall, Sixtieth Street, near Third Avenue.

April 20—West Side Y. M. C. A., affirmative, vs. Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., negative. West Side Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Subject: "Is an employer justified in refusing recognition to Union Labor?"

May 4—Y. M. H. A., Ninety-second Street and Lexington Avenue, affirmative, vs. Educational Alliance, negative. Y. M. H. A. Hall.

Central Branch Y. M. C. A., affirmative, vs. Y. M. H. A., negative, Central Branch Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

COLLEGIATE BRANCH.

April 20—New York University Law, affirmative, vs. New York Law School, negative. Public School 63 auditorium.

April 20—New York Law, affirmative, vs., New York University Law, negative. New York University Law Assembly Hall.

Dr. William H. Maxwell, Superintendent of Schools, has been chosen Chairman of the league's Board of Governors.

SUN ECLIPSE WEDNESDAY.

Will Be Partly Seen in Eastern States, and Fully in New England.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—There will be an eclipse of the sun on Wednesday, visible only in the Eastern States. New England, except a section of Connecticut and of New York, will be the only part of the United States in which the eclipse will be visible completely; that is to say, in which the beginning, middle, and end will all take place after sunrise.

Venus and the moon will be very close to-morrow night, almost to what the astronomers call an occultation, but their position will be visible only in parts of Florida and Georgia. If the weather is clear enough on a line drawn from Texas through Arkansas, Ohio, and New York, however, Venus may be seen about eight minutes from the edge of the moon. Astronomers at the Naval Observatory here say there will not be an absolute occultation.

CARDINAL DEDICATES CHURCH

Praises the Generosity of the City's Catholics as Exceptional.

In dedicating the Church of the Sacred Heart, 168th Street and Shakespeare Avenue, the Bronx, Cardinal Farley said yesterday that it was his first opportunity to participate in such a ceremony since his Apostolic appointment. The Cardinal, preceded by choir boys carrying his staff and followed by his train bearers, the Bishops, and priests, proceeded up and down both aisles of the church sprinkling the holy water, finally pausing before the altar to perform the rites of dedication.

The church, newly finished, is a beautiful building of white marble, with elaborate interior decorations and furnishings. After the mass had been sung and Father McMann had ended his sermon Cardinal Farley expressed his pleasure in transmitting to the church the message which the Pope had requested him to extend to all the churches of his diocese, of the need of continued self-sacrifice in behalf of the Church. Speaking of the willingness with which the financial needs of the Church are met in New York, he said that nowhere else in the world had Catholic generosity been greater in providing schools, hospitals, and other institutions. He commended those who had worked for the establishment of the new church and advised the erection of a school in connection with it.

Mgr. Hayes, Mgr. Mooney, Mgr. Dunne, and Mgr. Lewis were among those who took part in the services.

DR. HIBBEN'S INAUGURATION.

Princeton Will Install Him with Imposing Ceremonies on May 11.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 14.—Preliminary announcement of the programme for the inauguration of John Grier Hibben, Ph. D., LL. D., as President of Princeton University, which is to take place on May 11, has been made by the committee in charge. The formal ceremony of inducting the new President into office will be held on the steps of Nassau Hall, and those connected with the university and invited guests will have seats on the campus. In case of bad weather the ceremony will take place in Alexander Hall, in which event the alumni and undergraduates will be barred, owing to the small seating capacity of that building.

The inauguration on the steps will begin at 11 o'clock, and will consist of the singing of a chorale, the reading of Scripture and the offering of prayer, the administration of the oath of office to the President, the presentation to him of the charter of the university and the keys of Nassau Hall, followed by the President's inaugural address, a hymn, and the benediction.

At 1 o'clock the university will tender the guests of the day and the alumni a luncheon in the Gymnasium, for which all the congratulatory speeches will be reserved. From 4 to 7 the President and Mrs. Hibben will receive at Prospect.

The chief colleges, universities, and learned societies, both here and abroad, will be represented.

TWO TYPES OF RELIGION.

The Prophetic Outshines the Priestly, Says Prof. Fagnani.

Prof. Charles P. Fagnani, speaking on "The Prophets and the Constitution" in the Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, yesterday morning, discussed the two types of religion, the prophetic and the priestly. The priestly, he declared, tells us that the first thing God requires is worship, while the prophetic says, first and primarily, "that men should love one another." The priestly is the champion of an institution, and the prophetic makes way for the new.

"There is a difference," he said, "between 'being good' and 'being good for something.' I say that 'being good for something' is better than merely 'being good.' It means that we are actively employed in doing good, in helping. One who nurses the sick is doing good, but is merely humanitarian, while those who are searching for the cause, and who are giving their lives to destroying that cause, are 'being good for something' and are greater."

GEN. PORTER, 75, READ SIX SUNDAY PAPERS

Looks Many Years Younger, and as Fit as Ever for Active Campaigning.

DAYS WITH GRANT RECALLED

Silent on Present Issues on the Plea That "Individual Opinions Do Not Count for Much."

Gen. Horace Porter, former Ambassador to France, is seventy-five years old today. A Times reporter called on Gen. Porter yesterday at his home, 277 Madison Avenue, and reminded him of his approaching anniversary. He found, not a bent man with white locks and a disposition to look upon his career as a thing of the past, but a stalwart soldier, body erect, health unimpaired, and with an absolute aversion to the words "aged seventy-five."

Gen. Porter was alone in his reading room. He had just finished reading six Sunday newspapers. When he arose the reporter was momentarily in doubt. Might this man not just as well be a son of the General, he thought, for the man he saw seemed no older than forty. But it really was Gen. Porter, one of West Point's most illustrious graduates. This was the man who had received military honors from Generals and from Congress. His hair, far from being white, was scarcely streaked with gray. He appeared to be such a man who, if it were necessary, could mount a charger and assume command of an army at a moment's notice.

The newspapers filled a few chairs and a table and the reporter immediately tried to get the General to express his opinion about topics of the day, the victory of Col. Roosevelt in Pennsylvania, for instance. It was in Pennsylvania that Gen. Porter was born.

"Individual expression of opinion does not count for much where big issues are concerned," he said, "nor would anything I might say be of journalistic importance."

And he really meant it. Yet he had received six brevets for gallantry in battle and a special Act of Congress bestowed upon him a medal of honor for services in the Battle of Chickamauga. He was on Gen. Grant's staff and once served as Assistant Secretary of War, later as Ambassador to France, and as the American delegate to the Hague Conference, spent $35,000 of his own money and six years of his time to find and bring to the United States the body of John Paul Jones, and won fame as an orator that linked his name with Henry Ward Beecher. This man said that any individual expression that he might make would be of absolutely no consequence.

The reporter tried a different subject. He recalled the ticket chopper, now in use at every ferry, elevated and Subway station—the invention of Gen. Porter.

"That ticket chopper," said Gen. Porter, "was simply a result of the old adage—necessity is the mother of invention. I was connected with the city elevated system and we were losing so much money because the tickets were being resold that something had to be done to mutilate tickets. Hence the ticket chopper. Purely a necessity, that's all."

His Civil War Career.

Then the conversation turned to the civil war and to the late Gen. Frederick D. Grant.

"Yes, he was a great soldier, like his father," remarked Gen. Porter. "I read that story about his youth in The Times this morning with great interest. The facts were truthfully depicted. And then there is U. S. Grant—he, too, is a good soldier."

In Gen. Porter's library there are some unpublished writings which bear on the General's conduct in the civil war and on his achievements in later life. Gen. Porter allowed The Times reporter to look these over. He lamented that much that had been written was not authentic and took pains to point out what was authentic. At the Battle of Chickamauga, Sept. 19-20, 1863, Gen. Porter, then a Captain, was a member of the staff of Gen. Rosecrans. It was on the second day of that battle that Capt. Porter, without orders, rode to the top of a hill from the bottom of which the enemy was advancing, in order to rally enough fugitives to facilitate the escape of wagon trains and batteries, which appeared certain of being cut off. Capt. Porter got about 200 men lined up behind bushes so that his front represented a complete regimental array. The enemy fired with shot and shell and many of Capt. Porter's men were killed. Some of his own men, in trying to retreat in face of Capt. Porter's orders to the contrary, attacked their Captain with bayonets.

His horse was struck and became unmanageable, his scabbard was broken by the force of a ball and he himself was wounded by a flying fragment of shell. He was the last to leave the crest and his mission had been a success. The enemy had been delayed at least twenty minutes and made to advance thereafter with more caution. A number of provision wagons were thus saved for Gen. Rosecrans's forces. For his conspicuous gallantry Capt. Porter received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Capt. Porter first met Gen. Grant when he was assigned to duty at Chattanooga under Gen. Thomas, who had succeeded Gen. Rosecrans as head of the Army of the Cumberland. Young Porter made an excellent first impression and Gen. Grant shortly after wrote to Washington asking for his appointment to a Brigadier-Generalship in Gen. Grant's military division. In his letter to the War Department, Grant wrote:

> So far as I have heard from general officers, there is a universal desire to see him (Capt. Porter) promoted to the rank of Brigadier General and retained here. I feel no hesitancy in joining in the recommendation, and ask that he may be assigned to duty with me. I feel the necessity for just such an officer as Capt. Porter is described to be at headquarters, and, if permitted, will retain him with me if assigned here for duty.

Led Grant's Tomb Campaign.

There was no vacancy at the time, but when, shortly after, Gen. Grant was made Lieutenant-General of all the armies he appointed Capt. Porter as aide-de-camp upon his staff with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, the appointment being dated April 4, 1864. Then began their long friendship. Gen. Porter personally campaigned for the $600,000 for the erection of Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive.

When Gen. Grant went to the front to order the withdrawal of the assaulting columns, just after the explosion of the mine at Petersburg, he took only one aide-de-camp, Col. Porter. Going on foot Gen. Grant and Col. Porter climbed over the obstructions until they reached a point directly in front of the earth works. To get into communication with the corps commander they had to pass through the artillery fire of the enemy. The order was executed and Gen. Grant and Col. Porter had done the valiant act which they probably would not have asked a private to perform.

In February, 1865, Col. Porter was brevetted Brigadier-General for "gallant and meritorious services." He remained with Grant in the closing stages of the campaign and at the capitulation of Gen. Lee at Appomattox Court House Gen. Porter was the only other officer in the room with Grant and Lee. Gen. Porter's impressions and notes of the conversation at this great meeting have been set down in a book called "Campaigning with Grant."

In recognition of his services Gen. Grant gave Gen. Porter the Appomattox headquarters flag which had been carried through the Wilderness campaign and which had been used at the surrender. Gen. Porter added it to the trophies which now rest in Gen. Grant's tomb.

Gen. Porter lives alone at his house on Madison Avenue. His wife, who was Sophie K. McHarg of Albany, died in Paris in 1903.

MME. DE CISNEROS LIKES AUSTRALIA

Where Antipodean Audiences Called the Great Contralto "Cis" at Curtain Calls.

MELBA IN TEARS PRAISED HER

Gallery Gods Have Concerts of Their Own While Awaiting Performance's Start.

An American singer is now here, poised for a moment, so to speak, after a return from the Antipodes, before she goes back there. Mme. Eleanora de Cisneros, the contralto, who sang at the Manhattan Opera House for several seasons, who before that had been heard at the Metropolitan, and whose most recent appearance here was made as the Empress Poppeae in "Quo Vadis?" spent most of her Winter season as a member of the opera company which Mme. Melba took to Australia. Mme. de Cisneros seems to have succumbed to the charm of that country, as she returns there for a concert tour on the very next boat that leaves Vancouver—a concert tour which will extend over nearly four months.

"It was a wonderfully successful season that we had there in opera," said the contralto yesterday to a reporter for THE TIMES. "We sang first eight weeks in Sydney and then six in Melbourne, seven performances a week, at a guinea for the most expensive stalls and five shillings for the cheapest seats. Before the company had left Sydney, however, the entire expenses of the productions, salaries, and so forth, were met, and what money was taken in at Melbourne was simply profit. The idea, of course, was Mme. Melba's, and she went into it thoroughly convinced that the scheme would be a success. For instance, she took the chances on not having a salary, simply being contented with a share of the receipts. The event proved her wisdom. J. C. Williamson, the millionaire theatrical manager of Australia, was in charge of the tour, and it was in his theatres that we played.

Mme. Melba's Friendship.

"Mme. Melba and I had never been very intimate before this tour began, although I had often sung with her and knew her fairly well. However, I must say that during the tour she was as charming to me as any one could be. I made my Australian début in Sydney as Dalila on the second night of the season, and after the second act Mme. Melba came to my dressing room with tears in her eyes to compliment me. 'My dear,' she said, 'I really didn't think you had it in you.' After that she never missed a chance to be as nice as possible. Invariably when I sang a first performance of any work she came to my dressing room to say a kind word.

"And I don't think I have ever appeared in any season of opera so many times as during this. I sang Dalila twenty-two times, Carmen eighteen, and Ortrud, Azucena, Amneris and Stephano four or five times each. When Mme. Melba discussed putting on 'Romeo et Juliette' I laughingly said I would be her Stephano, and she held me to it. However, I was glad of the chance to appear as a boy, although the part is small.

"But of Australia and the Australians I never tire of talking. Such enthusiasm for music, such appreciation of it! To gain admission to the gallery it was necessary to stand in line each day, as none of these seats was reserved. All day there would be a line of those who wished to sit there. At last, in the afternoon, they would be admitted, but there would still be several hours to wait. However, they had brought their thermos bottles and baskets of food, and the women had their sewing. Also, we had a very thoughtful manager, who provided the gallery foyer with a piano. So sitting about, they would have concerts of their own, waiting for the opera to begin.

Gallery Sang for Her.

"Sometimes, coming to the theatre early, I would pass up among them and sit down for a while to listen. They would call out, 'Hello, Cis!' to me when I appeared. That's what they always called me. When they wanted curtain calls for instance, they always yelled 'Cis.' Once they called me out so many times that I made a short speech, and then these gallery gods began to sing, 'For she's a jolly good fellow!'

"To return to these afternoon concerts one could often hear there very good piano playing or singing. I once heard a bass sing the air from 'Dor Carlos' uncommonly well.

"Australia is a very wonderful country. There does not seem to be any poor there. Fancy a company playing for eight weeks at our prices in a town of only 600,000 inhabitants. And Melbourne, where we played six weeks, has only 500,000. When we first landed in Australia we went directly to Adelaide, and I at once noticed that each person if possible had his own house and garden, some smaller than others to be sure, but all attractive. It is thus everywhere. There is no poverty even in the cities. Everybody has something.

"Outside of Adelaide under the mountains, which surround the city, is an enormous plain, which extends over thousands of acres. On this nobody is allowed to build. It belongs to the people for their recreations and their sports. The races also are held here. We spent just one day in Adelaide before going on to Melbourne, and we went to the races. The astounding fact in connection with the races is that they are free; anybody can go for nothing; of course, for boxes or seats in certain places you have to pay as much as you do anywhere else, but it is perfectly possible for any one to attend the races without paying anything. This is true in the other Australian cities as well.

"When I return for my concert tour I am taking a tenor and an instrumentalist. My tour is extensive and embraces not only the important cities of Australia, but of New Zealand as well. I shall sing operatic airs and songs, and several by Australian composers, of which there are one or two who have great talent in writing songs.

"Since returning to America I have been heard for a few performances with the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company. My first appearance was made as Ortrud, which, although I had never sung the rôle before in German, I did without a rehearsal. In a few days I apeared as Brangaene, a part which I had never sung before at all. Then, suddenly, all the Brunnhildes in the world became ill in face of a performance of 'Die Walküre' in Baltimore, and Mr. Dippel wanted me to sing that. However, I don't believe in trusting to luck three times, and I told him that I wouldn't do it without a rehearsal, and as that was impossible the part went to Miss Matzenauer.

"You see I have several soprano parts in my répertoire—Brunnhilde in 'Die Walküre,' Kundry, and Gioconda. None of them yet, however, have I had a chance to sing. I asked Mr. Dippel when I arrived if he thought there would be an opportunity of my singing Brunnhilde, and he said that Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens had a very small répertoire, that that was one of her rôles, and that she would always have to sing it. Therefore, I had not gone over the part since I studied it two years ago. And I was not willing to risk a début in it.

"When I do sing Brunnhilde I want to do myself and the part justice, and I shall wait until I have that opportunity."

Miss Crocker to Wed M. D. Whitman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pendleton Crocker of San Francisco announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Jennie A. Crocker, to Malcolm D. Whitman of New York City and Brookline, Mass.

MRS. DUNN GIVES A TEA.

Her Guests Hear Odd Old-Time Southern Melodies.

Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn gave a tea yesterday afternoon at her home, 127 West Fifty-eighth Street. Mrs. Lewis Livingston Delafield, Mrs. Burke Roche, Mrs. J. Muhlenberg Bailey, and Mrs. Schuyler Van Cortlandt Rensselaer were at the tea table, and Mrs. Sheridan sang old-time Southern melodies.

Among the callers were Mrs. John Henry Bradford, Miss Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cushing, Mrs. James R. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Hall Jerome, Mr. and Mrs. Taber Sears, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferris Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston, Mrs. George Place, Mrs. J. Frederick Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stuart, Dr. Theodorus Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, Miss Alice Riggs Hunt, Miss Louise C. Field, Miss Neilson, Mrs. Arthur Turnure, Miss Julia Van Duzer, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Collins, Miss Ruth Carleton, Mr. and Mrs. George Perkins Lawson, Mrs. Francis Dugro, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett Moore, Mrs. William Lowe Rice, Miss Mildred Gautier Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Swinyard, Frederick Townsend Martin, Reginald Wigham, Dr. Stephen Burt, Dudley Carleton, Stacy Clark, Emmet Erving, Henry St. J. Hyde, Roger Foster, Evelyn Bicknell, Capt. Agusta Villa, Frits von Holm, Alphone Fontheim, Frederick McGourkey, Charles Boyd, Edwin Denby, and Hamilton Thompkins.

THE BARRERE ENSEMBLE.

Andre Caplet Appears as Pianist in Music of His Own Composition.

The Barrère Ensemble gave an extra concert yesterday afternoon in the Belasco Theatre, in which it had the assistance as pianist of Mr. André Caplet, a French musician who this season has been conductor of the Boston Opera, composer of two of the compositions.

There were a quintet for wind instruments and piano, and a "Rêverie" and "Petite Valse" for flute and piano, which he played with Mr. Barrère. These last are dainty little pieces, charmingly written and wholly appropriate in their texture and musical quality, for the instrument. Mr. Barrère played them delightfully, and Mr. Caplet, as also in the quintet, showed himself to be a pianist of skill. The "Petite Valse" pleased so well that a repetition of it was demanded.

The quintet is a composition very well worth hearing, music of graceful and fluent invention, graceful in a manner that goes back of the present French school of radical composers, with which it has little or nothing in common. The first allegro is fresh and spirited, and there is a peculiar richness and fullness in the way in which the wind instruments—flute, oboe, clarinet and bassoon—are combined. The scherzo is dainty and fleeting, there is no great seriousness or attempted profundity in any of the music. The programme began with a serenade in E flat by Mozart, an octet, most admirably played, and there were also heard two movements from a suite by Lefèbvre for flue, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon.

THE PIERIAN SODALITY.

An Old Harvard Orchestral Society Plays in New York.

The Pierian Sodality is an organization of Harvard students for the playing of orchestral music. It dates from 1808, and its name suggests its antiquity—nobody would think of naming any society a "Pierian Sodality" that was named within the memory of living man. It may thus plausibly lay claim to be the oldest musical organization in the country. This society came to New York yesterday to give a concert for the friends of Harvard and of music, which took place in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor. Music has taken great strides at Harvard within recent years, and the Pierian Sodality is ambitious. It numbers over fifty members, and has players for all the instruments of the classical orchestra, though they are not so fully represented but that professional help is needed with some of the wind instruments.

The Sodality was a little too ambitious at the concert yesterday. It may be hoped that it does not regard the classics and the romantics of the last century as unworthy of its attention. Its programme, at any rate, was entirely given over to music of the most recent productions. It offered Rimsky Korsakoff's third symphony, with the proud inscription "for the first time in America"; Edward MacDowell's tone poem "The Saracens" and "The Beautiful Alda," and a "dramatic poem" for the trombone and orchestra by P. G. Clapp, a recent graduate of Harvard and a former conductor of the orchestra. It may be enough to say that the Pierian Sodality would probably have coped more successfully with music of less complication, and that Mr. Clapp is not yet quite ready to rival the modern French school of orchestral composers. The trombone solo was played by Mr. Modeste Eugene Allds.

YOUNG PRODIGY TO PLAY.

Max Rosenweig, 12-Year-Old Violinist, to Give Cooper Union Recital.

On Thursday evening, in Cooper Union, a twelve-year-old violinist, Max Rosenweig, who has won the attention of some of the great violinists of the world by his playing in the last year, will make his only public appearance for the present, when he will be assisted by Gina Ciaparelli, soprano, and the Sinsneimer String Orchestra.

Max Rosenweig is the son of a Forsyth Street barber, and was "discovered" by Miss Rachel Lubinski of 401 West 118th Street, who put him under the tutelage of Alois Trnka, and later under Bernard Sinsheimer. He has studied with them for several months. Now a fund is being raised to allow him to go abroad and study for three or four years, and the proceeds of Thursday's concert will be devoted to this object.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

To-day is the first anniversary of William A. Brady's Playhouse, which was opened on April 15, 1911, with Grace George in "Sauce for the Goose." Since then four plays have been presented there, the last being "Bought and Paid For," which will have its two hundred and fifty-fifth representation this evening.

Martin Beck has added Florence Roberts to his list of players who will appear in the vaudeville theatres under his control. Miss Roberts will appear in a one-act play by James H. Morrison, called "The Miracle," and her supporting company will include Charles Wingate, Walter Green, J. H. Morrison, and Ethel Merritt.

Wolfe & Galway have taken the Carnegie Lyceum, to be used as a children's theatre. They will begin their season there on Monday, May 20, with what is described as "A Dickens Week." Only matinee performances will be given.

The opening of James T. Powers in "Two Little Brides," at the Casino Theatre, has been postponed from next Monday to Tuesday, April 23. On Monday night the company will go to New Haven for a single performance at the Hyperion Theatre. Prominent in the cast, in addition to Mr. Powers, are Frances Cameron, Leila Hughes, Melissa Ten Eyck, Irene Claire, Walter Lawrence, Forrest Winant, George Pauncefort, and Louis London.

MUSIC NOTES.

N. Valentine Peavey will give a piano recital, assisted by Mary Adele Case, contralto, and Hugh Allen, baritone, at Carnegie Lyceum on Sunday evening, April 28.

Members of the Musicians Club of New York will give Hugo Muller's drama, "Adelaide," founded on an episode in Beethoven's life, at the New Amsterdam Theatre on May 17.

BRONX GIRAFFE PLAYS HOST TO THREE MICE

Spotted Pipe of the Zoological Park Offers Food to His Rodent Guests.

GIVES THEM A RIDE, TOO

Central Park Squirrels, Tired of Peanut Diet, Long for Nutmegs, Keeper Snyder Says.

Tall and stately Pipe, thus named with disrespectful reference to his long neck, is one of the occupants of a small house in the Zoological Park in the Bronx, which, because of his presence there, has become known as the giraffe house. Pipe, Curator Raymond L. Ditmars will tell you, is not blessed with the best disposition in the world, and has but few friends even among the men who handle the animals. The lanky giraffe, according to Mr. Ditmars, who made a discovery several days ago, carries a warm heart beneath his spotted skin. By accident the Curator found out that Pipe has made friends with three mice. The three little friends of the big animal have been dubbed by the Curator "The Three Guardsmen," and he is at present giving much time to a study of the strangest friendships he has ever come across in the animal world. Cats have adopted puppies, hens have led about ducklings, and dogs have mothered kittens, but with the giraffe there is usually the same show of fear over rodents as the lion shows toward them.

Mr. Ditmars entered the giraffe house one day last week, and he was surprised when Pipe, who has never before resented his coming, turned and faced him, ready for attack. He backed quickly out of the danger zone, and as he did so there was a quick movement in the animal's feeding trough, and three mice scampered out and down the leg of the trough to the floor and disappeared into a hole in the wooden partition.

Pipe, out of the corner of his eye, saw them depart, and then he relaxed his position of attention and turned from Mr. Ditmars with indifference.

"What's the matter, old fellow?" asked the Curator.

The giraffe turned his head and looked down upon the man. Mr. Ditmars says it was well acted, and was as though the tall animal were saying:

"You surprise me. What could be the matter?"

Always Three Visitors.

Mr. Ditmars thought long over the incident in the giraffe house, and he became convinced that the giraffe knew of the presence in his food trough of the three mice. He speaks of them as three mice, for his subsequent investigation showed him that there are always three visitors with Pipe.

He began to watch the giraffe, and the three mice would appear each afternoon when there was no one in the animal house. Pipe appeared to expect them, and one afternoon when they did not put in an appearance, Mr. Ditmars says, he became very fretful and kept up a continual march up and down his narrow inclosure, his head almost bumping the ceiling, but ever keeping his eyes turned toward the entrance to his friends' house. When they did come, emerging from the hole with timidity and ready to scamper back at the slightest sign of danger, Pipe just shook with joy. He watched them running around the floor of his inclosure, standing still so as not to trample upon them.

Pipe, spreading apart his long front legs, lowered his head until his mouth touched the ground. The mice knew exactly what to do. One closely following the other, they clambered to the top of the giraffe's head, and, when he was assured that they were holding on, he slowly raised his head until it was on a level with the food holder. The mice then jumped down and began to hunt for food. They nestled in the straw, supremely indifferent to the giraffe, who nosed the hay alongside of them.

"I am sure," said Mr. Ditmars yesterday, "that old Pipe was not looking for food. He was dispensing hospitality and pushing over to the mice the choice bits, which he was sure his friends would want."

At the first signs of some one approaching the mice would scamper into the hay, and Mr. Ditmars believes, though he will not admit he is sure on this point, that Pipe covers them up to hide them from sight. If danger draws too near the trio will scramble to the floor and disappear into their hole. In every case where this happened Mr. Ditmars found that the big animal would stand in an attitude of belligerence until he had covered their retreat.

Saw Them Several Times.

"What I have related," said Mr. Ditmars, "is only a narrative of what happened on one day. I saw the same thing several times."

Where the squirrels are going is a question which is just now interesting Keeper Billy Snyder of Central Park. Since the coming of the Spring weather there has been a falling off in the squirrel population in the Park. During the unusually severe Winter the squirrels had a very hard time, and they were only saved from starvation by a distribution of nuts.

Reports that have reached the Park authorities would show that the little animals have simply set out to discover other feeding grounds. Some of them have made their homes in the yard of the New York Foundling Asylum in East Sixty-sixth Street, and others have located in the Normal College grounds in East Sixty-seventh Street. Some are reported to have been seen in the yards of private houses in Fifth Avenue.

Keeper Snyder said yesterday that he thought one reason for the travels of his little friends was that they wanted some hardshell nuts. Every one who comes to the Park feeds them peanuts.

"Now, what the squirrels want," he said, "is the hardshell nuts, upon which they sharpen their teeth. His theory is that the squirrels, their constitutions broken down by the surfeit of peanut diet, have fled from the sight of visitors in disgust.

"I would like to suggest to the kindly disposed visitors that they vary the squirrel diet of peanuts by hickory nuts or at least Connecticut nutmegs. Just suppose you had to eat nothing but peanuts all the time!"

Committee Named for Amberg Benefit.

A meeting was held at the Hotel Astor yesterday for the formation of a committee of prominent German citizens to take charge of the testimonial benefit performance to be given for Gustav Amberg at the Casino Theatre on Sunday evening, May 5. The committee appointed includes Dr. Emanuel Baruch, Chairman; William C. Muschenheim, Treasurer; E. L. Boas, C. Von Helmholt, Herman Ridder, Julius Kessler, German Consul N. K. Ziegler, C. B. Wolfram, Dr. F. Pfeiffer, Emanuel Lederer, Udo Brachvogel, C. F. Ringler, Hugo Rittenbusch, Louis Steckler, and H. B. Scharmann. Plans are being made for the appearance at the benefit of all of the prominent German actors and singers in the city, in addition to the American stars already announced. The use of the Casino has been donated by the Shuberts.

"The Rose Maid" for the Globe.

The engagement of Eddie Foy in "Over the River" at the Globe Theatre will end on Saturday night, to make room for Werba and Luescher's production of "The Rose Maid" on the following Monday. "The Rose Maid" is by Bruno Granichstaedten, whose music is not known here. The piece opened in Baltimore a month ago, and the company includes Audrienne Augarde, Edith Decker, Juliette Dika, Dorothy Follis, Emilie Lea, J. Humbird Duffey, Arthur Royd, R. E. Graham, Alfred Shean, Edward Gallagher, Harry Lambart, and Philip Sheffield.

Ames to Produce Play for Children.

Winthrop Ames announced yesterday that the first production to be made at his Little Theatre next Fall will be a play for children, "Snow White," to be followed a week or two later by "Anatol," Arthur Schnitzler's comedy. "Snow White" will be a dramatization of Grimm's fairy tale, and will be produced especially for children. It will be put on for a series of matinées, which will begin late enough to give school children time to reach the theatre.

A PRIMITIVE OPERA HEARD.

Monteverde's "Orpheus" in Concert Form at the Metropolitan.

The last of the Sunday night concerts at the Metropolitan Opera House was devoted to a curious and novel undertaking. This was a performance, in concert form, for the first time in America of Claudio Monteverde's opera of "Orfeo." This "Orfeo" was one of the earliest attempts of the group of Italian reformers whose efforts to revive what they imagined to be the Greek musical drama resulted in the beginning of modern opera. It was first produced in Mantua in 1607. The version used at last evening's performance was necessarily an arrangement, for Monteverde's orchestra was composed largely of instruments now obsolete. The arrangement was made by Prof. Giacomo Orefice, an Italian musician of distinction.

There is an opportunity for a volume on this "Orfeo," the movement of which it was a part, and its composer who was the most talented of the group concerned in it. The audience last evening, who did not, presumably, come in a historical frame of mind, was considerably nonplused by the work, which of course is the most archaic music ever heard in the Metropolitan Opera House. A historical frame of mind, however, is not absolutely indispensable for obtaining enjoyment even from this music. Much of it is monotonous, and the obsolete forms of cadence sometimes become wearisome. But there are passages that give an impression of beauty and musical characterization to litseners of this day. Most of the instrumental preludes and interludes have melodious charm, simple though it be; and so have the choruses. The solos are largely kept in the form of a rich recitative or declamatory arioso. This verges on the modern conception of melody occasionally, as in the first solo of Orpheus in the third act and in several passages of the fourth act.

There are a number of striking illustrations of Monteverde's purpose to make music descriptive of the action or illustrative of the words sung that are interesting in these days. At the close of Sylvia's song in the second act the musician has set the words "full of horror" and Orpheus's sad "Farewell, My World" to music that must have seemed of special poignancy in 1607. And when Orpheus sings of "all the burning and turning stars set to dancing," the music gives an almost startling effect of realism. An instance of what harmony was made to suggest, even 300 years ago, is to be found in Eurydice's song, "O Sight that Gives Me Gladness," where the harmonic change on the word "gladness" no doubt brought the meaning home vividly to listeners of that time.

The piece was sung in English with a very diverse measure of success in making the words understood. Mr. Weil's singing and diction as Orpheus left much to be desired; so did Mme. Duchenes in three characters. The chorus sang well, and Mr. Pasternack conducted with zeal. The audience listened with amazement and with only the faintest attempts at applause.

Before the "Orfeo" there was a miscellaneous programme, in which Mme. Destinn, Mr. Amato, and the orchestra took part.

PEOPLE'S SYMPHONY ADIEU.

Season's Last Concert Devoted to Wagner—Appeal for Subscriptions.

The People's Symphony Orchestra concluded its thirteenth season of concerts at popular prices yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. The programme on this occasion was devoted to Wagnerian music, and in lieu of programme notes the conductor, Franz X. Arens, as usual, gave a brief exposition of each number before it was played.

Heinrich Meyn was the soloist, and he sang Wotan's "Farewell" from "Die Walküre" and the "Abendstern" air from "Tannhäuser." The orchestra played the prelude to "Parsifal," the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin," Siegfried's "Rhine Journey," the overture to "Rienzi," the prelude to "Lohengrin," and an "albumblatt" transcribed for string orchestra by C. E. Lee Massena.

With the programme yesterday was issued an appeal for subscriptions to the society which read in part:

"At the low rate of admission the annual deficit runs into thousands of dollars, which, however, has heretofore been met by supporters of this educational movement. Of late years, however, our expense account has steadily increased; thus, for instance, two years ago the Musical Protective Union doubled the price for rehearsals, which item alone amounts to an annual increase of between $1,400 and $1,500. On the other hand, our subscriptions, for one reason or another, have decreased; some of our largest contributors have died, others have left the city, still others have met with financial reverses, rendering it impossible to continue their subscriptions."

MARGARET MORRIS HURT.

Actress Breaks a Leg at Moulin Rouge Rehearsal.

Margaret Morris, an actress in the cast of "A Winsome Widow," fractured her left leg yesterday at a rehearsal of the play at the Moulin Rouge, and probably will be confined to her home, 108 West 110th Street, for several weeks.

A rehearsal of the ice skating scene had been called for noon yesterday, and Miss Morris was late in arriving at the theatre. In her hurry to catch up with her skating partner, Hazel Lewis, she slipped and fell. Dr. James P. Hunt of 59 West Forty-sixth Street was called, and after treating Miss Morris on the stage accompanied her home. Her part in "A Winsome Widow" will be played to-night by Gladys Zell.

BLANEYS FORM STOCK CO.

Will Open at Manhattan Opera House on May 6.

Charles E. and Harry Clay Blaney will take possession of the Manhattan Opera House on May 6 as the home for a stock company under their direction. The best type of stock plays will be presented and the prices, because of the large seating capacity of the house, will be low. The first production will be "The Fortune Hunter," and others plays to be presented are "Alias Jimmy Valentine," "Salomy Jane," "Seven Days," "The Great Divide," "The City," "The Deep Purple," "Paid in Full," "The Commuters," "The Lion and the Mouse," and "The Girl of the Golden West."

Hawtrey to Ottawa by "Command."

Charles Hawtrey, the English actor-manager, who begins a short engagement at Maxine Elliott's Theatre to-night, will give a special "command" performance of "Dear Old Charlie" before the Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada, at Ottawa immediately after his New York season. Mr. Hawtrey has received a letter from a friend, who is on the Governor General's staff, in which the desire of the Duke to see the play was expressed. Mr. Hawtrey said he considered such a desire in the nature of a royal command, and telegraphed to Ottawa his intention of bringing his company for a special performance as soon as matters could be arranged.

Hans Letz for the Kneisel Quartet.

Julius Roentgen, second violin of the Kneisel Quartet, has resigned from the organization to return to Rotterdam, where he will join his father and brother in an orchestra devoted to chamber music. Hans Letz, formerly concertmeister of the Thomas Orchestra in Chicago, has accepted the position with the Kneisel Quartet made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Roentgen.

ABDUL BAHA PRAYS IN ASCENSION CHURCH

Leader of Bahai Movement, Speaking in Persian, Pleads for the Oneness of Humanity.

HIS APPEARANCE STRIKING

Congregation Lingers After Service to See Him, in Oriental Robes, Enter a Modern Limousine.

In the Church of the Ascension, toward the close of the services, yesterday morning the big congregation knelt in the pews or stood in the aisle spaces with heads reverently bowed, and before the altar Dr. Percy Stickney Grant and his assistant, Mr. Underhill, knelt, while a venerable white-bearded Persian, clothed in his linen gaba and wearing his fez and his patriarch's tabouch, stood and offered up a prayer in his native tongue. This was Abbas Effendi, or, as his followers call him, Abdul Baha Abbas, the Persian philosopher and interpreter of the Bahai revelation, who has come to this country to speak at the Lake Mohonk Peace Conference the latter part of this month and to spread his gospel of the fundamental unity of all religions.

Dr. Grant was not the first clergyman to invite the Persian teacher, but his was the first invitation that Abdul Baha accepted, and there was little room left in Ascension Church when the 11 o'clock services began yesterday. As they progressed the venerable Persian took his place in the high-backed seat to the right of the altar, with Dr. Ammen Fareend, his nephew, standing by, ready to act as interpreter.

"It is to be our privilege this morning," said Dr. Grant, "to hear one who has come out of the East, a new and great herald of good-will, one bearing a message of love to all mankind. Abdul Baha Abbas is a master of the things of the spirit. He comes from that part of the world where men meditate, where contemplation was born. He teaches the fundamental unity of all religions—a truth in which this congregation believes profoundly—and we welcome here one who may help the material fervor of the Occident to gain a new peace by the infiltration of the harmonies of the Orient."

Abdul Baha spoke in Persian, with Dr. Fareend interpreting a phrase at a time. Our material civilization, the Persian teacher said, has progressed greatly with the perfection of the crafts and the forward steps of material science, but our spiritual civilization, that which is based on divine morals, has declined and become degraded. We should strive, he said, to make our material civilization the purest possible medium, the most unclouded glass, through which the light of our spiritual civilization must shine.

One of the things that supports a spiritual civilization is peace, he said, and the body politic is in need of universal peace, but the oneness of humanity, the human solidarity, which has been the message of all the prophets, will be achieved only through the spiritual power, for neither racial distinctions nor patriotism can further it. The oneness of humanity will come with the supremacy of the spiritual civilization, and not while, as now, we are submerged in a sea of materialism. The cause is progressing in the Orient, he concluded, and the heavenly civilization is daily making itself more manifest.

These things Abdul Baha said in the few moments that he spoke, before he returned to his seat beside the altar. While the offering was being taken those seated near the front could see him delving amid his robes, and finally his hand emerged with a bill that found its way to the plate. During the prayer he stood with his forearms extended, the palms of his hands turned upward, and as he finished he passed these over his eyes in a gesture that ended with the stroking of the patriarchal beard. A sense of the strangeness of the scene seemed to be with many in the congregation, and not a few lingered afterward to see the Persian philosopher, in his costume of the Orient, as he stepped into a modern Occidental limousine, to be whizzed uptown to his apartment at the Ansonia.

Abdul Baha spoke yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the New Thought Society in the Carnegie Lyceum, and on Wednesday afternoon he will receive those of his followers who have come from distant places to see him.

McCORMACK IN IRISH SONGS.

Carnegie Hall Packed to Hear Noted Operatic Tenor.

John McCormack, the Irish tenor, gave a concert last evening at Carnegie Hall, the programme of which was largely made up of popular Irish songs. The result was an audience which crowded the hall to overflowing, filling even the stage. Many were turned away. Mr. McCormack has not been heard in New York in opera this season. Most of the year, in fact, he spent in Australia with Mme. Melba's opera company. During that time neither his voice nor his method of singing have changed.

Last evening besides several Irish songs he sang music by Liza Lehmann, and airs from "La Bohème" and "Faust." He was assisted by Marie Narelle, who sang several Irish songs, and by Spencer Clay, accompanist.

METROPOLITAN GETS BONCI.

Singer Signs Three-Year Contract at His Own Price.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 14.—Shortly after he reached here yesterday Alessandro Bonci, the tenor, signed a three-year contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Bonci and the Metropolitan had been negotiating for some time, and the singer finally obtained his price. It is said that he will receive the same salary as Caruso.

HENRI BRISSON IS DEAD.

President of French Deputies Had Been Long in Politics.

PARIS, April 14.—Eugene Henri Brisson, President of the Chamber of Deputies, died to-day.

He was born at Bourges, July 31, 1835, the son of Louis Adolphe Brisson, counsel of the Court of Appeals of Bourges. In 1859 he was admitted to the bar of Paris. He became associated with The Temps and L'Avenir National in 1869, and was the founder of the Revue Politique. In 1874 he became a representative from the Seine in the National Assembly, and was one of the 363 who signed a protest against the Government of May 16, 1877. He reported the findings of the committee, which made parliamentary inquiry into the affairs of the Ministers of May 16 and Nov. 23, 1877. He had been Deputy from Marseilles since 1902.

Brisson was President of the Budget Commission in 1885 and Minister of Justice in 1881. He was made President of the Chamber of Deputies in 1895.

EDWARD J. RICHARDS DEAD.

N. Y. Central's Assistant G. P. A. Never Had Any Other Employer.

Edward J. Richards, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the New York Central, died at his home, 126 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning. Mr. Richards was 59 years old, and had been in the employ of the New York Central for more than forty-five years. He was born in Liverpool and came to the United States when he was 5 years old. On leaving school he became an office boy in the employ of the New York Central, and never had any other employer.

Mr. Richards is survived by a wife and one sister. He was a member of the Montauk Club in Brooklyn and of the Transportation Club in New York. The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock in the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Victory, Throop and McDonough Streets, Brooklyn.

DICKENS MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Dr. Carter Delivers Eulogy at Grave of Novelist's Son.

Members of the American Dickens League, the Dickens Fellowship, and other Dickens societies held memorial services yesterday afternoon at the grave of Alfred Tennyson Dickens, son of Charles Dickens and godson of Alfred Tennyson, whose body was removed on Friday from the receiving vault in Trinity Cemetery, Amsterdam Avenue and 153d Street, and interred in a plot donated by the Trinity Corporation. Psalms were read by the Rev. Dr. Gustave N. Hausmann, formerly of Temple Ausche Chichsed, after which a eulogy was delivered by the Rev. Dr. William Carter of the Madison Avenue Reformed Church. The grave was covered with beautiful floral tributes.

Dr. Carter, quoting from Little Joe, in "Bleak House," "Dead, my lord and ladies; dead, Right Reverend and wrong Reverends of our order, dead men and women, born with compassionate hearts, and dying thus around us every day," called attention to the loneliness which surrounded the death of A. T. Dickens, in a strange country, far away from home and friends.

"As his father," he said, "that master of smiles and tears, stirred our hearts in his characters, we cannot but feel our hearts stirred by the presence this day of the representative who passed before us for a little while and then fell asleep."

Jabez Rodman Parsons.

Jabez Rodman Parsons, retired banker and organizer of the Gansevoort Bank, died on Saturday from heart failure at his home, 155 Eighty-first Street, Brooklyn. He was born in New York City in 1839, entering the banking business in his early years. He retired from active business fifteen years ago. Mr. Parsons was a member of the Crescent Club. He left two daughters and two sons.

JERSEY SKEETERS SCARE THE GIANTS

National League Champions Just Manage to Pull Through a 4 to 3 Victory.

Jersey City gave the Giants a huge scare at West Side Park, in Jersey City, yesterday, the New Yorks having to extend themselves to win by a scant 4 to 3 score. The Skeeters, in spite of the cold, wet weather, bit the Giants at every opportunity and made a great finish, which almost snatched the victory. McHale, a former Red Sox pitcher, was on the mound for the first four innings, and during that sojourn New York got only a single hit, and nothing that resembled a score. Then "Sliver" Main had a very tempestuous fifth inning, and, while he was wobbly, the Giants scored four runs and won the game. After that they scored no more.

Jersey City would have won the game if it hadn't been for a misjudged liner from Larry Doyle's bat in the fifth inning, which sailed over Wheeler's head in right field and went for a two-bagger. Roxey Roach's error in this same inning, when he mussed up Herzog's grounder, was also a glaring mistake which helped New York.

A crowd of 2,500 looked on, and the field was so muddy that sawdust was dumped in the puddles. The Jersey folks took great delight in reminding the Giants of their two recent defeats in Brooklyn, and when McHale showed that he was the master of the New York batsmen, McGraw's men were advised to take a bit of bush league training. Drucke pitched pretty fair ball for six innings, but Maxwell, who succeeded him, got into a peck of trouble in the ninth, and almost let the cat out of the bag.

The Skeeters almost grabbed the game in the ninth. Deininger doubled to left and Wheeler went out, Hartley to Merkle. Roach's single to right scored Deininger. Janvrin, the Boston schoolboy, rammed a long fly to right, which Murray corralled. Bemis, the former Nap catcher, cracked a single to left, sending Roach to third, Bemis landing on second.

Here was a very rosy opportunity. Rondeau, batting for Main, foolishly reached his bat high in the air after a wild shoot of Maxwell's and raised a pop fly, which was caught by Hartley.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Pittsburgh with Four Pitchers Falls to Stop Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 14.—Pittsburgh used four pitchers in an effort to stop Cincinnati to-day, but failed, and the locals won, 11 to 7. Esmond's triple with the bases full in the seventh inning featured the contest. Pittsburgh played poorly in the field, while Cincinnati performed faultlessly. The hitting was heavy all during the game. The score:

Long Game at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Singles by Konetchy, Mowrey, and Hauser in the twelfth inning after one was out gave St. Louis the first game of the opening series with Chicago this afternoon by a score of 5 to 4. The visitors had the bases filled in the eleventh with none out, but fast fielding kept them from scoring. The score:

Brooklyn Strikes a Snag.

Brooklyn ran up against a snag in Newark yesterday, losing by the score of 6 to 1 to Joe McGinnity and his tribe of International Leaguers. That they were not blanked was due to the fact that the locals bunched their two errors in the eighth inning, which enabled Miller to get as far as third base, from whence he scored on Moran's sacrific fly. Although the "Iron Man" went the entire route, only four scattering hits were made off him, while he did not pass a man. Allen, who pitched for the Dodgers, was touched up pretty lively, and at the end of the sixth inning retired in favor of Yingling, who was even less effective. It was a case of the Indians having on their batting clothes. That they did not pile up more was due to the fact that the Dodger twirlers got perfect support. The score by innings:

Chicago Loses Final Game of Opening Series with St. Louis.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Although Walsh held St. Louis to four hits to-day, Chicago lost the final game of the opening series, 4 to 1. St. Louis scored three runs in the third on Hallinan's double, a fielder's choice, a base on balls, and Stovall's drive to centre. The visitors counted again in the fourth, when Walsh made two errors trying to catch Compton off base. Chicago made its only run in the seventh, when Bodie singled and scored on Zelder's double. West Hudsons Win Cup.

Six thousand soccer enthusiasts crowded into the narrow confines of Morris Park, Newark, N. J., yesterday to witness the annual cup tie final of the American Football Association, between the West Hudsons of Newark and the Paterson Rangers of Paterson, who had survived the large field of original entries from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New England. When play started every point of vantage had been taken and the limited capacity of the grounds taxed to the utmost. The West Hudsons, cup holders in 1906 and 1908, came into their own again, but only by the narrowest of margins, winning by 1 goal to 0.

In the semi-final round of the American Amateur Football Cup tie series the Brooklyn Celtics easily secured their place in the final round by giving a severe trouncing to the Critchley F. C., at Edison Field, Brooklyn, yesterday. The score was five to nothing. The Celtics, who went on the field heavy favorites, had to contend with a stronger team than they anticipated, and it was not until one minute before the first half closed that a score was made.

At Blatt's Oval, Brooklyn, yesterday the Clan McKenzies administered a whitewash defeat to the Arcadia Thistles by 2 goals to 0 in a New York and District League championship fixture.

The New York Celtics continued their unbroken string of victories and yesterday they secured their eighteenth consecutive win by defeating the German F. C. at Van Cortlandt Park by 3 goals to 1.

The St. George F. C., runners-up for first place in the second division of the New York and District League, met and defeated the Greenpoint eleven at Edison Field, Brooklyn, by the one-sided score of 4 goals to 0.

Bidwell Trophy Race Postponed.

Owing to the poor condition of the roads and the rain yesterday the motorcycle race for the Bidwell Trophy over a seventeen-mile straightaway course on the Long Island Motor Parkway was postponed until next Sunday. The officials and several of the contestants were on the scene at the starting time, which was set for 8 A. M., but decided not to contest the event under the conditions. The majority of the contestants could not make their way to the course from New York, and got into communication with the officials at Krug's corner, notifying them of their inability to reach the starting point. If the weather permits next Sunday the event will be contested. Many of the best known trade and individual riders of the East have entered, and the event promises to be the classic of the motorcycle racing season. It will be the first event of the season, despite the postponement, and will afford an opportunity to get a line on the events following throughout the season.

Miller's Loss Is Keenly Felt.

Jim Rice, coach of the Columbia crews, will have to send his 'Varsity eight out in a different order this afternoon owing to the injury received by Fritz Miller on Saturday. Miller strained a ligament in his back in his fall down stairs, and, according to his physician, will have to stay out of the boat for at least a month. Coach Rice is more optimistic, however, and thinks that Miller can row again in about two weeks. F. Latenser, who had been rowing at 7, has temporarily dropped out of the eight and Miller had been moved up to his place. The Light Blue and White 'Varsity will therefore be greatly handicapped in its practice throughout the rest of the month. The loss of Miller even for a short time will be keenly felt at the Columbia quarters at Edgewater, as he is one of the best men of the combination.

White Outpoints Moran.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 14.—Frankie White of Chicago received the decision over Johnnie Moran of New York at the end of a ten-round bout here last night.

LIGHTWEIGHTS IN WEEK'S BEST BOUTS

Brown vs. Young Erne and Murphy vs. Cross the Headliners—All-Star Shows.

With New York's three leading lightweights scheduled to perform, two shows featuring three ten-round bouts between boxers of prominence and the usual number of smaller shows on the programme, boxing enthusiasts of Greater New York will be kept unusually busy during the coming week. The Fairmont Athletic Club is the only big club which has not arranged for a strong card of bouts between professionals, but the club will be busy on Tuesday night with an amateur programme of considerable importance.

The principal interest in the bouts of the week is centred in the contest between Knockout Brown of this city and Young Erne of Philadelphia, which is to be staged at the Empire Athletic Club to-night. This will be the first appearance of the Philadelphian in a New York bout in three years, but at that time he did not occupy the same position in the boxing game that he holds to-day. During the past year he has shown form that he never exhibited in his early career, and he has been bowling over lightweights and welterweights with the same degree of success. Since Mike Gibbons attained his great popularity in New York he faced Erne in a six-round bout—the Philadelphia limit—and New Yorkers who saw the contest agree that Erne outpointed the clever St. Paul boy. Efforts to arrange a return match have not been successful.

Erne is a rugged mixer as well as a boxer of high degree, and Philadelphians are confident that he will take the measure of the local boy. The two engaged in a six-round bout in Philadelphia a short time ago, and opinion on the outcome was divided, some giving Brown a shade decision, while others called the affair a draw. On that occasion Erne made 133 pounds at 6 o'clock, and he insisted that the weight had weakened him. The terms for to-night's bout call for the same weight at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, which will give Erne an advantage he did not enjoy before. He usually boxes several pounds above the lightweight figure. Brown's fighting ability and style are well known, and it is certain that he will keep his opponent busy all the way.

A contest that is creating almost as much interest as the Brown-Erne affair is that between Leach Cross and Tommy Murphy, which is to be fought at the Empire Athletic Club Wednesday night. These boys have been natural rivals for years, and in the old days Murphy was usually able to gain the honors over the east sider. But Cross has shown great improvement during the past year, and Murphy will find a much different proposition than in the other bouts. Murphy, too, is going at top speed just now. Since his last bout in New York the Flatbush real estate agent has figured in a long jaunt to the Coast, where he engaged in twenty-round bouts with Packey McFarland, One-Round Hogan, and Abe Attell.

The National Sporting Club has also arranged for an all-star card for its show on Thursday evening. The main bout will bring together Matty Baldwin of Boston, one of the cleverest lightweights in the game to-day and Johnny Marto of the west side. This is a return bout arranged at the request of Marto, who is not satisfied with his showing in a recent bout with Baldwin at the same club. Baldwin won a clean-cut decision in the last contest. The remainder of the programme contains two ten-round bouts between boxers who generally figure in the star bout. Willie Beecher of New York will hook up with Joe edell Bof Brooklyn in one contest, and the other will show Battling Hurly of Passaic against Frank Loughery of Philadelphia. These four boys also belong to the rugged school which relies more of hitting and stamina than cleverness.

Heavyweights will hold the attention at the Olympia A. C. in Harlem to-night, the principals being "Gunboat" Smith, who recently came here from California, and Andy Morris of Boston. Smith was originally matched with Frank Moran of Pittsburgh, but the latter called off the bout and Morris was secured. Both men are out with challenges to all the heavyweights in this section.

At the Royale A. C. in Brooklyn tomorrow night the feature event will bring together Young Ahearn, the Brooklyn Dancing Master, and George Alger of Boston. Alger last week made a strong impression in Brooklyn in his victory over Johnny Dolan. The weight agreed upon is 140 pounds ringside.

At the Fordon A. C. in the lower east side to-night, two ten-round bouts will feature the show. The first will bring together Eddie Kelly of Harlem against Marty Brown of the east side, and the other will show Billy Lewis, the Newark welterweight, against Ralph Rose of the Fourth Ward.

The Sharkey A. C. will put on Soldier Delaney and Dave Katz, an east side heavyweight, as the main event at the regular weekly show Wednesday night.

The Brooklyn Beach A. C. of South Brooklyn will hold its regular show tonight with K. O. Egers of the west side and Frankie Williams as the headliners.

An amateur tournament, under the auspices of "Sparrow" Robertson, will be held to-morrow night at the Fairmont A. C. All the champions are entered in this tournament. One of the featre bouts will show Arthur Sheridan, holder of the middleweight title, in a bout with Spengler, the heavyweight champion. Sheridan will try to annex the heavyweight title.

The usual week-end shows will be held at the Fairmont, Olympic, Sharkey, Gowanus, Royale, National A. C. of Brooklyn, Irving, and Liberal A. C.

WANT HURST TO REFEREE.

Garden People Will Ask Boxing Commission to Make New Ruling.

According to a notice sent out yesterday by a representative of the Garden Athletic Club, George McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, and Wells also, will ask that Tim Hurst be allowed to referee the match on April 26 between Wells and McFarland at Madison Square Garden. The proviso is added that the State Athletic Commission pass a new rule allowing matchmakers to officiate as referees. Hurst is one of the regularly licensed referees of the State, but his position as matchmaker for the Garden bouts will not allow him to officiate, according to a ruling passed some time ago by the commission.

The referee question seems to be causing some trouble between the principals. McFarland wants Wells to accept Billy Joh, the referee at the Fairmont A. C., where the Chicagoan has done all his recent boxing in New York. Wells is inclined to oppose McFarland's choice. No one beside Hurst and Joh has been under consideration. McFarland wired Mr. Hurst yesterday that he would arrive in New York Wednesday with his manager, Emil Thiry, and his brother, Jack McFarland. He will train at Cannon's roadhouse, in Westchester. Wells has started training at Rye Beach, and will have to take off seven pounds before the afternoon of the bout, as he now weighs 142 pounds.

DRAWN GAME AT POLO.

Blues and Whites Each Score Four Goals at Georgian Court.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 14.—With a stiff easterly wind blowing and a thick mist enshrouding the woods, polo was continued this afternoon on the Georgian Court grounds. Mrs. George J. Gould with a party of friends occupied a box in the grandstand and witnessed with keen interest the greater portion of the play. Automobiles and private carriages were lined up on both sides of the field and there was a good attendance of the general public.

Punctually at 4 o'clock fourteen men appeared on the field of play ready to take part. Eight fast and hotly contested periods of six minutes' duration were played, a number of cut in games being introduced, so that all got a chance to compete. An unbroken line-up consisting of W. L. Goodwin, D. Milburn, J. A. Rawlins, with R. J. Collier at back, opposed W. G. Loew, Foxhall Keene, A. S. Burden, with W. R. Grace at back.

In the first period the Blues got away, Keene taking the ball half length of the field with three hard strokes, but was prevented from scoring through the intervention of J. A. Rawlins, who effected a timely clearance. The play was next transferred to the other end of the field, some pretty mix-ups being witnessed. Keene seemed to experience some difficulty with a fresh pony in this period, his hitting not being accurate and effective as is his wont, but with change of ponies in the remaining periods his usual form was displayed. Milburn was a conspicuous fighter in several of the onsets, his dribbling and general passing being especially noticeable. Rawlins was also in good condition, scoring the first goal for the Blues in masterly fashion.

At the end of the third period the Whites led by 2 to 1. In the fourth, fifth and sixth periods, there were a number of changes in the original line-up. T. Le Boutillier, who has been playing polo in the South, made his appearance with the Blues, and gave a pretty good exhibition. Final score was a drawn game of 4 goals each.

OARSMEN START TRAINING.

Boat Clubs Divided as to Location of New Regatta Course.

Active trading among most of the boat clubs will be started to-day following their try outs thus far which have been confined to such practice as could be obtained in the evenings or on the best weather Sundays in preparation for the Harlem Regatta Memorial Day. Yesterday was a bix exception to the general rule. In the first place, the sudden cold snap prevented all but the most enthusiastic from venturing on the water while social and indoor features interfered with the Friendship, Atalanta and Lone Stars from sending out their crews.

The Metropolitan, Nonpareils, Unions, Lone Stars, Bohemians, Friendship, Crescents and Nassau clubs will inaugurate their regular training season this evening, when most of the men who will compete in this year's races will be out for practice.

Headed by President John J. F. Mulcahy of the Atalantas, the down river clubs are agitating a move to Pelham Bay, where with proper support from the city, a course of one and a half miles of dead water could be given over to the oarsmen, a suggestion now being agitated by the New York Athletic Club backed up by President James Pilkington of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. It is urged by the moving element that it is only a question of time when all such properties will be taken up for business purposes besides which the oarsman has little chance to train owing to the traffic.

The Metropolitans will open their new clubhouse on April 27 and the Nasaus are to break ground for the new structure next week.

The Unions have practically decided to cut out the single, sending Godsell in as stroke of the Junior quadruple sculls, with George Keough at three, Tom Ryan two and H. Schwader bow.

SQUADRON A GAMES.

Programme of Six Events Scheduled for May 18.

The nineteenth annual military games and equestrian feats of the First Squadron of the National Guard, New York, will be held on May 18, at 2:30 P. M., in Van Cortlandt Park. The programme comprises many unique events on horseback for which prizes will be awarded to the winners of three places consisting of cups to first and second and ribbons to third. Six events will make up the programme, consisting of the following: Novice, for members, sabre contest. Lochinvar race, open to teams of two consitsing of man and woman riders. Potato race. Novelty race and manikin race.

NO SPEEDWAY RACING.

Regular Spring Matinees for Ten Cups Will Start on May 5.

The promised start of the Speedway season did not materialize yesterday, owing to a slight misunderstanding among the members of the Road Drivers' Association. Joseph F. Gibbons, President of the association, blazed the way by jogging out one of his favorites, but found few followers.

The regular matinées will start on May 5, and will continue for eight Sundays and four Wednesdays thereafter, for which ten cups will be offered. The trophies have been put up by the President, the association, and eight individuals—H. B. Clark, I. V. Hunt, C. G. Miller, E. J. La Place, H. Relley, William Cahill, W. Edelmeyer, and L. Whitehead.

WANT HOPPE'S TROPHY.

Demarest's Challenge Prevents Holder Becoming Absolute Possessor.

The announced intention of Calvin Demarest of Chicago, who was recently beaten by Willie Hoppe at 18.2 balk line, to again attempt to relieve the champion of his title, the only one now in his possession since his defeat at 18-1 by George Sutton, is the talk of the billiard world, in which it is openly asserted that Hoppe is to be deluged with challenges by would-be holders of the title, even if Demarest fails in his second attempt to wrest the honors from the present holder.

Xavier Club Takes Pool Trophy.

With a score of thirty-two games won and eleven lost, the Xavier Club won the Church Athletic League pool tournament. Holy Cross Lyceum and Trinity tied for second place, with a percentage of .721. H. N. Young of Trinity Club captured the individual prize by winning thirteen out of fourteen games played. The final standing:

JOHN J. DALY WINS BRONX ROAD RACE

Veteran Irish-American Runner in Fine Form—New York A. C. Gets Team Trophy.

John J. Daly, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, cut another notch in his winning stick yesterday when he annexed the first prize in the Bronx County Road race held under the auspices of the Pennant Athletic Club, by covering the four and a half miles over a variety of territory in the upper part of the city in the excellent time of 23:08.

The team honors of the event were corralled by the quintet of the New York Athletic Club when the Winged Foot forces got five men across the line within the first fourteen to finish for a total of 40 points, while their rivals, the Irish-American Athletic Club, managed to be second with a total of 57. The Morningside Athletic Club showed in third place with 71.

One hundred and sixty-six men faced the starter, the biggest field of the season for a scratch event. The conditions precluded the competition of more than five men from any one organization as triers for the team prizes, and it was conceded that this phase of the conditions helped materially toward keeping the field to the number which accepted the word.

John J. McNamara, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, who has been cutting a mighty swath in similar races during the past season, refused to start because the officials of the contest would not permit him to be looked after by a half dozen friends, it being contended that the club would furnish all the attendants necessary. Taking a line through his recent running, this action certainly kept the Winged Fist team from winning the first prize for the leading five, as he was conceded the premier position before his decision not to start.

The start was made from in front of the Waverly Club house, at Third Avenue and 146th Street, from which place the course led east through 146th Street to St. Ann's Avenue, north to Bronx Oval at 163d Street and Southern Boulevard, where a turn was made back to Willis Avenue and 138th Street, then up to 146th Street to the start.

Daly, the ultimate winner, who has been coming into condition very fast of late, having been unplaced last Sunday at the Morningside race, and second on Saturday to McNamara in a distance event at Newark, showed himself to be nearly as good as at any time in his long career, by leading from end to end. The summary:

EVENING H. S. CHAMPIONSHIP.

J. Manning of Harlem Wins First Place After a Stirring Race.

J. Manning of the Harlem Evening High School won the championship cross-country run of the evening high schools yesterday morning, leading a large field of harriers home by a margin of forty yards. His time was 20:12. A. Moreda of Brooklyn Evening High School was second, and G. Creed of Harlem third.

The run was over the Maplewood Athletic Club course of three and a half miles, starting at 319 Dean Street. The event was witnessed by a large crowd. Manning and Moreda took the lead at the start and took turns at setting the pace for more than half the distance. The other runners were scattered along the route, some of them being unable to keep up with the leaders and dropping far behind. Coming into the last mile Moreda was in front, with Manning second and Creed third. Manning then sprinted and took the lead, making the going fast. Moreda and Creed stuck to the leader for a while, but then dropped back, Manning going along in front alone.

The three-men team prize was won by Harlem Evening High School, by virtue of their capturing first, third, and fifth honors.

BULLETIN

To point to Scotch cheviots is to point out a most interesting feature of our Spring suits.

Fancy mixtures so apart from the ordinary that even the layman is impressed with the Scotchman's deft blending of colors.

Brownish tones, grays, and blue grays, all so skillfully woven that the effects are distinctly new and refreshing.

Spring overcoats of Harris tweeds go well with the Scotch cheviots.

M. A. L. RULE CRITICISED.

Disqualification of Athletes for Slight Offenses Deemed a Hardship.

The furore caused at the recent Military Athletic League championships in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory by the disqualification of Frank P. McNally and A. P. House, representing the Thirteenth Coast Artillery Corps in the three-legged race, because they were the colors of the New York Athletic Club in the race, refuses to down, and athletes generally are discussing the injustice of the decision.

It is conceded that the least the officials of the games could have done was to have warned the men prior to the start that regimental colors were desired, and not wait until after the men had achieved a victory and then disqualify them.

In contradiction to the statement that the action was unfair to the participants, the Military Athletic League people assert that the entry forms contained a rule to the effect that disqualification would follow the participation by any athlete in colors other than those of the military organization he represented.

This the men assert that they did not see, because of the fact that the athletic trainer is the man who has the entering of the various competitors in the events, and they seldom, if ever, see an entry blank.

SCHOOLS.

NEW YORK—Manhattan.

Ethical Culture School

Founded in 1879
by Felix Adler

Central Park West
and 63rd Street

Kindergarten, Elementary, High School and Normal Departments. Country Camp, Athletic Sports, and School festivals. Broad course of ethical instruction.

In September, 1912, new Open Air Classes will be held on the roof overlooking Central Park.

For these Open Air Classes, in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, a few places are still available; and because of the transfer of some in-door pupils to the roof, a few places are also available in the regular school.

Application, in either case, should be made promptly to

Franklin C. Lewis, Superintendent

Former instructor (Bryn Mawr) seeks young ladies to coach during summer, (French, German); also music (vocal, piano). Board and tuition at her bungalow, Rockland City; 80 miles from New York City. Simple, refined country home. Further particulars, Miss D., 88 11th Av., Newark, N. J.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

It is not necessary to assume any adverse changes in the fundamental conditions which have underlain the improvement in the security markets during the past two months to explain the reaction which occurred on the Stock Exchange last week. It is true that the news of the week included items which exerted unfavorable influence upon stock market sentiment, but the reaction itself had for some time past been expected quite independently of the character of the news, which from day to day might be presented for the consideration of the financial community. The rise which had taken place since Feb. 1, when the low point of the year so far was recorded, had carried the general level of prices, as expressed in the average quotation of twenty-five industrials and twenty-five railroad issues, to above last year's high point for the industrial stocks, and to a figure not much below the highest level reached last year by the railroad group. Even viewed apart from events which were immediately responsible for the turn in the market tide it is not surprising that last week should have seen a general reaction of about 2 points after a rise which with few interruptions had raised the quotation of the railroad stocks about 7½ points, and the industrial stocks about 9 points.

In order, however, not to minimize the possible influence of the adverse news of the past week, which governed the course of prices to the exclusion of the more general considerations which have furnished the background for recent market improvement, it should be noted that this news contained possible indications of a lessening of the force of some of the theories upon which stocks had previously been advancing. At all events, the temper of the market was such that weight of this kind was given to the news of the week. First came the April Government crop report showing a decline in the condition of Winter wheat of 6 points since last December, the April 1 figure being 5½ points under the ten-year average at this date. Following this poor report came many private advices regarding damage to the Winter wheat fields, and to all of these the grain markets were inclined to give full credence. In Chicago May wheat rose from $1.015 a bushel on Monday to $1.10 a bushel on Saturday, and thus the market seemed to be confirming the probable accuracy of the low estimate of condition, which these private advices were putting upon the Winter wheat crop. This was undoubtedly one of the influences affecting stock market sentiment, but perhaps not a very important one, because of the prevailing disposition in the financial district to minimize the week's reports of wheat damage. It was realized, in other words, that it is altogether too early to take it for granted that this year's wheat crop will be disappointing, particularly after count is taken of the fact that this season there has admittedly been provided for the future use of the crops an amount of moisture which promises to prevent this year the lack of reserve moisture which was the most serious handicap with which last year's grain crop had to contend.

So far as its direct effect upon stock market sentiment is concerned a place of prominence in the week's record belongs to the outcome of the Presidential primaries in Illinois, and to the uncertainty which was felt regarding the results of Saturday's primary in Pennsylvania. One of the theories upon which the stock market had been proceeding was that no important popular support would be accorded to the extreme radicals in the contest for Presidential nominations, and the result in Illinois, viewed superficially, at least, was calculated to lessen the confidence of the Stock Exchange in the correctness of this particular theory. It is worth recording, however, that it has been one of the general assumptions that political scares would as usual play their part in the stock markets of this Spring and Summer, and last week's incidents on the Stock Exchange, so far as they had political complexion, may properly be set down as among the expected developments. It is not necessary in granting whatever measure of influence the political factor may have exerted upon prices to assume that even the Stock Exchange regarded the events from which it took fright as at all conclusive as an indication of the final result.

A somewhat prominent place belongs also to the labor situation. The very large vote by the locomotive engineers in favor of supporting their union officials in the demands which they have made upon the railroads, even to the extent of declaring a strike, serves to emphasize the seriousness of these demands. At the same time the strike vote was in no way a surprise, but on the contrary was part of the usual procedure in the urging of demands such as the engineers have made. Even now there are very few who regard a strike as a probability, and recent experience gives much support to the belief that a way out of the threatened strike will be found. It may, though, mean a further concession in wages, just as the feeling prevails also that an increase in the wages of the anthracite miners and an advance in the price of coal will be the ultimate outcome of the negotiations now under way between the operators and the miners. In neither case is a further addition to the cost of these men's product, coal in one case and transportation in another, to be viewed lightly, even if it should prove, as matters stand, inevitable. The public at large might be inclined to console itself in respect to an increase in the wages of the locomotive engineers by the theory that in this case the railroads would be the sufferers rather than the public, because of the great difficulty in the way of increasing freight rates, and thus passing the cost of added wages on to the ultimate consumer. The theory is not a sound one, however, for ultimately the public will have to pay in one form or another for any addition to the production cost of transportation which unduly narrows the margin between that cost and the price which the railroads are permitted to charge for the transportation which they supply. This, however, is looking a little further into the future than the question whether an open breach between the railroads and the engineers will be avoided. That it will be avoided is the consensus of opinion in the financial district.

Just now there is a good deal of financing which the railroads would like to do and which they probably will do as soon as the bond market again shows activity, providing they can see their way clear to assuming the charges arising from the issuance of more bonds. The most pressing need of the railroads seems to be for more equipment, for tonnage continues to grow even though profits in handling it may be small, and more cars are needed for its convenient handling than the railroads now own. This is but one of the reasons of expediency, if not of justice, which should prevail against any further addition to the operating expenses of the railways if there is any way of avoiding it.

Of the general business situation it remains true, according to all the indications at hand, that optimism is growing and that trade is actually assuming larger volume. Two important industries were heard from last week—one in the shape of the unfilled orders statement of the Steel Corporation and the other in the form of the monthly report of the Copper Producers' Association. The latter showed a further small decrease in the stock of the metal, the price of which last week was maintained at the year's record level previously established. The Steel Corporation's tonnage statement showed a reduction of 150,000 tons, which was less than had been expected. In actual output the current month at the present rate will exceed all previous records. The expansion in bank clearings continues, and from no important quarter comes any indication of anything in the way of a setback to the business growth which has been going on in a manner to justify the confidence in the outlook to which the business world began some time back to give expression.

THE MARKETS OF EUROPE

EUROPE HAS MONEY PROBLEM.

Question of Supplying Gold to New York Puzzles Financiers.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 14.—The money market remained firm throughout the week. The volume of the world's trade in the current year, according to existing indications, will exceed all previous totals, and this year Europe will not have the advantage of large American balances, which it enjoyed last year, as trade in the United States is now expanding. Indeed one of the problems which will have to be faced before long is how long will it be possible for Europe to supply gold to New York to meet the expanding currency requirements of the United States, having regard to the circumstances that it seems likely that there may be no period of very easy money this year.

On the Stock Exchange markets have been buoyant, with a substantial rise all around. The market received a momentary check on the Roosevelt success in Illinois, but believing it a flash in the pan the advance has since continued.

STRONG TONE IN PARIS.

Business in the Stock Market, However, Is Much Restricted.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, April 14.—As anticipated the firmness wherewith the Bourse closed for the Easter holidays was maintained this week despite some irregularity in certain departments, among which were Rios, which rose and fell several points daily.

The end of the coal strike in England, the activity of American markets, with no adverse factor in the external political world contributed to the maintenance of a strong tone. Business, however, continues restricted, the general public having withdrawn almost totally from the field during the week, while professional operators are awaiting the fortnightly settlement to be carried through before entering into fresh important commitments.

Money was expected plentiful, but contango rates were not so low as many desired.

Responding to the strong tone of Wall Street, Atchison and Reading rose a few points and closed strong.

BERLIN MARKET DEPRESSED.

Adverse Factors Increased by New York Banks' Decision on Loans.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 14.—Fears of dearer money, due to an increase in local rates and weakness of the New York market, caused a tendency to realizations and profit-taking to be the main feature of the week on the Berlin Boerse.

The Reichsbank's report, indicating a very slow rate of recovery, was also a depressing factor.

The market was still further affected by the decision of the New York banks to withdraw their balances on loan in Germany.

SCARCITY OF LABOR HAMPERS COKE TRADE

Prices for Crude Materials Unsettled, While Steel Sheets and Bars Advance.

HEAVY BUYING OF PIG IRON

Crude Steel Supply in Pittsburgh District Now Equal to Demand —Bar Iron Mills Busy.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, April 14.—Deliveries of crude steel are easier, and mills are meeting demands for prompt shipment of finished material more promptly than during March. The advances of $1 to $2 a ton in sheets and the hardening of steel bars by $1 a ton during the last week indicate the better price position of the trade. But crude materials, including pig iron, ore, and coke, have not yet adjusted themselves to the changed conditions.

The ore interests continue to be harried by the tremendous overstocks carried through the Winter, and prices are uneven and unsettled. The cokemaker must contend with a labor shortage and a wage increase that caught him unprepared, together with the demoralization of the bituminous coal trade of the Central States as a result of the failure of the mines to resume as promptly as anticipated. The pig iron trade is running largely on the high-priced ore stocks of last year, and is facing unexpectedly high prices for coke, combined with a threatened shortage of prompt furnace coke before the end of the present month.

Prosperity, as a consequence, has not begun at the bottom in the industry, but half way up the scale of crude and finished product. The output of coke in the Connellsville region for the week ended April 6 was 415,464 tons, which broke the record for weekly outputs for twenty-three months, the previous high point having been 425,000 tons for the week ended April 23, 1910. In contrast, the output for the week ended Saturday promises to be the lowest since the opening of this year, the coke workers of the Connellsville region, a large proportion of whom are foreigners, having abandoned their tasks for the first three days of the week to combine a celebration of the Easter holidays and their recently announced wage advance. The week's output is estimated to have been reduced 25 per cent. by this enforced suspension.

Coke leaped upward in price last month on the threat of a strike in the Pennsylvania bituminous coal mines, then dropped 50 cents a ton in four days on news of a settlement of the miners' dispute. Last week the threatened shortage of prompt supplies advanced spot furnace coke to $2.60 and higher, against $1.90 at the opening of March.

Contracts for April-May supplies of furnace coke were closed last week at $2.50 oven, as against $1.80, the contract level at the opening of March.

Heavy buying of pig iron and increased shipments into consumption characterized the pig iron market last week throughout the entire West. Pittsburgh district sold upward of 75,000 tons of steelmaking irons alone, while 40,000 tons of basic and Bessemer irons were taken up at points further west, a part of which will be supplied by the furnaces in this district. The largest single buyer last week was the Republic Iron and Steel Company, which took 40,000 tons of basic, following its purchase of 40,000 tons of Bessemer iron the week previous. The American Steel Foundries took 10,000 tons, and is asking for 10,000 tons more; two other steel companies in this district bought a total of 20,000 tons of basic.

The larger tonnages of basic sold at $13, furnace, even for deliveries into the third quarter, notwithstanding the open market quotation of $13.25 at furnace for that grade the previous week. On smaller tonnages, however, the new price of $13.25 was realized. A block of 20,000 tons of basic, from Ohio furnaces, taken by the Andrews Steel Company of Newport, Ky., for third quarter shipment, was obtained at $14.20 delivered at buyer's works, which is equal to $13 at Ironton furnace, or about $12.40 valley furnace. None of this iron, of course, comes from valleys. Sales of foundry and malleable irons during the week aggregated 15,000 tons, the ruling price for No. 2 foundry and malleable being $13.25 at furnace.

The output of crude steel has been brought up equal to demand in this district, as well as at Chicago. All open-hearth steel capacity in the West is now working, and prices are firmly on the basis of $20 at Pittsburgh mill for billets, $21 for crude bars. The call for billets from Pittsburgh district to help out the Chicago shortage has ceased, each district being able to supply its own market. The puddling mills have benefitted in the continued buying campaign, demand for refined iron bars having increased, with a corresponding advance in price. Bar iron mills are working at a heavier rate than at any time in two years.

NATIVE POTATOES SCARCE.

Maine Stock Selling at $4.50 a Bag and Foreign at $3.25.

The continued high cost of domestic potatoes is the feature of the New York produce market. Stocks of Maine and New York tubers are pretty well depleted, and receipts in the local market are rapidly falling off. Desirable Maine potatoes were offered at $4.25 to $4.50 per bag, (180 pounds,) and New York State stocks brought about 25 cents less. These prices are high levels for this time of the year.

In view of the difficulty of trading in domestic potatoes at current figures, the majority of dealers turned their attention to foreign offerings. European potatoes were in evidence in considerable quantity, and prices on the general run of them weakened slightly. English potatoes brought the best prices, they being quoted around $3.25 a bag.

Stocks of asparagus in the market were liberal, and were offered at prices ranging from $1.25 to $4 per dozen bunches. Buyers were apparently satisfied with these quotations.

The onion market was erratic. Owing to the lateness of the present season, holders were eager to dispose of old stocks at any reasonable figure, while new onions were in good demand at steady prices.

Cucumbers, tomatoes, eggplant, and kale were received in moderate quantities, and under the stimulus of good buying, advanced substantially. Supplies of cabbage, celery, lettuce, and spinach were in excess of the demand, and prices are said to have favored buyers in most cases.

WHAT FIRE COULD DO IN FEDERAL BUILDING

UNCLE SAM NOT ALARMED

And Is a Bit Hurt at Being Warned by the City Like Any Factory Owner.

The doubt that the Post Office and Federal Court Building is properly protected from fire, which was raised last week by Fire Commissioner Johnson, has called attention to the fact that thousands of records of great value are not adequately safeguarded. In the Federal Building are preserved all the records of the old Circuit and the present District Court and a number of documents which have come down from Colonial days that may yet be of inestimable value to the historian.

As the District Court began to compile its records as long ago as 1792, there is a goodly collection of them, and as day by day more are added to their number, the officials are put to their wits' ends to find receptacles where they can be in such shape that they can be easily consulted.

In the entire building are only two fireproof rooms. One belongs to the District Attorney's office, and in it are kept the books and papers needed for any cases which are under preparation or actual trial.

Then the Post Office also has a fireproof room, but this has been made strong rather in fear of burglars than of a conflagration. In it are kept at times as many as $1,500,000 worth of stamps and quantities of blank money orders, and to break into it would make the fortune of any yeggman. But it is constructed after the most approved burglar-proof plans, and it is guarded night and day by a force of armed men.

As a matter of fact, as far as the Post Office is concerned, a fire would not be an irreparable disaster. If the stamps and the money orders were burned, it would mean merely the destruction of so much printed and colored paper, and all the important documents are dispatched as soon as they are compiled to Washington.

Calls the Building a Menace.

But Commissioner Johnson takes the view that the present Post Office Building is a standing menace to the community by reason of its method of construction and its age. The Federal officials reply that the Post Office is in far greater danger itself of being set afire by a fire in one of the adjoining buildings than of starting a blaze on its own account.

Both the municipal and the Federal officials look askant at the row of old buildings stretching along Park Row from the Syndicate Building to Beekman Street, but the Fire Commissioner asks what chance would such structures have if the Post Office became a roaring, fiery furnace while the wind was from the west; and the Federal authorities suggest that it is only common sense to suppose such aged structures will sooner or later be afire, and it might not be possible for the Fire Department to preserve the Post Office if the wind were blowing from the east. In one sentiment, however, they are in thorough accord; that it will be a good thing for the city at large when the old structure is torn down and its site is thrown back into the City Hall Park.

The Fire Commissioner recently ordered an inspection to be made of the building, and came to the conclusion that it was singularly like the Equitable Building. The department has a lively recollection of what the fire there meant. Moreover, it knows that the Post Office has extensive cellarage, where, below the level of the street, 150 sorters are continually at work.

But what arouses in particular the criticisms of Commissioner Johnson is the unprotected state of the elevators. At each end of the northern side of the building is an elevator runing to the fourth floor with a stairway around it. Regarded as elevators they are something of curiosities, as they are oval in shape and probably carry more passengers than any other elevators in the city. But they have not even an iron grille to shut them off from the stairways, and if a fire started in the shafts the only reason why it would not shoot right up to the top of the building is that they are so exceedingly open that they might fail to produce sufficient strength of draft.

The Commissioner would like to see them inclosed with wire-glass, which, according to the modern science of fire prevention, is one of the most effectual of fire breaks.

Government Not Alarmed.

To all these criticisms the Federal authorities reply that they really cannot see that the building is in much danger of fire, if only the Commissioner will guarantee that it is not affected by a conflagration in some neighboring structure. Then, indeed, there might be a chipping and an exploding of the outside granite walls that would have most serious and dangerous consequences.

The corridors are flagged, the stairways are iron, and only the doors are wooden. The floors are of cement of great hardness.

When the Commissioner talks of the Equitable Building, it is admitted that the Post Office is almost its contemporary, but there, it is strenuously maintained, the similarity ends. The Equitable Building was closed every evening at about 6 o'clock; the Post Office is a hive of activity day and night, and the floors devoted to the courts are constantly patrolled. Finally, in the Equitable was a lawyer's club renowned for its cuisine, and in consequence a kitchen full of combustible materials, while in the Federal Building the only accommodation for lawyers is the library, the books in which even a fire would find it hard to devour. So the Federal authorities believe they can rest assured their building won't burn up of its own volition.

The present controversy arose through Commissioner Johnson's sending to Postmaster Morgan a regular "order" to make alterations and additions to the fire equipment of the building. He passed it over to Commander Alfred Brooks Fry, Supervising Chief Engineer of the Federal Buildings in this district, and he wrote back to the Commissioner respectfully calling his attention ot the fact that the Fire Department has no authority to issue any such order with relation to a United States public building standing on a Federal reservation.

The Commissioner in writing to Postmaster Morgan had used one of the ordinary forms which are sent out to the owners of factories requiring them to comply with the directions of the Bureau of Fire Prevention within so many days. It included, moreover, a stamped-in clause prohibiting smoking in the building.

To this Commander Fry replied that the building wasn't a factory and that he knew the law.

The result was that Commissioner Johnson wrote to Postmaster General Hitchcock acknowledging that he had no power to enforce compliance with an order, but calling attention to the fact that if the Post Office Building caught fire the Fire Department would be called to put it out.

But all concerned would be very glad to see the old building replaced by another. Senator O'Gorman has now before the United States Senate a bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the purchase of sites, and if this passes relief will at length be in sight.

PUBLIC UTILITIES INQUIRY.

Dr. John H. Gray to Head Investigation of Regulating Methods.

At a meeting of the Executive Council of the Civic Federation's Department on Regulation of Inter-State and Municipal Utilities on Saturday it was announced that Dr. John H. Gray, Professor of Economics at the University of Minnesota, who has made many special investigations for the United States Bureau of Labor, is to head an investigation designed to determine how far regulation of public utilities may go without interfering unduly with management.

Prof. Bruce Wyman of the Harvard Law School has been appointed counsel for the investigation. William D. Kerr, formerly of the Wisconsin Railroad Commission, and I. L. Scharfman of Boston, formerly Professor of English Law in the Imperial Pei Yang University, will also assist Dr. Gray. All the State and Federal public service laws will be compiled and "sliding-scale" and "profit-sharing" schemes in Europe will be studied. The investigation will cover telephone companies, steam and electric railroads, and water, gas, electric, and water power companies.

These are the various committees and their Chairmen: Rates, Franklin K. Lane; Control of Service, Martin S. Decker; Control of Capitalization, Milo R. Maltbie; Franchises, Blewett Lee; Accounts and Reports, Leo S. Rowe, and Ways and Means, Franklin Q. Brown. Emerson McMillin is Chairman of the department. The Executive Committee is composed mainly of Public Service Commissioners, railway Presidents and heads of other large quasi-public corporations, and representatives of those branches of organized labor that are employed by such corporations.

ORANGE PRICES DECLINE.

Disturbing Influence of Heavier Receipts Affected the Market.

A decline in prices quoted on California oranges, following several weeks of more than usual firmness, featured trading in the New York fruit market last week. The demand for this fruit was practically as great as that in evidence for the last month, but under the disturbing influence of heavier receipts, prices showed a slight falling off. Buyers continued to show a preference for medium-sized stocks, although fancy fruit of larger size was in good demand. Stocks of Florida oranges are nearly exhausted, but under the stimulus of a brisk demand, available stocks moved freely.

The market for Porto Rico fruits was irregular. Oranges and grape fruit retained their strong position, but pineapple prices declined somewhat under the influence of heavier shipments received. The market for Cuban fruit showed little change. The scarcity of fancy fruit marked the trading in apples. Desirable stocks were in good demand, and transactions recorded show prices to have been very favorable to sellers. The general condition of the fruit offered was bad, scald and other defects being noticeable. Quotations on Baldwin apples ranged from around $2.50 to $4.25 a barrel. Northern Spys in some instances brought as high as $5.50, and greening quotations ranged from $2.50 to $5.25.

Trading in Sicily lemons was erratic, the market slumping heavily toward the end of the week, after a strong opening. Offerings for the week approximated 70,000 boxes.

MEXICAN COFFEE MORE ACID.

For That Reason It Is Preferred to Rio on the Pacific Coast.

"Coffee consumed on the Pacific Coast differs materially from that used in the East and Middle West," says Robert Richert in The Los Angeles Hotel Record. "Every tourist and newcomer notes the difference at once, and the hotel man is frequently asked to explain this to his guests. The reason is that the coast market is chiefly supplied from the plantations of Mexico and Central America, while the chief source of supply for the remainder of the country is Brazil and other South American countries.

"Even the most casual coffee drinker can detect the difference in the taste of the east and west coast coffee; it is a native flavor, a twang, hard to describe but easy to detect. Technically, the difference is in the acidity. The west coast coffees of Mexico and Central America are more acid than the east coast South American product. When properly aged and properly blended this acidity is an added merit and gives the west coast product its character."

To Holders of
THE WABASH RAILROAD COMPANY

In view of the financial difficulties of The Wabash Railroad Company, and in view of the announced intentions and purposes of the Committees representing First Refunding and Extensions Mortgage Bonds of that Company, it has become important that the holders of the stock of the Company (Preferred and Common) should unite for the protection of their interests.

For this purpose the undersigned, at the request of holders of large amounts of the stock of The Wabash Railroad Company, have consented to act as a Committee under an agreement dated December 19, 1911, (a copy of which is on file at the office of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, Depositary, 60 Broadway, New York City), and request the deposit by stockholders of their shares, under said agreement, with said Depositary. Stock certificates so deposited should be properly indorsed in blank or be accompanied by properly executed instruments for transfer, and properly stamped so as to comply with the laws of the State of New York in respect to the transfer of shares of capital stock. Against such deposit there will be issued certificates of deposit therefor under the agreement above referred to, copies of which agreement may be obtained upon application to the Depositary.

Application will be made in due course to list the certificates of deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

TO THE HOLDERS OF

THE CALIFORNIA-NEVADA COPPER COMPANY

FIRST MORTGAGE GOLD BONDS.

Default having been made in the payment of coupons on a portion of the above issue of bonds and a receiver of the Company having been appointed, concerted action by the bondholders for their own protection has become imperative. At the request of a large number of bonds the undersigned have consented to act as a committee for the protection of bondholders.

A protective agreement is in course of preparation and copies thereof may be had at THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, 26 Broad Street, New York City, at any time after Tuesday, April 16th. You are requested to send your bonds for deposit under such agreement to THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, which has consented to act as depositary. A certificate of deposit will be returned to you forthwith.

The Committee has no connection with the existing control of the Company, or with any bondholders' committee organized in its interests. Its purpose is to protect those bondholders who are not identified with the present controlling interests.

Redeemable Gold Bonds of The Western Union Telegraph Company.

Notice is hereby given to all holders of the convertible four per cent. (4%) redeemable gold bonds of The Western Union Telegraph Company, issued under and pursuant to and secured by the trust agreement made by said The Western Union Telegraph Company, with the Bowling Green Trust Company as Trustee, dated November 26th, 1906, that The Western Union Telegraph Company, by action duly had by its board of directors, has declared its intention to and will pay off, cancel and redeem the whole amount of the bonds issued under and secured by said trust agreement, pursuant to the power and authority so to do contained therein; that the date fixed for said payment and cancellation and redemption is May first (1st), 1912, upon or prior to which date The Western Union Telegraph Company will deposit with the Equitable Trust Company of New York, New York City, as successor Trustee to the Bowling Green Trust Company, named as Trustee in said trust agreement, a sum sufficient to pay the principal of all of said bonds, five per cent. (5%) premium thereon, and the interest accrued thereon to May first (1st), 1912; that said Equitable Trust Company of New York, on said date, and thereafter as presented, will pay the principal of said bonds, five per cent. (5%) premium thereon, and the accrued interest to said date to the holders of said bonds respectively.

That said bonds will cease to bear interest after May first (1st), 1912, and that it is the intention of The Western Union Telegraph Company upon making such deposit and after said date, to have said trust agreement dated November 26th, 1906, cancelled and discharged by said trustee.

WHEAT GOES SOARING, LEADING ALL GRAINS

Winter Damage Apparent as Snow Blanket Melts, While Late Spring Aids the Boom.

BUYING ORDERS EVERYWHERE

Cotton Rushes Upward on News of Flooded Plantations and Trade Demand—Pork Growing Scarce.

The Government crop report proved to be a dynamite bomb for the grain markets. All through the Winter the market has been working on the idea that the marvelous covering of snow throughout the entire Winter wheat belt would prove to be not only a protection against further deterioration of any moment during the winter, but possibly of such value as to bring about an improvement in the crop conditions as reported in December. The December figures were lower than the average. The condition of wheat, as reported in December, was 86.6 compared with a ten year condition of 89.9. The December condition was, however, 4.1 better than the condition reported in 1910 from which the crop of last Summer was harvested—430,000,000 bushels.

The report issued Tuesday showed a loss of 6 points compared with the December figures, while the average decline for ten years during the Winter has been 3.3. The condition as reported now of 80.6 was 2.7 under the condition of a year ago and 5.5 under the ten year average. In comparison with last year, the April figures show a loss relatively of 6 points against a gain a year ago of .8, a net difference of 6.8 between the two crops as a result of the Winter season conditions.

Such a remarkable result considering the Winter conditions took the trade by surprise, and resulted in a complete reversal of attitude and a rush of buying orders such as has not been seen in several years. Prices went up from 1 to 4 cents a bushel a day, reaching the record quotations for the advance and for the season on Saturday, with an enormous volume of trading in all markets and most intense excitement. The Chicago May, which has been a cloud on the market for weeks, came to the front, advancing on Saturday 4 cents a bushel, with very heavy evening up of shorts, and violent fluctuations over a range of about 3 cents. As a result of the heavy advance in values one rather active Chicago house was compelled to transfer its trades. The May deal had been considered a dangerous one, but the excitement in the new crop deliveries seemed to be the exciting cause for the financial trouble.

The possibilities of the crop are extremely problematical as yet. The April report not only by the Government but the State reports and the private reports were made up just as the snow was going off the wheat, and practically before there had been any growing weather. The reports all agree, however, in a very low average condition in soft Winter wheat States. The soft Winter wheat States north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi show average condition of only 64.5, against 84.6 last year; Kentucky 70, against 89, and Missouri 76, against 91. Private reports have indicated possibility that the damage was not exaggerated in the Government report. Nebraska and Kansas show a high condition, Kansas being ten points better than last year, and Nebraska seven points better.

Interpretations of the Government report vary from about 409,000,000-bushel possibilities up to 425,000,000 bushels, allowing for the average loss in condition to harvest and the average loss in area Winter killed. Last year the crop was 430,000,000 bushels, and for five years the average Winter wheat crop has been 432,000,000 bushels. Some of the crop estimators were inclined to believe the amount of area Winted killed would be considerably in excess of the average, possibly exceeding the average by 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 acres. This, if true, would bring the possible crop of Winter wheat under 400,000,000 bushels. Even at the figures given it will require less than an average crop of Spring wheat to make a crop less than last year. The average crop of Spring wheat the last five years has been 227,000,000 bushels. Taking the Winter wheat possibilities at 415,000,000 bushels, which seems to be about the average of the estimates, it would give a total crop of 642,000,000, about 21,000,000 bushels in excess of the crop raised the past year. Of course any speculation as to the Spring wheat crop is pure guess work, as the ground is not even plowed in some sections. The American requirements are about 570,000,000 bushels, including seed. The total wheat crop last ear was 621,000,000 bushels.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market has reached prices the past week only occasionally seen in the corn trade. May corn in Chicago sold at 79¾c. on Saturday. This price has been exceeded only twice in twenty years. In 1908 cash corn sold at 82c. in Chicago and in 1902 cash sold at 88c. The steady advance in the market has carried prices up 10c. a bushel since the strong upward movement in values began. The movement upward was naturally stimulated by the great excitement in wheat and oats during the week, but even with the advance in corn it has only about kept pace with the price of other feed stuffs. Corn, with the exception of hay, is still the cheapest feed stuff, and even good hay is selling at almost the price of corn.

Corn prices at the close of the week were equal to about 1½c. a pound. Oats were 2c. a pound; mill feed, 1¼c. to 1⅝c. per pound, and good hay, 1⅛c. to 1½c. a pound. The relation of corn prices to other feeding stuffs has been maintained, and corn, notwithstanding the high quotations, is not relatively dear. The upward movement of the market has failed to bring about any increase in the country movement, possibly due to the delay in Spring work and the rush of farmers to get Spring work done. The primary receipts during the past week decreased 700,000 bushels from the preceding week and were about 900,000 bushels less than last year. On the other hand the interior shipments were 1,000,000 bushels more than the receipts exceeding the previous week by 700,000 bushels and exceeding last year by 600,000 bushels.

The supply of corn in the country, which was only 31.4 on March 1 of the entire crop, compared with 36.3, the ten-year average, was undoubtedly reduced during the month of March by the necessity of continued heavy Winter feeding, while the conditions so far in April, owing to the lateness of the season, have not been conducive to any material decrease in the volume of feeding. The amount of corn on farms is, therefore, without doubt, not only small, as shown by the Government figures of March 1, but has been further drained by the conditions of the last six weeks, notwithstanding the natural economy forced by the high prices.

OATS.—There has been a genuine scare in oats the last week, with an excited advance in the July delivery, over apprehension that the lateness of the season will preclude the delivery of new oats on July contracts, or, more specifically, make the season so late that they will not be available to supply any consuming demand during the month of July. Whether this is so or not will depend on the weather conditions during the next two and a half or three months and on the harvest weather conditions in July. Undoubtedly, the seeding in the Southwest has been very late. This was shown by the official report from Missouri, but the amount of oats raised in Missouri, Kansas, and the Southwest is a very unimportant total out of the whole crop. Reports from reliable crop experts in Nebraska stated that seeding was in progress there at just about the average date. What is true of Nebraska is probably true of Illinois and the Ohio Valley. The great bulk of the surplus crop is raised in the Ohio Valley, Iowa, Nebraska, and the Northwest. The weather the next two weeks will be very important.

The price of oats last week has been exceeded only twice in the past thirty years. In 1909 cash oats at Chicago sold at 62½ and in 1908 at 60¼. The movement of oats has fallen off heavily during the week at Western points, possibly due to the rush of farm work, decreasing 1,100,000 bushels from the preceding week, but even at the reduced total were slightly in excess of last year. On the other hand, the interior shipments were nearly 1,200,000 bushels in excess of the receipts, and about 900,000 bushels in excess of a year ago.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products has continued strong, although there has been no great excitement or activity. Quotations improved, making record figures for the season on Saturday, partly influenced by the strength in feeding grain and partly by the growing nervousness over the hog supply for the balance of the year. The packing for the past week showed a moderate decrease compared with the past year, and since March 1 the packing has decreased 220,000 compared with a year ago. The total to date has been 2,775,000. This, however, is not the serious point, as stocks of product are very large and the demand has been affected by the advance in prices. The real serious question is the question of the hog supply for sale during the Summer and the question of the young pig crop. This situation was brought strongly to the front by the Missouri State report on live stock for April 1, showing only 46 per cent. of the usual number of hogs on feed compared with an average year. This was credited to the scarcity of feed and to the ravages of the cholera. The more serious statement, however, was that showing only 67 per cent. of the average number of brood sows on the farm, while, owing to this condition and the severe weather the crop of young pigs was given at only 59 per cent. of normal. What is true of Missouri, is possibly true to a greater or less extent in other States, and brings up the question of the future supplies in a very forcible manner. Another item of considerable importance was the report that only 50 per cent. of the average number of cattle were on feed this spring.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Enhancement of values to the extent of approximately ⅛c per pound in the near positions during the week, and to a somewhat lesser degree in other deliveries, emphasized the spread of bullish enthusiasm concerning the merit of cottonseed oil prices. Leading speculative Western holders were identified on the selling side at various times but the selling and other pressure was readily cared for on a persistently advancing market. Reactions were ephemeral, so that high records were a matter of daily occurrence, with the list at the close of the week at its highest.

Several authorities concede that sentiment has actuated considerable buying and therefore accelerated the advances, but looming in the situation has been the inherent strength of crude oil at the South. The raw material has really led the advance, showing greater strength than even the near positions in the local future market, which feature continues to operate against active hedge pressure, although the basis for such operations shows a slight improvement. Contributing to the influences of the week there has also been the latent firmness of the lard market, while the excitement in grain has not been ignored. Moreover, weather conditions in the cotton belt were not interpreted bearishly, and while there were intermittent periods of satisfactory conditions, it was generally asserted that the weather has been far from propitious when the already backward operations are considered.

With the recent upturn in values, there has been some natural modification of bullish ideas, but this seemingly has not been at the expense of sentiment concerning ultimate levels. It is evident that there has been a great deal of profit taking by interests which would willingly replace at lower levels, unless there is an immediate and continued change for the better in the cotton situation, or unless lard values should depreciate materially in the near future. In the event of these factors materializing, they would undoubtedly revert on the consuming demand for cottonseed oil, but gauging the situation by the aggressiveness of bears interests believing in such occurences are in the minority. It is noteworthy that advocates of lower prices are seizing upon present levels as their principal argument at this time, just as during the early part of the season, the price constituted a basis for bullish operations. Meanwhile there have been declarations that the higher levels would inspire an increased movement of seed, but this has not been taken seriously by holders, their claims being that the condition of the seed would have to be reckoned with. Furthermore, they contend that even allowing for a 75 per cent. crush this year, an amount which is almost universally believed to be too high, there will be no important surplus of oil as compared with last season, when the distribution, past and prospective, abroad and at home is taken into account.

COTTON.

Literally uninterrupted, excepting for a moderate recession on Thursday, the trend of values was distinctly toward a higher level during the last week. The appreciation of values approximated ¼c per pound, with an increment again noted in the public participation. This class of buying was enormous in the aggregate, and the aggressiveness undoubtedly led to a retirement of a very considerable short interest, also permitting leading speculative holders to reduce their lines. A weakened technical position is generally conceded, but it is apparent that until the trade is convinced that weather conditions will be experienced of a character allowing the completion of farm work within the next few weeks bullish sentiment now prevalent will not subside materially.

The high waters of the tributaries of the Mississippi River have been the cause of further aggravation, although at this time there is still a wide divergence of opinion noticeable as to the actual destruction in the event of serious floods overspreading the fertile area of the lower Mississippi Valley. Moderate to heavy rains have been observed in the Central cotton States during the week and also in parts of the Eastern belt, but withal there has been a great deal of progress made in many sections where the operations were most backward, caused by the abnormally heavy precipitation and cold weather earlier in the season. Conservative and disinterested authorities admit of the seriousness of the situation, however, and still adhere tenaciously to the belief that if another large crop is to be raised, irrespective of the effects of prevailing levels on cotton acreage and the distribution of fertilizer, climatic conditions during the remainder of this month and in the immediate succeeding days will have to be well-nigh perfect.

The Union Trust Company of New York (established in 1864) has for many years made a specialty of Personal Trusts—under Will or under Agreement—and maintains a carefully organized department for handling them.

Many millions of dollars' worth of property—real and personal—have been entrusted to the company by conservative people, residents not only of New York State but of other states in which the Union Trust Company is authorized to transact business.

Correspondence or interviews with persons considering the formation of trusts of any kind—for themselves or for others—are solicited.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Office of
THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.
Detroit, Mich., April 2d, 1912.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of The Michigan Central Railroad Company will be held at the principal office of the company in the City of Detroit, Michigan, on the FIRST THURSDAY AFTER THE FIRST WEDNESDAY (being the 2d day) of MAY, 1912, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing Directors and to authorize the guaranty by that company of the principal and interest of consolidated mortgage bonds of The Canada Southern Railway Company to the aggregate amount of not exceeding $40,000,000 provided for in the lease of the Canada Southern Railway to The Michigan Central Railroad Company, dated August 15th, 1903, of which $22,500,000 are proposed to be presently issued and guaranteed for the purpose of refunding the first and second mortgage bonds of The Canada Southern Railway Company (amounting to $20,000,000) which mature January 1st, 1913, and March 1st, 1913, respectively, and to cover the cost of improvements made and to be made to its property; to authorize The Michigan Central Railroad Company to join in The Canada Southern Railway Company's mortgage to secure said consolidated bonds so as to cover its leasehold interest in that property, and also for the transaction of such other business as may be brought before the meeting.

The Poll will be opened at 10 o'clock A. M., and closed at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

By order of the Board of Directors.
DWIGHT W. PARDEE, Secretary.

To the Shareholders of The National Nassau Bank of New York:

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of THE NATIONAL NASSAU BANK OF NEW YORK have called a special meeting of the shareholders, to be held on Monday, April 22d, 1912, from eleven o'clock A. M. to 12 o'clock M., to vote upon the following propositions:

(a) To increase the capital stock from five hundred thousand ($500,000) dollars to one million ($1,000,000) dollars.

(b) To increase the par value of the present stock from fifty ($50) dollars to one hundred ($100) dollars.

Upon such increase of capital it is proposed to issue new stock at one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars per share to shareholders of record at the close of business April 19th, 1912, to the amount of one hundred per cent. of the par value of their present holdings. Each holder of two shares of the present stock (par value $50) will be entitled to subscribe for one share of the new stock (par value $100) at one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars per share, payment to be made on or before the 15th day of May, 1912. For the purpose of this meeting the books will be closed from the 19th to the 23d day of April, 1912.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

FACE BRICK

Water having penetrated through the joints to the back of a wall built of bricks that are too non-absorbent, works its way to the interior wall surfaces. Seepage, sweating, condensation, and interior evaporation produce a condition of continuous saturation on such walls. This trouble is avoided where Hydraulic-Press Bricks are used. 500,000,000 made annually.

MORTGAGE LOANS.

BE WISE.

We advise you: Never deal with brokers who want appraisal fees in advance; they have no money to loan and nobody ever gets anything but disappointment.

We do not "try" to procure the money, always have unlimited funds on hand; never without it. Loans made quicker than all others.

DEAL DIRECT—SAVE MONEY!

In N. Y., N. J., and Conn., on 1st, 2d, or 3d mortgages on improved property or vacant lots, $100 to $1,500; lowest rates.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The western storm centre has moved to Southern Minnesota, but low pressure continues generally over interior districts, except in the Northwest. There will be local snows or rains Monday in the Northwest States and the northern upper lake region, and showers over the southern upper lake and the lower lake region, the Upper Ohio Valley, and the Atlantic and East Gulf States, followed by generally fair weather Tuesday, except in the Northeast districts, where showers will probably continue. Over the central portion of the country, the Southwest and extreme West, the weather will be generally fair Monday and Tuesday. It will be somewhat warmer Monday in the interior of New England and the Middle Atlantic States, followed by falling temperatures Tuesday or Tuesday night.

The winds along the New England Coast will be southeast and south, becoming brisk; Middle Atlantic Coast moderate to brisk, southeast to south; South Atlantic Coast moderate, east and southeast. Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have moderate to brisk southeast and south winds, with unsettled, showery weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

Eastern New York—Showers and warmer Monday; Tuesday showers, cooler by night. Moderate to brisk east to south winds.

New Jersey—Showers Monday or Monday night and probably Tuesday, slightly warmer Monday, moderate east to south winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Monday or Monday night and probably Tuesday; slightly warmer Monday, cooler Tuesday, east and north portion; moderate east to south winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	49	40	4 P. M.	55	47
6 A. M.	50	40	6 P. M.	56	47
9 A. M.	52	48	9 P. M.	55	44

BANKRUPTCY SALES.

CHARLES SHONGOOD, U. S. AUCTIONEER for the Southern District of New York in Bankruptcy, by direction of the Receiver and pendent to the order of this court, will sell the property of the bankrupt which is described below, at public auction on Thursday, April 25th, 1912, at 10:30 A. M., at the Cafe Madrid, 1,551 and 1,553 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan.

The property to be sold consists of all the right, title, and interest of the receiver in and to the assets of the above named bankrupt as follows:

A.—Leaseholds of premises at the northwest corner of Broadway and 46th Street—known as Nos. 1,551 and 1,553 Broadway—and 201¼ and 201½ West 46th Street, together with the building on the said premises.

B.—The unexpired term of about 8½ years, a lease of a certain part of the cellar or basement space of the building (known as the Globe Theatre) adjoining the aforementioned premises on the north.

C.—The furniture and furnishings, carpets, draperies, tables, ice boxes, ranges, kitchen utensils, crockery, glassware, linen, cash registers, and all chattels now in the restaurant known as the Cafe Madrid and belonging to the bankrupt; the large and assorted stock of imported and domestic wines, liquors, meats, groceries and miscellaneous supplies, and the unexpired term of the liquor tax certificate and the all-night license pertaining to said premises and the good will of the business lately conducted on the premises by the bankrupt.

The property may be inspected on the premises on any week day between 9 A. M. and 12 noon.

Further information regarding the terms of sale, &c., may be obtained from the undersigned receiver or his attorneys.

HERE ARE FULL PLANS OF PULITZER SCHOOL

RALPH PULITZER ON BOARD

Admissibility of Women Is Left Open—Fees to be $180 a Year, and First Class Is to be Limited.

The Pulitzer School of Journalism of Columbia University will begin its career Sept. 25 next with a complete programme of study in all four years of the undergraduate work. The entrance requirements will be broad, successful completion of the full course of study will qualify students for the degree of Bachelor of Literature, and women, it is announced, will not be eligible to pursue the work, for this year at least.

These and other important features of the new educational venture at Columbia became known yesterday with the publication by the Administrative Board of the school's preliminary announcement. The course of study which has been adopted is essentially the one suggested by the late Joseph Pulitzer, who endowed the school with $2,000,000.

The curriculum will have two main objects in view, that is, "to give to the students a sound general education; and to give specialized technical training which will fit them for begining the practice of their profession." In general, the so-called technical subjects are to be offered principally in the third and fourth years, the subjects of the first two years being largely academic.

The Four-Year Course.

The following course, spoken of in the catalogue as a "typical curriculum," is announced as the programme of study:

FIRST YEAR.

	Hours a Week.
Introductory course in English	3
Newspaper French or German	3
Natural science (general course)	3
Epochs of history	3
American politics and government	3
Introduction to philosophy, or a language, or a science	3
	18

SECOND YEAR.

Journalism A (a practice course in writing)	3
Economics (introductory course)	3
General survey of English literature	3
General survey of American literature	2
Laboratory course in modern European history (based upon current European newspapers)	4
American history (general survey)	3

THIRD YEAR.

Journalism B (continuation of Journalism A)	3
Newspaper technic (newsgathering and preparation of copy)	3
Modern European literature	3
Statistics, Government reports, &c., first half year; social and industrial history, second half year	3
American political parties and platforms	3

FOURTH YEAR.

History of journalism	3
Newspaper technic and laboratory work	7
Elements of law (with special reference to the law of libel)	3
Labor and trust problems	3
	16

In future years it is intended to offer other advanced and specialized courses in municipal government, finance and banking, music, fine arts, literature, magazine work, religious, technical, and scientific journalism, and similar subjects.

All Students Must Use Typewriters.

A feature of the new school is the requirement that all students will be expected to do their exercises in the professional courses on the typewriter, and in the new building now being erected on South Field facilities for this purpose will be afforded. There also will be laboratory and practice rooms in connection with the technical courses. As at present planned, these will be on the first floor. The floor above will provide a reference library at the Broadway end of the building, and at the other end a newspaper reading room, in which the students will be given access to the leading journals of this country and of Europe.

It is announced that in the courses on politics, economics, and modern history extensive use will be made of newspapers as sources of information, and that newspaper reading will form an important part of the training in the French and German courses of the first year.

Test at Entrance on Second Year.

A test which every student will have to meet before he will be given his degree is an examination as to his ability to read a French and German newspaper. "In general," says the announcement, "this condition must be satisfied before the student enters on the professional studies of the second year.

How nearly the curriculum laid down by the Administrative Board proceeds along the lines suggested by Joseph Pulitzer may be seen from an essay by him published in May, 1904, in The North American Review. Therein he outlined the subjects that should be taught in his proposed school. He suggested a training in English style and the essentials of law, with special emphasis on the law of franchises, monopolies, common carriers, labor, and capital. He would have had courses also in ethics, history, with attention to political history and the history of journalism; a study of truth and accuracy, sociology, economics, arbitration, statistics, modern languages, especially French and German, the former for the training in lucid expression and the latter for value as a medium for all other languages and literatures, and, finally, as the climax of the course, he proposed a study of the news.

The much-mooted question of the admission of women to the school has not yet been finally determined, but enough has been done to bar women for the present from the regular undergraduate course which leads to the degree. The announcement disposes of the matter in this wise:

"Pending the completion of the building for the school, women can be accepted only for those courses which are open for graduate credit."

As the building will not be ready for use till the Fall of 1913, this means in effect the exclusion of women from the technical journalistic courses, at least until September, 1913.

Examinations for entrance to the School of Journalism will be similar to those now given by Columbia College. The prescribed subjects are English, history, and French or German, the total requirement being 14½ or 15 units of High School study. Discretionary power, however, has been given to the Director to admit as a non-matriculated student any one who submits evidence of maturity, experience, or marked fitness.

Two Main Classes of Undergraduates

There thus will be two main classes of undergraduates: (1) Matriculated students who have passed the entrance examinations and are following the regular programme of studies prescribed for the degree of Bachelor of Literature, and (2) non-matriculants admitted as of marked fitness under the discretionary power vested in the Director. It will be possible, however, for the non-matriculated students to become candidates for the degree by taking the prescribed work, and maintaining an average grade of B or higher for the first two years. Non-matriculated students will have the choice of doing this, or of taking special courses without reference to a degree, subject to the approval of the Director.

The announcement strongly recommends students who have the time to take the combined A. B. (or B. S.) and B. Lit. Such students will receive the degree of A. B. (or B. S.) after completing four years' academic work (two in the College and two in the School of Journalism). This is an arrangement similar to the combined college and professional courses offered in engineering, medicine and law.

Students who come to the School of Journalism after having taken a bachelor's degree at Columbia or another university in the course of which they passed with credit through courses which fit them for the final year's work, will be allowed to take the B. Lit. in one year, on the completion of such studies as may be necessary in the opinion of the Director, subject to the approval of the Administrative Board.

Students' Fees to be $180 a Year.

The regular fees for candidates for a degree, it is announced, will be reckoned on the same basis as in Columbia College, and will amount to about $180 a year; students taking partial work will pay $7.50 per weekly hour of instruction for each half year. It seems that the number of students admitted during the first year will have to be limited, because the school will be required to seek accommodations in various university buildings pending the erection of its own plant. Consequently, in admitting students during the first year special consideration will be given to men who have had practical experience before entering the school, and students, it is announced, will be urged to take advantage of the opportunities afforded for practical work by college and other newspapers.

The bulletin of the school states that, in addition to the Director, Dr. Talcott Williams, and the Associate Director, Dr. J. W. Cunliffe, several journalists of experience have accepted positions on the teaching staff, and that also occasional lectures will be given by members of the Advisory Board and other leaders in newspaper work in this country and in Europe.

Advisory and Administrative Boards

The Advisory Board and the Administrative Board, the two governing bodies of the Journalism School, as finally constituted, are as follows:

Administrative Board—Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the University; Talcott Williams, L.H.D., Director and Professor of Journalism; John W. Cunliffe, D.Lit., Professor of English and Associate Director; Frederick P. Keppel, Litt.D., Dean of Columbia College; William P. Trent, LL.D., D.C.L., Professor of English Literature; Henry R. Seager, Ph.D., Professor of Political Economy; James T. Shotwell, Ph.D., Professor of History; Ashley H. Thorndike, Ph.D., L.H.D., Professor of English, and Charles A. Beard, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Politics.

The Advisory Board was established and appointed in the will of Joseph Pulitzer. The name of Ralph Pulitzer, the donor's son, appears now for the first time in the board. Under the will only one representative was given to The New York World, but by a vote of the Advisory Board Ralph Pulitzer was admitted to membership. Neither The New York Herald nor The New York Evening Post is represented on the board, although by the terms of Mr. Pulitzer's will these papers could have been.

TAKES TWO BIG INTRUDERS.

Small Man, Notified by Burglar Alarm, Rejects a $25 Bribe.

The automatic alarm in Central Office No. 2, of the Holmes Electric Protective Company, at 518 Broadway, rang about 6 o'clock last night and Supt. John Baker read from the indicator that it came from the jewelry shop of the A. Singer Silversmiths Company, on the fourth floor of 177 Grand Street.

Most of the inspectors were out at dinner, but John Henderson, a rather small, slight chap, was in the office and Baker sent him to investigate the alarm. Henderson put a marker in the book he had been reading to record the place, and started out of the office. Half an hour later he returned ushering two big men ahead of him.

"Here's what was causing the trouble, Mr. Baker," he explained.

It was more from the men than from Henderson that Baker finally drew the story of their capture. They had been hard at work on the door leading into the jewelry shop when they started the alarm ringing in the office. They were still at work on the door when Henderson let himself into the building with a pass key and mounted the stairs so silently that neither man heard him until he flashed his electric pocket light in their faces and exclaimed:

"Hands up!"

The men looked around then, but gazing into the brilliant torch, they could get little idea of the size of the man behind it. There was no way to escape except to pass him. They had entered the place from the fire escape, which is in front of a window opening into the hall, and this they had broken.

"Can't we square this thing?" asked one of the men. "We'll give you $25."

"That alarm rang and you're the only excuse I'll have to offer for why it rang," responded Henderson. "You've got to come along with me."

The tone of his voice and the perfect assurance in his manner was enough to persuade the men that they would have to obey and they did.

Policemen were sent from Headquarters and they brought the men back with them. They said they were Harry Scharfman of 222 West Twenty-fourth Street, and Jacob Resnick of 22 West 118th Street. They were locked up charged with attempted burglary. Neither of the men has a criminal record.

HOUSEFURNISHING EXHIBITS.

Plans for the holding of semi-annual exhibitions of housefurnishings, crockery and glassware have taken definite form, and announcement is made that the first of these shows will be held at the New Grand Central Palace from Aug. 22 to 31. The exhibitions will be held in February and August of each year and will be strictly business shows. Admission in business hours will be limited to buyers and dealers in the associated lines, and the belief is prevalent in the trade that these exhibitions, coming at a time when Spring and Fall buying is heaviest, will mean materially increased business.

The convention of the recently organized National Housefurnishing, Crockery and Glass Association, composed of more than a thousand representative traders in these lines throughout the country, will be held while the Fall exhibition is in progress.

Miss Annie Fields Alden Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

METUCHEN, N. J., April 14.—Following an operation for cancer, Miss Annie Fields Alden, eldest daughter of Henry Mills Alden, the veteran editor of Harper's Magazine, died at her home here at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Miss Alden had been a prominent charities and church worker. She was an active member of St. Luke's Episcopal Church. Last summer she visited her friend, Mrs. Spencer Trask, at Lake George, and since that time had been constantly under the best medical aid in the country. The funeral service will be in St. Luke's Church on Tuesday at 2 P. M., and burial will be in the plot where her mother is buried in Hillside Cemetery.

Trout Season to Begin May 1.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—The open season for brook trout, except on Long Island, hereafter will begin on May 1 instead of April 16. Gov. Dix has decided to sign to-morrow the Jones bill, which makes this and other important changes in the fish and game laws, according to a statement to-day by Seymour Van Santvoord, legal adviser to the Governor.

RELIGION FORWARD FIGHT COMMENCES

Great Hippodrome Throng Hears Raymond Robins Preach Gospel of Social Service.

THE CHURCHES MUST AWAKE

Will Lose Their Hold Unless They Join Battle to Better Industrial Conditions, He Declares.

A religion potent enough to save the lost, better existing social conditions, give to the people the natural resources that are being withheld from them, and bring to the workers a fair wage, was the message of Raymond Robins, miner, social worker, and preacher, the principal speaker at the opening meeting of the Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign in Manhattan. Three thousand men crowded the Hippodrome yesterday afternoon at the first meeting in this borough. President John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York presided, and on the great stage were seated more than 100 men interested in the movement.

The other speaker was J. Campbell White, long a worker in the foreign mission field. His subject was "The World's Call for the Gospel." Every time the speakers made some telling point the great audience would break into applause.

Raymond Robins spoke in the language of the street rather than in that of the pulpit. He described the Judgment Day, when the sheep will be placed at the right and the goats at the left. He told of a conversation between "Chicago" Louise, a character well known in the Chicago slums, in which she lived, for her many kindnesses, and God; her surprise in finding herself among the sheep, and the protest of the "Hon. John Johnson, President of the State National Bank and a church worker," upon finding himself herded with the goats.

He declared that religion was more than a belief in a beautiful condition to be followed by a reward some time hereafter. The Bible, he said, is to-day a power for a living good, and the Ten Commandments are as much in force as in the days when they were given to the people, he declared.

"Society will be redeemed," he said, "by the redemption of man, and everywhere men are waking up to the fact that they have a part to play in the bringing about of better conditions. I believe in a religion of social service. Jesus Christ did and he took his part in the affairs of our common life.

Strange Voices In the Land.

"This country is now under a greater strain than it ever endured before. The pillars of the Republic are bending with that strain. There are strange voices arising in the land, which call upon us to meet the problems of the day with hate and class division. I have known men, employers who in their bitter antagonism to labor were helping to engender this class hatred and the spirit of unrest and desperation. And again I have seen laboring men who because of their hatred for the employer and the conditions of labor give way to violence. I know, for I have worked at the hardest kind of work. Do you know what it is to be out of work? To be willing to work, to have strength, youth and skill to offer and find no market for them? Seeking for work and not finding it; willing to sell labor for bread? This condition if imposed upon a considerable number of men for a period of ten weeks will make more enemies for our institutions, more enemies of religion and the power of Jesus Christ than ten years of soap box oratory."

Mr. Robins said that religion should make one interested in pure food, sanitation in the tenements, edcuation and the police—indeed, in every question which affects the moral condition of the people. He touched upon the police as moral guardians of the children of the poor. He assailed "cold storage Christianity" and urged that unless the churches awake to the fact that they must make the fight for better industrial conditions in the Republic they will suffer. They are waking up and the men are beginning to come into the fight, he said.

"Unless the Church can come out," he declared, "with voice and power and patience enough to meet these problems, it cannot retain its hold. The problem today is this: Is there any power in our God, in our Christ, in our splendid churches, that can give to the men toiling in the steel factories, to the women in the sweatshops, forced to sell their bodies to live, any hope?

"We want to see it brought about that this Nation, under God, shall guarantee the opportunity of a decent life to every child born under the flag. It was for that purpose that the Master died. He wanted to save the world."

Awakening in Foreign Fields.

Mr. White told of the needs in India, Japan, and Asia, where he has traveled, and of the spiritual awakening going on in the foreign field. While the heathen has many gods, he said, unchristian religion is like the giving of salt water to a man dying of thirst. As he spoke he took up a prayer wheel he had bought from an Indian priest, and as he twirled it about he told his audience of praying by the wheel.

"Some people think that missions aren't succeeding," he said, "but the fact is it is the most successful enterprise carried on in the name of Christianity. Three thousand are converted every seven days, so that since last Sunday our missionaries have gathered in as many people as there are gathered here to-day. If that is failure, it is the kind of failure we want in America. The real problem isn't in China, or Japan, or Asia. It is in evangelizing the Christian."

In the evening mass meetings for men, with ten-minute addresses by "team experts," were held in the West Twenty-third Street Presbyterian Church, the Mount Morris Baptist Church, Fifth Avenue, near 116th Street, and the Prospect Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in the Bronx.

As a part of the Men and Religion Forward Movement the relation and duty of the Church to the boy was discussed at the Madison Avenue Reformed Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, last night. The speakers were William Alberti Whiting and Justice Willard Olmsted.

Fire Destroys Part of Beckley.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 14.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed a large part of Beckley, W. Va., county seat of Raleigh County, early to-day, causing a loss of more than $200,000. The fire swept the business section.

WOMAN CHOKED BY A TUBE.

Coroner's Physician Declares She Must Have Been Murdered.

Weary and a little bored from a whole day's play in the streets and feeling the need of a little petting after a hair's breadth escape from the wheels of a monster street car, at nightfall yesterday 4-year-old Annie Cucinello toiled up the four flights of stairs in the house at 232 East Twenty-ninth Street and cried for her mother. The whimpering of the child that soon rose to loud wailing attracted the attention of a neighbor, Mrs. Pollicido, who went to the dark flat, struck some matches, and a moment later was flying down the stairs, calling to the policeman at the corner that Rose Cucinello had been murdered.

The woman lay dead on her bed, with the sheet over her face. A slender length of rope was wound three times around her neck, with the knots at the back tightened by the insertion of the nose of a syringe. An empty water bag was fastened to the wall above, and the rubber tube was wound around the neck and clinched there by a Sicilian knot, so tight that it alone could explain the strangulation from which the woman died.

The theory that she had committed suicide, bolstered by testimony from several quarters that it had been her recently avowed intention to kill herself, was lavishly entertained at the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, but Coroner's Physician Lehane scouted the idea and could see nothing but murder in the case. She had been dead for several hours, he said.

The detectives learned that the woman's husband had left her several years ago, and that her son had gone his own way last Fall. They found this son, but neither he nor any of the neighbors could throw any light on the case, and all the Italians in the tenement house swore up and down that they had seen nothing and heard nothing.

Meanwhile, after the investigation had been going on for several hours, official attention was turned upon little Annie, who stood forlornly in the centre of the station floor, stolidly uncomforted by the proffered cuddling of the motherly matron, and refusing even to be diverted by the most zealous efforts to amuse on the part of Tom, the station cat. The Children's Society was waiting for her, and finally, with one grimy fist combating the tears that would come, she gave the other to a patrolman, who led her away down the street.

KILLS HIMSELF ON STAGE.

Michael Mintz, Bowery Theatre Manager, Puts Bullet Through Temple.

Michael Mintz, lessee and manager of the Lipzin Theatre in the Bowery, which is named after Mintz's wife, Mme. Lipzin, shot and killed himself on the stage between the matinée and the beginning of last night's performance at the theatre. Frank Coren, Treasurer of the theatre, said that the oppression of the Jewish Theatrical Union caused Mintz's suicide. It was learned, however, that Mintz was heavily in debt, and was unable to pay the salaries in the theatre, which closed for the season yesterday.

Mintz had been dining in the dressing room of Sarah Pearlman, as was his custom on Sundays, and left her at the table to see why some lights were left on the stage. She heard the report of a shot, and ran onto the stage, where she found him on a couch used by the night watchman. He was shot through the right temple and the bullet had torn out his left eye. He was hurried to Gouverneur Hospital, where he died.

Mintz came from Russia 31 year ago, and had been owner of The Jewish Daily Herald, which afterward became The Warheit. He lost control of it just as the paper began to make money. He had been at the Lipzin Theatre for three seasons and had made money. He lost most of it, however, when he brought the actress, Mme. Kaminsky, here. She was a failure.

MISSING TROY GIRL FOUND.

Policeman Arrests May Akins and Boy Companion in Brooklyn Park.

May Elizabeth Akins, 14 years old, who has been missing for the last two months, and for whom a general alarm was sent out on March 12, was found walking in Carl Schurz Park last night with a young man who said he was James Graffagino, 19 years old, of 123 Evergreen Avenue, Brooklyn. After the police had questioned the two they sent the girl to the Children's Society, and Graffagino was locked up on a charge of abduction.

The girl came to this city nine months ago from Troy with her parents, who took an apartment at 354 East Ninety-first Street. She got work as a nurse girl in the Bronx, but did not return to her home one night two months ago. Her parents could find no trace of her, and have since moved back to Troy.

Kitty Boyle, daughter of the matron of Carl Schurz Park, saw three or four youths walking with the missing girl yesterday. She recognized May, and told Arvid Nelson, a process server, to call a policeman. Nelson told Policeman Harris, and Harris arrested May and Graffagino, who appeared to be the oldest of her companions. Graffagino said he met her three weeks ago, and did not know a general alarm had been sent out for her.

APPROVES BELMONT PLAN.

Gov. Marshall of Indiana for Full Light on Campaign Expenditures.

Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana has written to Perry Belmont approving the latter's plan for publicity of campaign expenditures. The Governor says:

> It is now nearly three years since I said to you that I was in favor of the utmost publicity touching campaign expenses, and that, too, before the election. I desire to give whatever little aid my opinion may be worth toward your movement to require all candidates for the nomination for Presidency, and all political agents and instrumentalities working in their behalf, to publish, prior to the convention, a full, complete, and detailed statement of every dollar received, the source of such receipt and the way in which the money was expended.
> I should be glad to further second an effort to require a showing as to whether any promises had been made of official appointment, either by the candidate himself or by any persons connected with his candidacy. You could not make a law too stringent to suit me.

Stern, Barr & Tyler Attorneys, as Assignees of John Brown—formerly 481 5th Ave., sell us his entire stock.

A 5th Ave. Tailor's Stock at ⅓ Cost

$75 Fifth Ave. Suits to Order $25

John Brown, late Croney & Lent, was a 5th Ave. tailor of international reputation. He never charged less than $75 a suit, and at that, his price was right.

You never saw handsomer fabrics. There are unusual shades of blue, gray, brown, all this season's designs—exclusive patterns that actually sell themselves. You simply can't resist them. And each piece of goods imported. Even the linings and trimmings came from abroad.

And our tailoring and fitting is commensurate with the high quality of these materials.
